IT PAYS TO SHOP AT AMES - EVERYDAY

- one gallon of "Spruce Green" flat house paint (acrylic latex) to paint the back house and loft.

Two days after I bought two gallons for $12.99 (a very good price), the paint went on sale for $8.99 per gallon (with a $2.00 rebate) or $6.99/gallon: a savings of $6/gallon, which is incredible!

APRIL 1988

NO REGRETS

by Barbara Zapp

PASTOR TO PEOPLE

When we are conscious of the news, we soon become aware of how easy it is to take a life. One pull on a trigger, one plunge of a knife, one careless move with an automobile, and someone's life can be gone. In fact, sometimes one can be ever so careful and ever so innocent, but just like that he/she can be a spectator or even be the instrument of someone's dying. That's all part of the natural life.

Let's think for a minute about Jesus. He voluntarily gave his own life that we might live. I think of him as a life giver rather than a life taker. He said, "I am come that they might have life, and have it more abundantly (John 10: 10)." By trusting him each one of us has found life. If you haven't, why not trust him today?

One further thought is that you and I can be life givers. Christ has sent us into the world to be the bearer of the good news. What is that good news? -- (1) that Jesus Christ is alive from the dead, (2) that He died for our sins, and (3) that if we believe in Him we will have eternal, everlasting life. I want to be a life giver, don't you?

Your interim pastor,

Lee Ppase

Isn't it great at the end of the day

To look up at God and be able to say,

Dear Lord, I hurt no one today.

But isn't it sad if instead you must say dear Lord I hurt someone today.

I drove the nails a little bit deeper

And forgot that I was my brother's keeper.

But isn't it better when the day is done to know you've injured no one.

From the time of your awakening till you lay down to sleep,

Remember the promise that you should keep

To love one another as He loves us too

And you'll never regret any good that you do.

AMERICA FOR CHRIST OFFERING

The America for Christ offering was received throughout the month of March. Bereans gave a total of $234.12 this year.

Bible Facts

A prisoner, condemned to solitary confinement, obtained a copy of the Bible and by three years of careful study, obtained the following facts: The Bible contains 3,880,489 letters; 773,692 words; 31,173 verses; 1,189 chapters, and 66 books. The word "and" occurs 46,277 times. The word "word" occurs 1,855 times. The word "reverend" occurs but once, which is in the 9th verse of the 111th Psalm. The middle verse is the 8th verse of the 118th Psalm. The 21st verse of the 7th chapter of Ezra contains all the letters of the alphabet except the letter J. The finest chapter to read is the 26th chapter of the Acts of the Apostles. The 19th chapter of 11 Kings and the 37th chapter of Isaiah are alike. The longest verse is the 9th of the 8th chapter of Esther. The shortest verse is the 35th verse of the 11th chapter of St. John. The 8th, 15th, 21st and 31st verses of the 107th Psalm are alike. Each verse of the 136th Psalm ends alike. There are no words or names of more than six syllables.

DAVE AND CHRISTY MENEELY

Two letters from Dave and Christy Meneely were received in late March 1988. They are shown herebelow.

March 22, 1988

Berean Baptist Church
Carbondale, PA 18407

Dear friends of Berean Baptist,

If I were on top of things as I've been trying to get caught up with correspondence I would have had the sense to include a note with the letter I just sent to you yesterday to thank you for the transmission (personal gift) of $424.00 that you sent to us via Valley Forge [and was recorded there on 2/1/88] as well as your designated support during 1987. We need to thank you for all of your caring!

As perhaps you have heard by one way or another, my father, Arthur Meneely, went to be with the Lord on February 23rd. It is with sadness that I write this, but with a joy and peace - knowing that he is praising the Lord with all of his might even now, & will for eternity! Mom is doing well. Her faith is strong. Even though, that does not mean that there are no tears or adjustments. But so many people of the Church community have been supportive - especially at this time. For that we are grateful!

Thank you for caring about us with your prayers!

Sincerely, By His Grace,

EASTER FLOWERS

Again this year, the Beacon Class took charge of purchasing and adorning the Sanctuary with Easter lilies. After the Morning Worship Service, the lilies were taken to the shut-ins of the Church. Some of the flowers were given in loving memory of Mildred Stone (by Delilah Briggs), Thelma Chubb (by Cedric Chubb), Richard Markey (by Thelma Markey), Mr. and Mrs. John Larson (by Mr. and Mrs. Larry Larson). The beautiful cross of silk flowers was given by Andrews Jewelers. The Church was beautiful on Easter Sunday. Thank you Beacon Class and Andrews Jewelers.

Berean Baptist Church
51 North Church St.
Carbondale, PA 18407

Dearest friends,

Greetings in the name and in the love of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ!

We pray that God will richly bless you in this season in which we celebrate the new life that is ours in Christ Jesus! "Yandi kele awa ve; Nzambi me tedimisa yandi na lufwa..." [He isn't here; God raised him from the dead...]. -- translated into English from the Kituba language -- Luke 24:6] Because Jesus lives -- we can walk in newness of life; we can live eternally to His praise.

We are not writing to preach -- that's just a force of habit. We just want to praise the Lord!

As most of you know, we have been in the United States since last summer while on medical leave from the work in Zaire. Christy's auto immune disease seems to be progressively getting better. Each day there is new strength and healing. The liver specialist projects that she will need to be on medication at least through next October. That will need to be followed by an additional period of at least six months to monitor her immune system to make sure that it is back to functioning properly. But, for now, things seem to be going in the right direction toward her recovery. And, how is this all happening?

We believe very strongly that it is because of the many prayers that you have offered up on our behalf. God brought us to the U.S. at precisely the right time: not too early, nor too late. He put us in contact with the right medical personnel to treat the disease as far a human understanding can take things. And, He's healing Christy even now because you continue to hold her in prayer! The battle is not over yet; so, don't stop praying!

Thank you very much for your designated support of $2,700.00 to us in 1987 -- particularly when there is so much more emphasis on giving to United Mission Basics! It has not been an easy year. -- And, in so many other positions, or, with so many other boards, we would have long since been out on our own looking for a job. But, we feel well loved and cared for by the American Baptist Churches -- particularly by you who care so much to support us through your mission dollars!

This all is very humbling! Thank you! God Bless You!

Sincerely, In Him,

John & Christy

4444 W. Lawrence Ave.
Chicago, Illinois 60630

PLEASE READ THIS IMPORTANT LETTER CAREFULLY.

Dear Friend:

When you took out your VIF (Variable Individual Protection) policy, we explained that premiums change on each policy anniversary.

Our rate experts say it's better to do it this way than to set higher rates that would last for several years. I'm sure you agree it's better to keep the premium as modest as possible each year.

The premium change is based on each member's age, where you lived when you took out the policy, and on government figures that show the changes in medical costs since last year.

Your new rate is shown on the enclosed premium notice and also on the Schedule Page. Please detach the premium notice on the dotted line, and send it with your payment. Then attach the Schedule Page to your policy.

The Schedule Page shows the new premium for each member and any changes made since last year. If an insured child has reached age 18 since you took out your policy, the adult premium is now in effect. If you'd like a separate policy for this person, please let us know. We'll take care of it right away.

Your insurance is a fine value. It helps guard you against today's high costs for health care. Be sure to keep your protection in force. Keep your policy standing by, ready to help.

Mrs. Esther Forsberg
Route 3, Box 451
Kettle Falls, WA 99141

Dear Esther:

Thank you for the letter that your mother's Aunt Julia wrote to your mother on August 26, 1904.
It is a very interesting document and I shall show it to all family members at this year's Reunion.

Thank you, in addition, for the January 3, 1988 issue of GRIT, with the article ("Heart Castle Mania", p. 21) about Julia Morgan.
I will also display the article at the Reunion in August 1988.

It was very nice to have your sister Mabel and her daughter Betty and family at the 1986 Griswold Reunion. We look forward to return visits to Pennsylvania by the West Coast branch of the Griswold family.

after an especially cold winter (too many days of  $-20^{\circ}\text{F}$ temperatures), Spring has finally taken hold. The daffodils are just now coming out. What a joy! What a triumph!

Sincerely,

S. Robert Powell

ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON

ULYSSES

Written in October, 1833; published in 1842. Tennyson's first dramatic monologue on a classical theme is characteristic in its use of a universally familiar mythic figure and of an antique frame for modern and personal feelings, and in its elevated style. The Homeric Odysseus' motive (though he did sojourn with Circe and Calypso) was to get home to Ithaca and stay there. But the Odyssey itself (XI.100-37) foretold death at sea, a hint somewhat developed in later writings, and in Dante (Inferno, XXVI.90 ff.) he makes a fatal voyage into the unknown west in search of knowledge. While for Dante Ulysses is a type of pride (and deceitful counsel), for Tennyson, stricken by the death of Hallam (of which he received word on October 1, 1833), he represents the courageous facing of life—though resolution and fortitude are touched with weariness and despair. The poet's own comment, apropos of In Memoriam, was: "There is more about myself in 'Ulysses,' which was written under the sense of loss and all that had gone by, but that still life must be fought out to the end. It was more written with the feeling of his loss upon me than many poems in 'In Memoriam.'" (Nineteenth Century, XXXIII, 1893, p. 182; cf. Memoir, I, 196.) The poem is placed in its long tradition in W. B. Stanford's The Ulysses Theme (1954), pp. 202-04.

It little profits that an idle king,
By this still hearth, among these barren crags,
Match'd with an aged wife, I mete and dole
Unequal laws unto a savage race,
That hoard, and sleep, and feed, and know not me.<sup>o</sup>

I cannot rest from travel; I will drink
Life to the lees. All times I have enjoy'd Greatly, have suffer'd greatly, both with those That loved me, and alone; on shore, and when Thro' scudding drifts the rainy Hyades Vext the dim sea. I am become a name;
For always roaming with a hungry heart
Much have I seen and known, — cities of men
And manners, climates, councils, governments, Myself not least, but honor'd of them all, —
And drunk delight of battle with my peers,
Far on the ringing plains of windy Troy.
I am a part of all that I have met;
Yet all experience is an arch wherethro'
Gleams that untravel'd world whose margin fades
For ever and for ever when I move.
How dull it is to pause, to make an end,
To rust unburnish'd, not to shine in use!
As tho' to breathe were life! Life piled on life
Were all too little, and of one to me
Little remains; but every hour is saved
From that eternal silence, something more,
A bringer of new things; and vile it were
For some three suns to store and hoard myself,
And this gray spirit yearning in desire
To follow knowledge like a sinking star,
Beyond the utmost bound of human thought.

This is my son, mine own Telemachus,
To whom I leave the scepter and the isle,<sup>o</sup> —
Well-loved of me, discerning to fulfil
This labor, by slow prudence to make mild
A rugged people, and thro' soft degrees
Subdue them to the useful and the good.
Most blameless is he, centered in the sphere
Of common duties, decent not to fail
In offices of tenderness, and pay Meet adoration to my household gods,
When I am gone. He works his work, I mine.

There lies the port; the vessel puffs her sail;
There gloom the dark, broad seas. My mariners,<sup>o</sup> Souls that have toil'd, and wrought, and thought with me, —
That ever with a frolic welcome took
The thunder and the sunshine, and opposed

Free hearts, free foreheads, — you and I are old;
Old age hath yet his honor and his toil.<sup>50</sup>
Death closes all; but something ere the end,
Some work of noble note, may yet be done,
Not unbecoming men that strove with Gods.
The lights begin to twinkle from the rocks;
The long day wanes; the slow moon climbs;<sup>o</sup> the deep

Moans round with many voices. Come, my friends,
'Tis not too late to seek a newer world.
Push off, and sitting well in order smite
The sounding furrows; for my purpose holds
To sail beyond the sunset, and the baths<sup>60</sup>
Of all the western stars, until I die.
It may be that the gulfs will wash us down;
It may be we shall touch the Happy Isles,<sup>o</sup>
And see the great Achilles,<sup>o</sup> whom we knew.
Tho' much is taken, much abides; and tho'
We are not now that strength which in old days Moved earth and heaven, that which we are, we are, —

One equal temper of heroic hearts,
Made weak by time and fate, but strong in will
To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield.<sup>70</sup>

ULYSSES. 5. Cf. Hamlet, IV. iv. 35. 23. Cf. Hamlet, IV. iv. 39.
34-43. In view of Tennyson's early and prolonged concern over contemplative detachment versus social responsibility, the latter might seem to be fulfilled by Telemachus, but in this poem the issue is rather between giving up and going on. 45 ff. In Homer, Odysseus had lost all his comrades by the time he reached Ithaca; in Dante, he sails westward from Circe's island, so that they are still with him. Tennyson obviously needs to have them.

54-55. The . . . climbs: Homeric voyages commonly begin in the evening; here the accent is on the evening of life. 63. Happy Isles: Elysium. 64. Achilles: Arthur Hallam?

Marcel Proust, je pense à vous...

Deux moments proustiens m'ont enveloppés récemment:

- 1) on Saturday <sup>morning</sup> as I helped SVB with the tree cutting operation and clean-up in Maplewood Cemetery, I suddenly was transported back to the Fall of 1984 when the Dubermiak family came out to Elkdale and cut down the trees that were crowding the former Elkdale Baptist Church — the stimulus (olfactory) that carried me back to 1984 was the smell of the <sup>"fresh"</sup> sawdust in the sunlight.
- 2) on Sunday afternoon as I painted the hen house, the smell of the "paint" carried me back to Chris and Bill Farhood's apartment on W116th St.

in NYC; Joel Block & SRP helped the Parboes paint their apartment in the early 1970s.

In both instances, involuntary olfactory memory caused the return. This was not the first time that I have smelled
"fresh sawdust in the sunlight" since 1984 nor was it the first time I have smelled
"paint" since the early 1970s, but it was the first time that I have been similarly "transported" by those two smells since 1984 & the early 1970s, respectively. Very interesting and very pleasant.

Proust and his "linden flower tea" — SRP and "fresh sawdust in the sunlight" & "paint."

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Wazen:

Howard Yepson turned over to the Historical Society today the bag of Carbondale items that you so generously donated to the Society. Thank you very much.

The "1851 Semi Centennial of Carbondale, Pa. The Anthracite City Sept. 1-4, 1901" medal is a treasure. Such medals are very scarce. The one that you have donated is the only one that I have ever seen that is complete with ribbon and upper metal attachment pin.

The Mozart Band 50th Anniversary Banquet (August 5, 1926) ticket and the Cramer photograph of a gentleman holding a brass instrument will be added to our growing collection of Mozart Band memorabilia. Do you by chance know the identity of the man in the photograph? Similarly, do you know the name of the school in the photograph of the school children. We have a fairly large collection of such school photographs and we always try to determine the name of the school and, if possible, the identity of as many of the children in the photograph as possible.

The six framed post cards are very interesting. You may have noticed that the view of Fall Brook Falls is incorrectly identified by the publisher of the post card as Packet Brook Falls, Carbondale. The two Scranton wooden nickels are not only very choice items, they are also in mint condition.

Thanks to the generosity of thoughtful and public spirited persons such as yourselves, the Carbondale Historical Society is slowly, but surely, forming an important collection of artifacts from Carbondale's rich history. Please accept our thanks for your generous donation.

Sincerely yours,

S. Robert Powell

Dear Customer:

The United States Mint has received and processed your order for 1988 U.S. Olympic Coins.

On behalf of the Olympic athletes, we thank you for your support. As you may know, the U.S. Olympic Team receives no direct subsidies from the U.S. Government. The team is dependent entirely on contributions from individuals and groups in the private sector. This is not the case for the teams of many other nations. Your purchase of U.S. Olympic Coins is a way to demonstrate your very real support for our team and their winning traditions.

As we indicated in our promotional material, all UNCIRCULATED coins ordered during the Pre-Issue period will be shipped by the time of the Olympic Games in September 1988. Because of the meticulous care and effort required in producing PROOF coins, it will take longer to mint enough to fill all orders and have them available for sale during the Summer Olympic Games. We are committed to strike and ship to mail order customers 200,000 proof gold coins and 750,000 proof silver coins by the time of the September 1988 Games.

If you ordered more than one option, they will be shipped separately and at different times. Your order may also be shipped in multiple packages as the number of items we ship per package is limited to five. We will be shipping every product as soon as it becomes available.

If you do not receive your coins by the end of September, you will receive a letter indicating our scheduled shipping date for your order.

Please refer to the customer and order numbers in the upper right-hand corner of this letter if you need to contact us. Thank you for your order and support of the United States Olympic Athletic Program.

"persistent" & not "persisting"

Dear Shareholder:

PLEASED

We are pleased to present the annual report on the operations of Dean Witter Natural Resource Development Securities for the period ended February 29, 1988.

During the past twelve months, commodity prices generally trended higher. This trend was not only a reflection of a continuing legitimate recovery in prices from some of the excessive declines which occurred in 1986, but was also a result of persisting unrest in the Mideast as well as fears of an acceleration in the rate of inflation. [not necessary]

These commodity price increases had a predictable, positive impact on the common stock prices of natural resource companies. Your Fund remained relatively fully invested throughout the twelve month period. As a result, we are pleased to report that your Fund produced a 7.3% total return for the period with dividends reinvested. In contrast, common stocks in general, as measured by the S&P 500 Index with income included, produced a negative total return for the same period.

Additionally, we are pleased to report that net assets under management in your Fund more than doubled during the fiscal twelve months. Net assets at the beginning of the fiscal year were $82.8 million and rose to $172.1 million on February 29, 1988.

We have devoted a great amount of time and effort to maintaining the quality of securities owned in the belief that the higher quality companies would better survive any potential crisis. While we cannot predict the future, we continue to believe that many of the quality natural resource common stocks are relatively undervalued. Consequently, we are patient and relatively fully invested.

We look forward to continuing to serve you and your investment needs. If you have any questions concerning your investments, please feel free to contact us.

Dear Mr. Powell:

Thank you for your recent comments regarding the Dean Witter Natural Resource Development Securities Trust Inc. financial report recently mailed to shareholders.

Typographical and editing errors appeared in the latest report to shareholders. Despite the firm's efforts to produce high quality reports, errors are infrequently discovered after the final printing and distribution occurs.

Accept our apologies for the oversight. Your continued interest in the Dean Witter mutual funds is appreciated.

Sincerely,

another of a series of wonderfully happy days. "If only the remainder of my life were filled with nothing but days such as today"—such was my thought on more than one occasion in the course of the day. Everything is going along very nicely and no "clouds" are in sight — all is well with SPP personally, with the garden, with Elkdale, with my precious birds, with all of my various philanthropic pursuits and community projects / endeavors.

Purchased 11 gallons of white paint today and will soon begin

4/12/88 - 2

the painting of the Church at Eekdale.
It seems that I should be able to get the job done without difficulty - on terra. Planted about 50 iris "bulbs" today in the garden - in nests of about 7 in each grouping.
These bulbs came to me from around the BBC Passage in Carlisle, also planted 8 philox roots in the garden - 6 more will be planted tomorrow after school. The gardens are growing nicely and all of the perennials are well under way.

The daffodils are all poised and ready to open - and the first one (a Lord Alfred, or is it King alfred) will open tomorrow.

4/12/88 - 3

The seeds that <sup>recently</sup> ~~dis~~planted in trays (and which are in apt. 3 in 1 & 2) are now beginning to grow: antherum, coreopsis, 2innis, perennial sunflower, and others are all doing nicely. They are in the apartment next to the butterfly house and I'm sure that the bees are collecting the delicious trays of dirt from their perch above and next door, as it were. Connie and Jack Dubermiak stopped for a 20-minute "tour" of "the farm" at about 7 P.M. - very pleasant. Connie finds the Columbian and Silver-faced Wyandottes to be especially beautiful. So do I. I released <sup>on</sup> the orpington cock and he walked with me on the tour. He is quite tame and loves all the attention that he attracts to himself. He now crows as I lead him under my arm <sup>on occasions</sup> as I make my rounds. I sometimes put him on the roof the hen house and he immediately becomes a living and crowing weather vane. Very charming. He and the Buttercup cock are arch rivals, of course, and they are very interested in attacking each other. I, of course, make sure that they never get together. Rural pleasure! I have an insatiable appetite for them.

one year ago today, Donald's disgusting estranged wife blinded him in one eye by hitting him with a metal pole. She did so deliberately and with malice in mind and I shall never be able to forgive her for having done so. To the best of my knowledge, she has never even shown the slightest amount of remorse for having done so. It would be grand if I were to never again lay eyes upon her or hear her name spoken. Donald ought to institute legal proceedings against her for damages and make every effort to have her imprisoned.

RE: order # 753767

J. E. Miller Nurseries
Canandaigua, NY 14424

Gentlemen:

I am very impressed by the products and service of Miller Nurseries. The phlox collection (GP-808C) that I recently received from Miller Nurseries appears to be wonderfully vigorous: very substantial and healthy root system. I have high hopes for these phlox roots.

Also, the tree protectors that you sent in January have saved my young fruit tree from winter damage by rodents. I am very impressed.

In addition, the catalogue

(" Please find that Shovel ... ") that was enclosed with the pablo roots is a treasure. It is filled (as you know) with a wealth of very useful - and hard to find - gardening information.
Congratulations to John Miller.

I look forward to receiving all Miller Nurseries catalogues.
Thank you.

Sincerely,

Mr. Steve Mikloiche
600 Clinton Street
Vandling, PA 18421

Dear Steve:

At the request of Miss Alberta J. Mihelc (Elkdale, PA) and Mrs. Kathryn Wells (Naples, FL), I assumed the duties of the Secretary/Treasurer of the Elkdale Cemetery Association on January 4, 1988.

Even though we have never met, I know who you are from having seen you at work in the Elkdale Cemetery for several years, and you know me as the person who lives in the former Church building next to the Elkdale Cemetery.

Your conscientious and careful work is a great asset to the Elkdale Cemetery, and I hope that you are interested in working in the Cemetery again this Summer. Please let me know, by April 20th, if you will be available to work in the Elkdale Cemetery again this summer. My phone number at Elkdale is 679-2979 and my mailing address is shown at the top of this letter.

Sincerely yours,

Robert Powell

*Steve's mother stopped at Elkdale and said that her son would cut the grass again
this summer.
Excellent news.*

4/14/88, 5:35 P.M.

Steve Mikloiche's mother stopped at Elkdale and told me that her son (age 27) would be available to cut the grass, once a month, in the Elkdale Cemetery again this year. She also reported that her son works for Torch Lumber (in Simpson) and that her son's wife will graduate as an R.N. in one month. It was a very friendly 10-minute visit.

at the time that I accepted the position of Secretary/Treasurer of the ECA, Alberta Michels told me that Steve's mother was interested in the position. She was very polite and civil and deferential in her manner — in spite of the fact that I was appointed Secretary / Treasurer and she was not.

The first cutting will be done in May, as usual. Steve maintains the Cemetery's lawn mowers and grass whip and will submit a bill for the annual "tune up" when he submits his bill for the first cutting.

by Kenneth A. Lockridge, 1970

(read, 02-05-1988 — 04-15-1988)

- a pre-industrial, rural, village society, organized around the principles of autonomy, exclusiveness and unity.
- p. 50 - order was the highest political value in the 17th c.
- p. 153 - the first prerequisite of a gentleman, a distinguished family history.
- p. 169 - In the depths of the American experience lies a craving for peace, unity, and order within the confines of a simple society.

p. 176 — ... earliest New England began as a uniquely isolated, small, simple, devoted, united, corporative, orderly, and perhaps authoritarian society, a society characterized by an unusually intense utopian impulse which pervaded both the religious and civil establishments.

p. 179 — In American history as in the history of any nation the future came inadvertently, indirectly, and slowly. Layer was added to layer, they intermingled, and out of the mixture came the future, sometimes in the most unexpected ways. There has never existed the straightforward erosion of a pure past by a pure future.

THE CRYSTAL BAND

William Congreve once wrote "Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast, to soften rocks, or bend a knotted oak." For one hundred and nine years The crystal Band has been carrying on a tradition of presenting fine music to the community. Performing at various times throughout the year, including a series of outdoor summer concerts this modernized town band has been instrumental in promoting the universal language of music.

During the summer of 1975 the Band discovered that music knows no language barriers when it traveled to Romania on a three-week tour and presented a series of twelve concerts to large and enthusiastic audiences.

Originally organized as a boys brass band, The Crystal Band has always provided the opportunity for amateur and professional musicians to develop their musical abilities under capable leadership at little cost to themselves. The present band consists of 36 musicians, ranging in age from 13 to 80.

Since its organization, many dedicated musicians have contributed their talent and enabled the Band to promote programs and activities unparalleled by any other musical organization in Northeastern Pennsylvania. The success of The Crystal Band, in large part, has been due to the leadership abilities of various individuals who have been directors and have discharged their duties with dedication and integrity. The present director, H. Earl Brink, has served in that capacity since 1958.

Membership in the Band is open to anyone who is interested in playing and promoting good concert band music in the community. The Band rehearses every Monday evening from 7:30 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. in the Trinity Baptist Church, 1546 Monsey Ave., Scranton, PA. from October through May of each year.

The Officers and Members of The Crystal Band wish to extend a very warm welcome to everyone present at our concert this afternoon. It is our sincere hope that you will find this concert both inspiring and enjoyable.

The Band extends their sincere appreciation to the following who have made this concert possible: our advertisers, sponsors and patrons for their financial support; the North Pocono School District for their gracious cooperation, especially, Mr. John Buscarini, Mr. Joseph Castrogiovanni, Mr. Anthony Graci and Betty Vogelbacker; the local media for extensive promotional coverage; and everyone whose time and support have helped to make this concert a success. Also, very special thanks to the members of the band for the giving of their time and talent and to everyone who furnished transportation to rehearsals and concerts regardless of the weather conditions.

WELCOME

The Board of Directors and Officers of The Crystal Band want to welcome everyone who is present at our 30th Annual Spring Concert Anniversary Dinner and Alumni Celebration. We sincerely appreciate all of the support that everyone has given to make this evening possible.

We especially wish to thank all of our returning alumni for being a special part of our celebration. We have been privileged to have had an outstanding group of musicians as part of our Crystal Band family. It has been with great pride that you have allowed us to share your accomplishments, both in person and by questionnaire. We are indeed grateful for each and every musician, both amateur and professional, who have been members of the Band during the 30 years. Without you, there would be no need of a celebration this evening.

We would also like to thank all of our present band members for their warm welcome to the alumni and for all of their dedication and support during the past year. Together we made a dream become a reality.

H. EARL BRINK

During the past 30 years, The Crystal Band has had the good fortune to have been under the direction of a very talented and dedicated man - namely, Mr. H. Earl Brink. Under his leadership, the Band has grown into the finest amateur band in Northeastern Pennsylvania. He has freely given of his time and talent to share his love of music with others. It was during the summer of 1975 when that willingness to share took Earl and the Band on a three-week concert tour of Romania - a trip which is still fondly remembered today.

Earl's musical accomplishments are not limited to the past 30 years nor to The Crystal Band. His loyalty and dedication have been given to numerous musical endeavors. Some of his accomplishments include: Director, Asbury Concert Orchestra; Director, Dan Beard Council Boy Scout Band; Assistant Director and 1st Sergeant, 48th Armored Regiment Band; Assistant Director and 1st Sergeant, 14th Armored Division Band; Director, 109th Infantry Regiment Band; Director, R.O.I.C. Band, University of Scranton; and Choir Director, Moscow United Methodist Church.

Earl resides in Moscow, PA and is a member of the Moscow Methodist Church. He has one son, Donald, who also has been an active member of the Band for the past 30 years, and he is also the proud grandfather of two lovely granddaughters.

Almanac

by David Ludlum

TWO FULL MOONS

Moon lovers should be happy this May: The month will see two full moons. The Full Flower Moon will occur on May 1, and the Full Planting Moon on May 31. A dual appearance of the full moon is not really a rarity; we have two in one month on an average of every 2.72 years—or every two years plus seven to ten months. All the calendar months can have two full moons except February because the shortest possible time between full moons is 29.27 days, or slightly more hours than February has even in a leap year.

WEATHER-MAP CHANGES

The arrangement of high and low atmospheric pressure features on the weather map, as indicated by the barometer, undergoes seasonal changes as the month of May progresses. There is a general shift northward of the high-pressure zones of the tropics to the southern temperate regions, resulting in shifts of storm tracks and changes in the daily weather. In general, storms cross the oceans and continents at higher and higher latitudes as the month proceeds, and the belt of settled weather associated with the tropics covers the Gulf of Mexico, Texas, and the southern states.

For the weather of the western

United States, the high-atmospheric-pressure center in the Pacific Ocean becomes dominant. It has moved northeast from its winter position just north of the Hawaiian Islands, and now its mean axis lies along 32 degrees north, off northwest Mexico with an arm protruding northeast to Oregon. This position shunts storms from the Gulf of Alaska eastward over northern British Columbia and spares our Northwest from the stormy onslaughts characteristic of winter.

In the Atlantic Ocean the Azores-Bermuda high-pressure area is larger and stronger and has moved west toward North America. Its mean axis has shifted northward approaching its summer position along 40 degrees north, or east of New Jersey and the Delmarva Peninsula. In turn, the Greenland-Icelandic low-pressure center diminishes in energy and shifts its center to a position south of the tip of Greenland.

The jet stream, too, is found at more northerly latitudes during May. Since the energy of the jet diminishes as temperature contrasts lessen, storms are neither as violent nor as long-lasting as in later winter and early spring. Over much of the United States local influences causing showers and thunderstorms, along with an occasional tornado, take control of our weather during this month.

The "Ice Saints of May" were so named because they regularly brought the last fling of winter with cold and snow on May 11, 12, and 13, the anniversaries of Saints Mamertus, Pancras, and Servatius. Thereafter, good weather without freezes is generally assured in our temperate latitudes.

city. He had no remaining circle of friends, no regular employment, and his only certain income was a small allowance from his family. He finally found a stopping place in the village of Heiden, Switzerland, where he made some new friends. One of them ran a hospital, which Dunant entered in 1892, and in which he spent the last 18 years of his life.

Dunant Rediscovered

A young Swiss journalist found out in 1895 that Dunant was living in a Heiden rest home and got permission to interview him. The resulting article was widely printed. Once Dunant had been rediscovered, he again began to receive messages of respect and honor, as well as some gifts of money. In 1901 he was one of two recipients of the first Nobel Peace Award. From that time forward he did not lack attention, and he stayed in touch with the outside world as much as his health permitted. He died at Heiden on October 30, 1910. The anniversary of his birth, May 8, 1828, is now celebrated as World Red Cross Day.

Dunant's Power

Dunant remains a mysterious person, despite the pages written about him. As a boy he was quiet and spent his time mainly in study, in enjoying family picnics, and in taking solitary walks in the lovely country around Geneva. As he grew older, he exhibited personal magnetism. He could stir people to enthusiasm by his writing and private talks, although none of the projects in which he was interested turned into a permanent occupation.

For an idea to attract Dunant, it apparently had to be something grand and almost impossible to achieve. Surely, the basic ideas behind the Red Cross looked impossible enough to suit the most idealistic to muster and train volunteer help in peacetime; to get national governments to agree on neutral aid to the wounded; to protect medical and nursing personnel; and to furnish necessary relief supplies. Also, the ideas that appealed to Dunant had an international flavor. In his early maturity he worked with groups that sought to draw young men of all nations into a Christian union. He was influential in the founding of the international YMCA, which had its first meeting in Paris in 1855. At other periods he was interested in projects for the bringing together of Christians and Jews, for the founding of Jewish settlements in Palestine, and for promoting international peace. Dunant was brought up a Protestant and was early led toward piety and good works, in which the example of his mother was particularly strong. As a young man, he belonged to the Geneva League of Arms and worked to relieve poverty and illness. In his old age he disclaimed membership in any particular church. "I am a disciple of Christ, as in the first century, simply that," he wrote.

Nothing in Dunant's early history, however, prepared him for the realities of war. The casualties of Solferino shook him to the depths and brought on the "craving" mentioned in the following passages from his great book.

The moral sense of the importance of human life, the humane desire to lighten a little the torments of all these poor wretches, the furious and relentless activity which a man summons up at such moments, all these create a kind of energy which gives one a positive craving to relieve as many as one can.

The moral energy of Dunant made him the prophet of the Red Cross. His craving to bring relief to humanity in pain has made itself felt throughout the world.

The force that drew many men and nations together in the Red Cross movement was supplied by Henry Dunant of Geneva, Switzerland. He is often spoken of as the founder of the Red Cross and in one sense of the word he was. He was not, however, an organizer, or a public figure. He was a private citizen who accidentally became acquainted with the human wreckage caused by war.

The Battle

In 1859 Dunant was traveling in northern Italy. He was a young business man of 30, and he had only one object in view — to get the support of the Emperor of France for a business project in Algeria. The fact that the emperor was then leading his army against the army of Austria did not deter the enthusiastic young promoter. He did not see the emperor, but he could not escape seeing the casualties left by the Battle of Solferino, where the French victory over the Austrians left 40,000 dead and wounded on the battlefield.

On the day of the battle Dunant had arrived in the nearby town of Castiglione. He joined in the work of relief, sent his coach to bring supplies, and wrote to his friends in Switzerland for aid. He labored for 3 days at his unfamiliar task. Then he returned home, never again to be just like the young man who had set out to discuss a business deal with an emperor. Solferino changed Dunant.

The Book

If Dunant had merely helped the wounded, the world would probably never have heard of him, but he had to go farther than that. What he had seen gave him conscience no rest. He resolved to write an appeal against such terrifying inhumanity, as he had witnessed, on the chance that he might move people to prevent or to reduce the suffering of soldiers. The result was A Memory of Solferino (Un Souvenir de Solferino), printed in Geneva in October 1862. This famous book, mailed by the author to influential people throughout Europe, excited them beyond all expectation.

Dunant was not present at the Battle of Solferino itself, but he collected information that enabled him to write an accurate description of it. To this he added his eyewitness story of the deserted battlefield and of the makeshift hospitals of Castiglione. The closing pages he devoted to the questions and proposals that held the germ of the Red Cross movement. He emphasized the need for trained volunteers and the necessity for international cooperation for the sake of humanity.

The distribution of the book was the first step in arousing international interest. Further concern was stirred up by the personal correspondence and private conversations of Dunant, in each of which he was unusually persuasive. The power of his book was always behind him to be drawn upon. One passage supplied the phrase that was to be repeated again and again as an expression of the Red Cross ideal: "Tutti fratelli." Dunant reported that the women of Castiglione treated all the wounded alike, though they came from many nations, because, as the women said, "Tutti fratelli," which means, "All are brothers."

Dunant put his finger on what was needed next. Merely exhorting people to be humane is not enough. There must be preparation for relief. The whole problem lies in serious preparation for work of this kind, and in the actual formation of the proposed societies.

Move Toward Organization

Dunant was not an "organization man," but one of the readers of his book was the head of a group engaged in local relief work. He was a fellow townsman of Dunant, the chairman of the Geneva Society for Public Welfare, Gustav Moynier. He placed Dunant's proposals before his society on February 9, 1863, and became the chief force that would shape Dunant's vision into an organization. The society approved the appointment of a committee of five men to continue work on Dunant's material.

This committee, which later at Moynier's suggestion called itself the "permanent international committee," decided to call an international conference in Geneva. The committee was chaired by General Dufour, Switzerland's leading soldier; the secretary was Dunant, the other members were Moynier and two physicians, Dr. Appia and Dr. Maunoir. These men laid the groundwork for an international humanitarian agreement, the Geneva Convention, and for the related system of national societies now known as Red Cross societies.

Conference of 1863

The international conference met in Geneva on October 26, 1863. Thanks in large part to Dunant's preparatory work, it was attended by delegates favorably disposed toward the proposals of the committee. In all, 36 people attended, including representatives from 14 European countries. The conference had two important results. It increased the influence of the organizing committee; secondly, it produced resolutions for consideration by governments and possible approval by a diplomatic conference. At its final session the conference declared that Monsieur Henry Dunant . . . and the Geneva Public Welfare Society . . . have deserved well of humanity, and earned . . . universal thanks.

Diplomatic Conference of 1864

The diplomatic conference met in Geneva on August 8, 1864, with 24 delegates attending from 16 governments. The United States sent observers, who made their influence felt in favor of the proposed treaty through informal talks with the delegates. Drawing on the experience of the United States Sanitary Commission during the Civil War, the American observers showed that a volunteer organization could work effectively with the government in accordance with the principles Dunant had proposed. The conference agreed on the terms of the first Geneva Convention and agreed also that the symbol of the movement should be a red cross on a white background. Dr. Appia, of the founding committee, wore this symbol on his arm for the first time during the Prussian-Danish War of 1864. In time the whole movement became known as the Red Cross, and the organizing committee took the name of the International Committee of the Red Cross.

Decline of Dunant

The decline of Dunant almost from the moment of his greatest success is the most amazing fact of his amazing story. The Geneva Convention placed in international law the main ideas of which he was the prophet. What next? He was secretary of the founding committee, but committee affairs were in the hands of Gustav Moynier. His business prospects were not improving, and he had spent a great deal of strength, time, and money on the promotion of his humane ideas.

By 1867 Dunant was bankrupt, had resigned from the committee, had exiled himself from Geneva, and had begun wandering from city to

Five years ago today, I returned to Pennsylvania to live. A wise decision and one that I do not at all regret. In fact, I sometimes congratulate myself for having the courage to quit my job at Salomon Brothers and "put myself out on a limb" here in the country. If I were to describe the 5-year period just ended, I would say that it has been one of consolidation, organization, realization and, of course, freedom. Consolidation and organization:

I have gone through all of my personal papers and words and have made significant steps towards preparing them for the future; at the same time, I have described in my journals the processes involved as well as virtually everything else that has entered my mind. Realization: make your dreams a reality and do it now;

4/20/88, p. 2

don't put it off, because the clock continues to tick away: live as simply and elegantly as possible, the gardens, the tipplers, the poetry. Freedom: SRP as the master of his own destiny (to the greatest extent possible); I will not sacrifice my life to someone else's objectives/ideals/needs/desires/aspirations, and as I lead my life, I will describe my life. For whom? For me and for those who after me (the living) will live." Frère humain, qui après nous vivrez... " —

François Villon. On Monday, I happened to be in Clark Summit (I wanted to see what Young chicks & ducks and such were on sale at the Agway there) and while there, I went into

4/20/88-p 3

Lusala's and the other new stores in the newly completed shopping center there. In so doing, I had the impression that I was one of the members of a New Guinea tribe who, on stepping to the edge of the rain forest, chances to see a space ship being launched into outer space. My life and the style of my life are as remote as they could possibly be from the life and the style of life of Clark Summit — or should I say — the life and the style of life of Clark Summit as as remote as they could possibly be from my life and the style of my life. Clearly over 99% of the world regards "them" as "normal" and "natural" and "me" or

"abnormal" and "un-natural." I, of course, regard them as abnormal and un-natural, and regard myself as perfectly normal and natural.

Clearly they are in the majority and no one knows that better than I do.

all of which (my trip to Clarke Summit on Monday and my thoughts associated with that trip) make me realize once again how frighteningly fragile my life and the style of my life are. "Cueillir dès aujourd'hui, les roses de la vie...."

Et à propos des roses, j'ai planté cinq roses ce printemps à Elkdale. Quel plaisir cela me donnera de les cueillir quand elles fleuriront!

4/20/88 - This is snow day 140 at C/H5 and SRP's 104th day of substituting this year - and so it appears <sup>very likely</sup> that I will put in more days as a substitute this year than during any other <sup>school</sup> year. In 1985-1986
I substituted 110 times and very probably I will <sup>this school year</sup> easily surpass that - it seems that I will put in at least 125 days. Tant mieux.

on Monday night (the 18th) there was a hard frost and the raspberry and rose bushes (that were planted on Monday) got a good "jolt," but they appear OK last night. Last night, however, I decided to pamper them and I put draper over the rose bushes and newspaper bats on the raspberries. It appeared that there was only a very light frost last night - so all is well in the garden.

Soluble Potash (K <sub>2</sub> O)	5.00%

AGWAY Agway Inc., PO Box 4741, Syracuse, NY 13221

DIRECTIONS

PLANTS STARTED FROM SEED: Spade or till garden soil. Apply 5 lbs./100 sq. ft. of garden area. Also apply 3-5 lbs./100 sq. ft. ground limestone. Mix with surface soil before sowing seeds. Apply a second application of Agway Garden Plant Food 4 to 5 weeks after seed germination. Make this application as a 6 in. wide band, 4 in. away from plant stem at the rate of 2 lbs./100 linear ft. of row. Do not allow to touch stems or foliage. Cultivate into soil lightly.

PLANTS SET IN THE GARDEN AS TRANS-PLANTS OR BULBS: Spade or till garden soil. Apply 5 lbs./100 sq. ft. of garden areas. Mix with surface soil before setting plants or bulbs. Apply 1 cupful of Agway Sol-U-Green® solution to each transplant.

Apply a second application of Agway Garden Plant Food 3 weeks after setting transplants. Application to be made as a 6 in. band along the row 10 cm. 4 in. away from plant stem at the rate of 1 lb./100 linear ft. of row. Do not allow to touch stem or foliage. Cultivate into soil lightly. Long season growing plants will benefit from a third application applied in the same manner as the second application 3 to 4 weeks following the second application.

PERENNIALS: At the first sign of top growth of flowering perennials, apply 5 lbs./100 sq. ft. broadcast over the garden area. Do not allow to touch stems or foliage. Cultivate into soil lightly. Four and eight weeks later, apply a second and third application broadcast at the same rate. Do not allow to touch stems or foliage. Cultivate into soil lightly.

ASPARAGUS: Before setting plants, apply 5 lbs. of Agway Garden Plant Food and 5 lbs. of ground limestone per 8 meters 25 ft. of row in bottom of 10 in. deep trench. Cover with 3 to 4 in. of soil.

Established beds: In early spring before growth is evident, apply broadcast 3 lbs. per 25 ft. of row. After cutting is over for season, repeat the application. Apply limestone every third year at the rate of 5 lbs. per 25 ft. of row.

STRAWBERRIES: Before spring planting, apply 2 lbs./100 sq. ft. broadcast. When runners first appear, apply 2 lbs. and another 2 lbs. in July or August. Do not allow to touch plants.

RASPBERRIES, BLACKBERRIES, ETC.:

Apply 3 lbs./100 sq. ft. in early spring and another 3 lbs. in June. Do not allow to touch plants.

RHUBARB: Apply 1 lb. per root prior to planting and mix well into an area 3 ft. by 3 ft. Apply 1 lb. per plant each spring.

LAWN ESTABLISHMENT: Apply 50 lbs. Agway Garden Plant Food and 80 lbs. ground limestone per 1,000 sq. ft., and mix into the soil thoroughly prior to seeding.

Pest control

Many gardeners cringe when they hear the recommendation to use a chemical pesticide. With our environment threatened, it is right to question their use. In many cases, critters and diseases can be controlled without resorting to pesticides.

The first line of defense is to practice IPM, Integrated Pest Management. IPM includes learning about plants and their cultural conditions, proper selection, enforced sanitation, mechanical destruction, use of biological inhibitors, and finally application of both nontoxic and toxic pesticides.

IPM starts with selecting disease- and insect-resistant plants. For the vegetable patch, for example, grow VFNT-resistant varieties of tomatoes that resist Verticillium and Fusarium Wilts, Root Knot Nematodes and Tobacco Mosaic. For zinnia look for the mildew-resistant varieties. Examine the seed catalogs carefully for plants that are resistant to problems common in your area.

FRIENDLY DISSUASION

Companion planting is another technique used to resist insect infestations. Some members of the allium (onion) family are known to repel aphids and spider mites in the rose garden, and Tansy may be grown in the berry patch to keep out Japanese beetles.

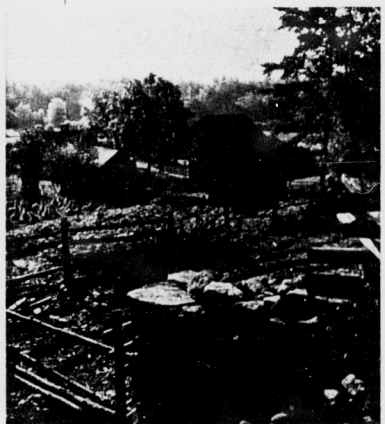

Sanitation is the second step in IPM. Keeping a clean garden, whether it is a flower or vegetable patch, is essential in reducing pests. Sanitation involves the removal of breeding areas. Anytime you leave debris in the garden path you provide a home for invaders. Slugs will hide under containers or flats left behind at planting time because they thrive in the cool, moist environment between the object and the soil. They lay eggs in this ideal environment and escape there from the heat of the day. Slugs are major pests in both vegetable and flower gardens, devouring lettuce, cabbage and tomatoes, as well as marigolds, roses and petunias, to name a few of their favorites.

Sanitation also means removal of infested plants. At the first sign of a problem, get it diagnosed. If you are not sure of the cause, take a sample of the affected plant to your Cooperative Extension agent for identification. By identifying the culprit, you can apply the appropriate cure, which might be as simple as applying a specific, nontoxic pesticide. Heavily infested or diseased plants should be removed to prevent the spread to neighboring plants.

IPM's mechanical controls involve the removal of a section of the plant by using standard pruning, surgery to extract the individual pest or trapping it with a bag or a sticky substance. Or simply squashing the bug.

In the rose garden, I control cane borers by pruning out infested canes and preventing their re-invasion by capping the tip of the cane with canning wax. Cane borers, if left unchecked, can destroy a rose bush. Also prune the borer-infested canes from lilac shrubs.

If you've seen a tree surgeon probing the trunk of a peach tree with a grafting knife, he or she was probably looking for borers. In my vegetable patch, hardly a year goes by that I don't have to perform surgery on my zucchini squash. The squash vine borer tunnels into the main stem, usually near ground level, and hollows out the inside of the stem so that the flow of water to the upper parts of the plant is prevented, causing it to wilt and die suddenly. Keep a close eye on all of the cucurbit (cucumber) family as the season progresses for signs of sudden wilting, particularly during the hottest part of the day.

I remember the yellow, sticky paper my grandmother hung in the kitchen to trap houseflies. The same trap is possible in the garden. To help control whitefly, attach a piece of yellow plastic to a wooden stake that you've anchored in the middle of the tomato patch. Coat the yellow surface with heavy oil. Many flying insects are attracted to yellow and will become trapped in the sticky substance. Placing several traps in the garden will bring partial control.

To control Japanese beetles, buy special traps that attract and catch both male and female adults. For best control, place the trap in the garden about two weeks before you usually see the first emerging adults. You want to catch the adults before they get together.

Biological controls are receiving much publicity. They include Bacillus Thuringiensis, a naturally occurring bacterium that kills only chewing caterpillars, as well as the friendly ladybug and praying man-

Selecting resistant plants and keeping a clean garden go a long way in preventing pest invasions.

tis that eat aphids, mealybugs and mites. The spread of the gypsy moth population to beyond the Northeast has encouraged research in biological controls in addition to bacillus. Parasitic wasps and flies are being introduced to destroy pest egg masses without harming the environment. Biological controls alone may not completely eradicate a pest problem but should be given every opportunity to work in the garden. In most cases, a healthy plant can survive a limited population of a given pest.

The use of potentially harmful pesticides remains a personal choice and is the last resort in the IPM procedure. If you decide to use a pesticide, know the pest you are trying to control and select the pesticide that's of lowest toxicity and is least harmful to the environment. For a list of pesticides recommended for controlling any given pest or disease, contact your local Cooperative Extension agent and always read the label. □ a cold spring day, and it seems colder today than on a typical winter day — where are the warm spring days? They will return soon enough, but at the moment they seem a virtual impossibility.

I will band <sup>today</sup> the four young typhlops that are the progeny of my 1986 birds: their band numbers will be:

FTA-88-982	] 1207 & 1217	bl.	bl.
" " - 983
" " - 984	] 1213 & 1219	bl. duck	grey
" " - 985

This will make 10 youngsters banded this year. I will watch and band a maximum of 4 more and that will be that for this year's breeding program.

On Saturday I will participate in the 1st FTA Spring Fly — with cock birds — probably a kit of five.

Again this year we will offer a limited supply of hatching eggs and baby chicks. We have very small matings, but they are of excellent quality, and are made of mostly hens. Our hatching eggs and baby chicks are from breeders that are Pullorum-Typhoid clean. Place your order as soon as possible, because we fill on a first come first serve basis.

CHICKS

Chicks will be $3.00 each. We can offer only 12-15 chicks in a variety, because of the small matings. Our minimum order is 15 chicks. They will be mailed priority mail. Please add $6.50 to your order for postage and handling. We will try to ship them to you as near as possible to the time you want them, but please remember they don't always hatch good and this will cause delays.

Chicks will be available from March - June. Please give a second and third choice. You can mix breeds and varieties.

Large Fowl: *Barred, Buff, Columbian, Partridge, Silver Penciled, and White Plymouth Rocks *Black, White, Partridge, Golden & Silver Laced Wyandottes *Buff, Black, White and Blue Orpingtons *Black Jersey Giants *S.C. Rhode Island Reds *Silver Gray Dorkings *Buff and White Frizzles *Black Langshans

HATCHING EGGS

Eggs are shipped parcel post, priority mail to you. They are $10.00 per dozen. You can include $6.00 postage for the first dozen, and $1.20 for each additional dozen, or we will ship them postage collect.

We can not ship over two dozen per variety. They will be available February - June. You can mix them anyway you would like.

THANK YOU FOR YOUR ORDER!!

JOBES® Fertilizer Spikes are an effective way to fertilize all fruit and nut bearing trees and shrubs. Unlike surface applied fertilizers that can wash away with rain or watering, Jobe's works underground at the feeder roots to release primary nutrients where trees and shrubs get their nourishment.

- Patented slow release formula
- Pre-measured, easy to use
- Feeds the roots for vigorous growth

DIRECTIONS: For best results, apply in early spring or late fall. If soil is dry, water well before application. Using a hammer and the plastic driving cap, tap spikes into the soil evenly spaced in a circle starting with the tree's longest branch (see diagram). Drive spikes one to two inches below the surface of the ground.

4/23/88 - Keep Pennsylvania Beautiful Day

- SRP picked up 20 large garbage bags full of garbage along the road from Elkdale to Oundoff on 4/24/88

- 12 30 P.M. - 4/25/88 -

SRP called Glenn Love of the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation - 278-1171 & asked about getting the garbage picked up. Glenn Love is a very sympathetic individual and told me that the garbage picked up will be picked up this afternoon or tomorrow morning.

4/25/88 - 2.

I told Mr. Lowe that the garbage bags in question were piled up along the road between Eldale & Dundaff, and not in Dundaff, where a family of pigs has piled up weeks & weeks of garbage in front of their house. Mr. Lowe said that the State Police should be notified and they will take action. Mr. Lowe: "if I call the State Police, they will tell me to pick it up and that will be that. if you call, the police will get involved and maybe we can solve the problem." SRP will call.

Dear Mr. Powell:

I have just received your letter dated April 4, 1988 in which you describe the problem you have experienced with Scratch Grains. I appreciate your taking the time to advise us of your concerns as we certainly want to know when a customer is dissatisfied with one of our products.

I have forwarded your letter to Mr. F. H. Bryant at our Harrisburg, Pennsylvania Chow Plant, where your feed was made, so that management there is aware of the problem and can take corrective action.

To express our appreciation for your assistance in identifying this problem, please give this letter to your local Purina Mills, Inc. dealer in order that you will receive the free goods described below.

Sincerely,

E. R. Pidduck,

4/22 - Friday - JVB got into a fight with a Frank Lesniowski & another guy; he got banged up a bit but no permanent damage; JVB struck back with a baseball bat & a square mahogany stick. I can't imagine being hit by an angry JVB! Such strength.

4/23 - Saturday - KIB Day - Clean up in Carbondale and Maplewood Cemetery - SRP & JVB cleaned up around Library; Joe Pascoe & Bob Price & SRP cleaned Memorial Park; JVB & Lars & Jochen & SRP - worked for a few hours in Maplewood Cemetery

4/24 - Sunday - SRP's Clean up the road to Dunduff from Elddale - 25 bags full picked up; did a large laundry in Tinker Creek

4/25 - Monday - DK-106 (Stanton). Work session in CCH. - Room 302 is shaping up nicely.

4/26 - Tuesday - Letter at DBC; to Hazelton with JVB - the microfilming of my 1987 Journal will have to be re-done!

4/26/88 —

Drove to Hazelton with JVA this afternoon to have the titles corrected on the microfilm of my 1987 Journal; they can not just re-do the titles; they have to re-shoot the entire job. I didn't take the originals along, which is maddening. I thought that they could simply do the titles over. And so now I will have to drive down to Hazelton again! No matter. The job will be done (re-done) and it will be done correctly.

4/26/88 — mid-day — I phoned Tom Munley (282-6499) who is the Chief of Police for Clifford and complained about the garbage piled up in front of a house on Dundaff. It's a complicated matter and the problem is not being solved. From Munley, I learned the names of the three Clifford Township supervisors:

[ Kenneth Jones — 222-3875
Vincent Galsey — 222-4712
T. Robert Williams — 222-3518

I will attend the Clifford Township meeting on 5/3/88 at 7:30 P.M. and make my complaint
there.

4/27/88 - planted at Elddale some lilies (what kind?) and some peonies (color?) that were thinned from the beds around the Baptist parsonage in Carbondale. The peonies have new growth about 6" tall on them - will they blossom this year? It's very likely that they will not, although I transplanted them quickly and well. M. Verrea.

Earlier this Spring I also planted at Elddale some iris bulbs that were thinned from the BOC beds in Carbondale.

4/27/88 - gave 10 Scarlet Runner bean seeds to Mrs. Helen Novella, Librarian, at Lakeland High School

THREE CHEERS FOR PennDOT

To the Editor:

Glenn Love and Paul J. Mihelc merit an enthusiastic round of applause from the citizens of Susquehanna and Wyoming Counties. These two men served this year as Susquehanna County and Wyoming County Coordinator and Maintenance Manager, respectively, of the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation's annual Keep Pennsylvania Beautiful Day.

On KPB Day, April 23rd, civic-minded groups of volunteers and private individuals literally walked the streets, roads and highways of the commonwealth and gathered up the garbage that thoughtless and selfish individuals have thrown <sup>along</sup> Pennsylvania's streets, roads and highways.

The KPB volunteers were all outfitted for the clean up by PennDOT with safety vests and the necessary garbage bags to insure that the clean up was a safe and effective undertaking. In addition, the volunteers, in appreciation of their donated time and energies, were given stickers, coloring books, shoulder patches and certificates by the state Department of Transportation.

As a resident of Elkdale, Clifford Township, I participated in KPB Day by picking up all litter along the road from the village of Elkdale to the top of Wells' Hill near the village of Dundaff. In so doing, I picked up 25 large bags of garbage and stacked the filled bags along the road in several locations. At the end of the clean up, I phoned Glenn Love at PennDOT and arranged for the pick up of the filled garbage bags. The bags were picked up on Tuesday, the 26th, by PennDOT.

As a result of KPB Day, <sup>many of</sup> the streets, roads and highways of the commonwealth are now litter free. Let's hope that they remain that way for the entire summer. We live in a very beautiful part of Pennsylvania. Let's hope that thoughtless and selfish individuals will not mar the beauty of Susquehanna and Wyoming Counties, in particular, and the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, as a whole, with unsightly, unhealthy and polluting litter.

When I phoned Glenn Love at PennDOT (278-1171) to arrange the pick up of the garbage picked up in Clifford Township, I was pleased to learn that PennDOT will, at any time, outfit and support all civic minded groups and individuals who are interested in keeping Pennsylvania beautiful by picking up litter along the commonwealth's streets, roads and highways.

The Keep Pennsylvania Beautiful Day program that is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation is an excellent idea, and everyone responsible for the planning and successful implementation of the program clearly deserves the thanks and appreciation of all residents of the commonwealth.

Three cheers for PennDOT.

Yours truly,

S. Robert Powell

Budget Hearing, February 18, 1988, 4:45 P.M., Children's Library, Scranton

Representing the Carbondale Public Library: Ann Muldoon, Bob Vandenberg, Gloria Wilson, and S. Robert Powell. Representing the County: Matthew Flynn, President of the County Library Board of Directors, and Brian Murray.

At this hearing, Bob Vandenberg made the point that the salary of Ann Muldoon is very much below the other librarians in the County system, and requested that Ann's salary be increased to equal that of other librarians in the County system. The County Board said that they did not see any problem with the proposed salary increase for the Carbondale Public Library's librarian.

The second point raised by Bob Vandenberg was that Carbondale Public Library would need the County's financial support if it was to bring "up to code" the Carbondale Library Building. The proposed revisions to the Carbondale building are expected to cost about $180,000. Matthew Flynn suggested that if the County were to spend $180,000 on a building that perhaps the Carbondale Public Library should seek a building that is more important architecturally than the present Carbondale Public Library building. Gloria Wilson suggested that the CPL look into the possibility of the CPL's moving into the old Carbondale Post Office Building at the corner of Main Street and Lincoln Avenue. Gloria Wilson said that she would speak with the present owner of the old Carbondale Post Office Building and see if the building was available.

Budget Hearing, March 3, 1988, Children's Library, Scranton

Representing the Carbondale Public Library: Ann Muldoon, Bob Vandenberg, Kathryn Race, Walter Washeleski, Gloria Wilson, Aubrey Staples, S. Robert Powell and Joseph Pascoe. Representing the architectural firm of Palumbo and Horlacher: Thomas Horlacher, Architect. Representing the County: Matthew Flynn, President of the County Library Board.

The feasibility of the CPL's moving into the old Carbondale Post Office was discussed in some detail and it was concluded that the CPL should stay where it is now located. Regarding the bringing up to code of the CPL, S. Robert Powell asked why the third floor of the present CPL Building was not/could not be used. Tom Horlacher suggested that it was because variances would be required from the State and because people would not walk up to the third floor. S. Robert Powell then proposed that the CPL install an elevator and stairwell tower on the lawn south of the CPL building and in so doing make available 4,000 square feet of space (the third floor).

Carbondale Public Library
Board of Directors Meeting, March 15, 1988

The meeting was called to order by Bob Vandenberg at 7:35 P.M. Present at the meeting were: Bob Vandenberg, Gloria Wilson, Joseph Pascoe, David Saint Ledger, Hank Loftus, Ann Muldoon, S. Robert Powell, Kathryn Race and Aubrey Staples.

The Secretary read the minutes of the last meeting (February 16, 1988) and on a motion by Joseph Pascoe, with a second by Gloria Wilson, the minutes of the February 16, 1988 meeting were approved as read.

In the absence of the Treasurer, James Burns, the Treasurer's report was read by Ann Muldoon. On a motion by Gloria Wilson, with a second by David Saint Ledger, the Treasurer's report for February 16, 1988 was approved as read.

Bob Vandenberg reported that on the matter of the repairs to the Simplex system that he would contact George Wallis, Jr., and have him look into the necessary repairs to the system.

Bob Vandenberg, in addition, reported that a bill for the Library's liability insurance had been received from C. B. Tomaine Company, Carbondale. The bill for the "package renewal" totals $1,921 per year for $500,000 of liability insurance. On a motion by Hank Loftus, with a second from Gloria Wilson, the Board of Directors voted to pay this bill and thereby provide liability insurance coverage for the Library for the period February 15, 1988--February 15, 1989.

It was reported that the Carbondale Public Library building itself is insured for 90% of its value or $150,000, and that the contents of the Library are insured for $60,000. Gloria Wilson recommended that the insurance on the building be increased to $500,000.

Bob Vandenberg reported that he had received a copy of a letter, dated March 4, 1988, from Tom Horlacher to Matthew Flynn. In the letter, Tom Horlacher states that he will draw up the necessary architectural drawings and plans for the proposed elevator/stairwell tower addition to the present library building and to bring the library building "up to code," as well as do the necessary work to obtain the required variances to use the third floor of the present library building, for a total of $3,100.

On the matter of the salary of the Librarian at the Carbondale Public Library, it was moved by Gloria Wilson, with a second by Hank Loftus, that the salary of the Librarian be increased to $16,000. The motion was carried. Just for the record, Ann Muldoon reported that she began working for the Carbondale Public Library in 1958 and that in 1959 she became the Librarian.

On a motion by Gloria Wilson, with a second by Hank Loftus, the March 15, 1988 meeting of the Board of Directors of the Carbondale Public Library was adjourned at 8:35 P.M.

Respectfully submitted,

S. Robert Powell, Secretary

Meeting in the Children's Library, Scranton, PA, regarding the financing of the proposed elevator/stairwell tower addition to the Carbondale Public Library and also the bringing up to code of the Carbondale Public Library, April 18, 1988, 3:00 P.M.

Present at the meeting were: Matthew Flynn, Brian Calle, Bob Vandenberg, Ann Muldoon, John Mahoney, Walter Washeleski, Tom Horlacher and S. Robert Powell.

After some discussion on the importance of securing the County's approval of the architect's fee to draw up the necessary plans for the proposed elevator/stairwell tower addition to the Carbondale Public Library and to bring the building up to code, the County Board of Directors authorized Tom Horlacher to go ahead with the plans for the proposed work on the Carbondale Public Library building. It was stipulated by Brian Calle that the architect draw up the plans for the proposed work as soon as possible but not take the necessary steps to obtain the variances that will be required to complete the proposed plans until after the County has had time to examine the architect's plans and explore possible funding alternatives. The architect's fee for the proposed plans plus all work necessary to obtain the necessary variances from the State is $3,100. There being no other items on the agenda, the meeting was adjourned.

Note by Secretary: It will be necessary for the CPL to secure the services of a surveyor to have the land at the rear of the present CPL surveyed. Bob Vandenberg said that he would make every effort to quickly locate a surveyor and have the CPL's "back lot" surveyed. The Secretary consulted the current Carbondale Telephone Directory's yellow pages and there found, on page 293, no less than 19 surveyors listed.

Respectfully submitted,

S. Robert Powell, Secretary

Board of Directors meeting, April 19, 1988

The meeting was called to order by President Vandenberg at 7:35 P.M. Present at the meeting were: Bob Vandenberg, Gloria Wilson, Kathryn Kelly, Henry J. Loftus, Jr., Joseph Pascoe, Kathryn Race and S. Robert Powell.

At the request of the President, the Secretary, S. Robert Powell, read the minutes of the March 15, 1988 meeting of the Board of Directors. On a motion by Joseph Pascoe, with a second by Kathryn Kelly, the minutes were approved as read.

At the request of the President, the Secretary then read the minutes of the special meeting of the County Library Board with the Carbondale Library Board on April 18, 1988, at 3:00 P.M. On a motion by Kathryn Kelly, with a second by Joseph Pascoe, the minutes of the April 18, 1988 meeting were approved as read.

The Librarian, Ann Muldoon, in the absence of the Treasurer, James Burns, read the Treasurer's Report which, on a motion by Gloria Wilson, with a second from S. Robert Powell, was approved by the Board as read.

It was reported that the custodian was still recuperating from an automobile accident, and that the library's staff was pitching in to make sure that the building was properly looked after. Ann Muldoon reported that Grace's husband will cut the grass around the library in the near future. S. Robert Powell reported that the Carbondale Historical Society would make certain that on April 23, 1988, Keep Pennsylvania Beautiful Day, the grounds of the Carbondale Public Library would be thoroughly cleaned and all litter picked up by members of the Historical Society. Mrs. Kelly commented that it is important that the Library be supportive of the janitor during this stressful period in his life.

On the matter of the illness of the Treasurer of the Board of Directors, Bob Vandenberg asked the Corresponding Secretary, Kathryn Race, to send a get well card to the Treasurer, James Burns.

On the matter of the library's budget for the current year, Bob Vandenberg reported that the library was granted $69,900 from the County and the State, which is $19,378 less than was requested ($89,278). Accordingly, the following budget cuts will be necessary: the $15,000 budgeted for books will be cut to $11,000; $2,400 for periodicals cut by $500; $1,000 for audio visual cut by $500; $2,000 for microforms cut by $2,000; $2,000 for furniture cut by $2,000; $2,700 for supplies cut by $300; $2,500 for maintenance cut by $500; $6,500 for utilities cut by $1,000; $100 for travel cut by $100; $250 for contingencies and public relations cut by $250. These cuts total $11,150. It was reported that the Library will get $2,116.40 from Access Pennsylvania, which will help make up the deficit. The question of sending out a letter to "friends of the library" and asking for their help was then brought up, and on a motion by Gloria Wilson, with a second from Kathryn Kelly, it was unanimously agreed that such a letter be formulated and mailed. At the suggestion of the Secretary, the Board of Directors as a whole then recommended that the following items be mentioned in this letter: the hours that the library is open; what the library can do for its supporters; we should ask for their help because the county does not pay all the bills; we should tell the public what is available: cassettes, publications, current best sellers, microfilm holdings, youth programs and clubs, reference books, interlibrary loan services. Henry Loftus recommended that the Library obtain a third class bulk mailing permit from the United States Postal Service, and Ann Muldoon said that she would make the necessary inquiry at the Post Office. S. Robert Powell said that he would make an inquiry of Philip Heth at The Carbondale News about acquiring the News' subscription list on gummed mailing labels for use in enlisting the support of the friends of the library in raising funds through donations.

On the matter of the surveying of the library's "back lot," Bob Vandenberg said that he would speak to Ed Krantz about getting a copy of the survey that he did for the Library about a year and a half ago. Ann Muldoon reported that she never received a copy of the Ed Krantz survey. Bob Vandenberg, at the recommendation of the Board, said that he would contact three surveyors about having the library's land surveyed: Henry Tusard, Jr. (from Forest City, recommended by Walter Washeleski), Frank Gardner (from Forest City, recommended by Joseph Pascoe), and Joseph P. Barrett (from Carbondale). Bob Vandenberg asked that the members of the Board of Directors of the Carbondale Public Library become actively involved in drawing up the plans for the proposed addition/renovations to the library building and said that all input from the members of the Board of Directors would be much appreciated.

On a motion by Gloria Wilson, with a second by Henry Loftus, the meeting was adjourned at 8:45 P.M.

Respectfully submitted,

S. Robert Powell, Secretary

THE CRYSTAL BAND

P. O. BOX 221, MOSCOW, PENNSYLVANIA 18444

April 28, 1988

Dear Friends:

We would like to take this opportunity to thank you for being with us to celebrate our 30th Annual Spring Concert. We certainly enjoyed seeing you and sincerely hope you enjoyed being with us.

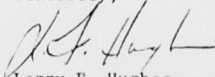

On behalf of the Board of Directors, we would also like to apologize for a situation that was somewhat out of our control. The buffet that was served was not exactly what we had in mind when we were arranging the affair, and we have become aware of the fact that many of you received very little to eat, along with the fact that much of the food was cold.

The Board of Directors has accepted the responsibility for this "inconvenience", and is offering a refund for the price of the meal for anyone who would like us to do so. We believe that in offering the refund we are being fair to you, our friends, even though the caterer seems unwilling to co-operate with us at this time.

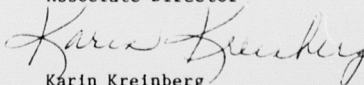

If you feel that you are entitled to a full or partial refund from the band, please complete the attached form and return it to us and we will give it our immediate attention. Also, the Board would sincerely appreciate your comments and reactions to the dinner on a separate sheet of paper. If you do not feel that you want a rebate, we are still interested in hearing from you concerning your opinion of the concert and/or dinner.

It is our sincere desire to resolve this matter as amicably and as quickly as possible. Once again, please accept our sincere apology for a rather disappointing ending to what we had hoped would be a very special event.

Sincerely,

Larry F. Hughes

Dear Willow Game Farm:

Thank you for your 1988 price list.

Enclosed is a check (#1041) for $12.00 for two dozen PEARL GUINEA FOWL eggs.

I will incubate these eggs under bantam hens, but do not have any setting hens available at the moment. Therefore, please do not ship these two dozen pearl guinea fowl eggs until I telephone you and request shipment. I am placing this order at this time so that there will be plenty of time for my check to clear, which will make it possible for you to ship this order shortly after I telephone you and tell you that my bantam hens are ready to incubate these guinea eggs.

I trust that these proposed arrangements will be satisfactory with you.

Yours truly,

Bob,

Many thanks for your letter dated 4/8/88.
You see, the FTA membership only knows that Mr. Seabridge was the FTA president for 8 years and that he flew his kite well, which he did. What they don't know is that he rarely timed anyone in competition. Another thing was when he was not going to mail in his 5 <sup>hrs</sup> five, hour time sheet because he didn't want to spoil his record. He admitted this to me in Jes Brozyna's yard on contest day, years ago. He came by with Ray Merschen after Dick's kit had only flown the 5 hours, that day Jes did either 14 or 15 hours. I just wonder if he failed to send in other time sheets with low scores. But does the FTA know of this? Of course not!

The monthly meetings of the Central Jersey Tippler Club centered around him and his birds. Kahlert was able to fly a pit into the dark but Seabridge + Company didn't want to believe it because if he couldn't do it then how could a relative newcomer do it? He called John Mead "a flash in the pan" because John had then ~~been~~ flown a pit 14 hrs.
He had to eat those words now! It was just "peachy keen" when R.S. was winning most of the contests but when others like ZOVIC, TOMSIC, LUKER, MEAD and others started to do well then something was wrong somewhere.

ZOVIC FLEW 15/16!

At one of the Central Club meetings, he brought up the idea of a new national club - John M. can back me on that.

I tell you - he is more interested in promoting Dick Seabridge and the sale of his own birds than in promoting the sport. Like I said before - "I used to think that he was OK - now I know better!" Sorry, but that is how I feel.

We shouldn't cast the Canadians out now. It was wrong to allow them to join you ago.

If you feel that you should make the proposal then do so. However, in my opinion, I would allow things to remain as they are.

until something happens. Its an issue that is 'sticky' and could cause problems and backlash for you.

Those 4 pairs must be the good producers! You're certainly on the right track now by being selective. I have no doubt that you'll better the 14.14 this year! I don't want to hear any excuses, just results - good ones!

Maybe sometime this summer you could come by and we could pay John Mead a visit.

Take care.

Stan O.

April 29, 1988

Dear Stan:

I like the idea of our paying a visit to John Mead sometime this summer. Perhaps you and John could suggest a day that would be good for the two of you. My schedule is fairly flexible. All I would need is a few days' notice.

Such weather last week end for the first Spring Fly. At 5:50 A.M., when I released a kit of seven cock birds, the temperature was about 30 degrees F., and there was not a cloud in the sky. There was a slight breeze and it looked like it was going to be a perfect day for flying, and it was for about the first hour that my kit was in the air. Then everything went wrong. The winds picked up and the temperature dropped below freezing again. Then it warmed up a little and heavy rains fell for about an hour. The kit made it through the rains OK and were going fairly strong for about an hour when, from out of nowhere, hail, sleet and freezing rain began to fall. At 3:12 P.M., I put out the droppers and the seven birds--cold, tired, beaten up by the hail, sleet and freezing rain--quickly landed. Time flown: 10 hours and 2 minutes. The birds recovered very quickly from their flight and by Tuesday they appeared to be all set to go again. I nevertheless did not release them on Tuesday, preferring to give them a good week's rest after their ordeal on last Saturday.

Good for Zovic: 15:16! Very impressive. It must be an amazing feeling to have one's kit break the 15 hour barrier, so to speak.

Yes, I think it's wise to "let sleeping dogs lie." If R. S. should mount a campaign to cast out the Canadians, I think the membership of the FTA as a whole would come down pretty hard on R. S. Maybe not. The way I look at it, the more competition the better.

It seems to me that if a flyer enters a FTA competition than he should turn in his time to the Central Timer, whether his kit flies for 2 hours or 20 hours. Not to turn in one's time because it is less than spectacular strikes me as somewhat unethical/dishonest. Perhaps the FTA should publish a list of the names of those flyers who enter each competition? Maybe the Timer's Report Forms should be dated when they are sent out by the Central Timer? In listing the results of each fly, the Central Timer could state, for example, in his report: "The following 12 flyers (list their names) entered the Spring I FTA Fly. The following fly reports were received by the Central Timer...." Under such a system, perhaps the FTA could smoke out of the woods such characters as R. S. By the way, has R. S. renewed his membership in the FTA?

I have six young birds that appear to be very promising, although it is still too soon to come to any definite conclusions. They all descend from some of those extraordinary birds that you gave me a couple years ago. One of those cock birds, in particular, FTA-85-340, is an extraordinary bird. My best flyers all descend from him, and I am working on developing a strain built around him.

Inasmuch as you were not able to participate in the first Spring Fly, I'm sure that you and your birds will be very strong competitors in next week end's fly. Let's hope for a cool, breezy and sunny Spring week end.

Sincerely yours,

S. Robert Powell

MICROFILM

Fourteen rolls of microfilm and one set of microfiche cards are contained in Safety Deposit Box 179A in the Liberty Discount and Savings Bank, Carbondale. All of these microcopies are of documents or texts written by and/or about S. Robert Powell.

- 1-10. OPUS 40 of S. Robert Powell, October 13, 1981--May 7, 1984
Rolls 1-6, original 35 mm. microfilm

Supplement No. 1, May 8, 1984--October 7, 1984 (original-35 mm. microfilm)
Supplement No. 2, October 8, 1984--June 21, 1985 (original 35 mm. microfilm)
Supplement No. 3, June 22, 1985--March 20, 1986 (original 35 mm. microfilm)
Supplement No. 4, March 21, 1986--December 31, 1986 (original 35 mm. microfilm)

The ten rolls of microfilm of OPUS 40 of S. Robert Powell are a record of SRP's life from January 1, 1975, when, seated in the Music Room at the Bobst Library at New York University, he began writing PARADE HARMONIES: A DIALECTICAL SELF-PORTRAIT (written in the period 1-15-1975--07-15-1975; published 8-15-1975), up to December 31, 1986, when, seated at his marble top table at Elkdale, he celebrated the arrival of the new year. Contained on Rolls 1-6 (among many many other documents) are all of the published issues of NORTHEASTERN PENNSYLVANIA (Volume I, Number 1, August 15, 1979--Volume IV, Number 1, August 18, 1982).

11. NORTHEASTERN PENNSYLVANIA GENEALOGICAL AND LOCAL HISTORY REPRINTS, Volume I (1981) and Volume II (1982). Original 16 mm. microfilm.
12. COMPARATIVE AESTHETICS: A WORKBOOK by S. Robert Powell. Published in 1978. Original 16 mm. microfilm.
13. THE RENAISSANCE AND CUBIST CONCEPTIONS OF SPACE AND ART IN THE NINETEENTH-CENTURY FRENCH NOVEL. SRP's Ph.D. dissertation; published in 1974. This microfilm is a copy of the original 35 mm. microfilm that is owned by Xerox University Microfilms, Ann Arbor, MI. In many respects, SRP's doctoral dissertation and COMPARATIVE AESTHETICS: A WORKBOOK are the end products of all SRP's formal academic training. They represent/constitute, therefore, a portrait of SRP in the period 1961-1978.
14. PROCEEDINGS OF THE COMMITTEE TO RESTORE CARBONDALE CITY HALL, INC., AND THE CARBONDALE HISTORICAL SOCIETY AND MUSEUM, INC., November 1981--March 1983. Original 35 mm. microfilm.

MICROFICHE

FROM THE SECRETARY

March 24

The past six weeks have been rather hectic. My wife, Elsie, spent two weeks in a Seneca hospital with a severe attack of pneumonia. She also lost her voice and it was discovered that she had a growth in her throat so she had it removed at a Topeka Hospital. Fortunately, it was benign and she has now resumed her teaching of handicapped children at Marysville.

I sold my Orpington flock last fall when it became evident that the medicine prescribed at the Veterans Hospital several years ago was no longer effective and the angina attacks came more frequently and severe. Her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thiesen, came up from Clinton, OK to be with me while Elsie was hospitalized. She went back to work February 29. That afternoon Charles suffered a heart attack. He was rushed by ambulance to a Topeka Hospital where he died March 1. While we were there at the hospital I was taken with a severe angina attack and rushed to emergency.

emergency. The following day a balloon was inserted and four days later I returned for 30 days bed rest. It never rains but what it pours. My sister-in-law was killed by a drunken driver. My brother's 92 year old mother-in-law broke her hip and my nephew broke his leg while skiing in Colorado the same week.

Ken Waller, Blum, Texas, was up 3-19 and bought the remaining Blue Orps, 4 hens and 2 cockerels and 2 Buffs of each sex. This leaves one with only 4 Buff males left, 1-2 K at Claremore National, 2C (was 1 K at York in '86) and a male too ragged at show time. Choice at the farm $40, or all 4 for $100.

DUES

It is so easy to forget but dues are necessary to keep our All-Orp alive. We hate to do this but if there is a red X below this your dues have not been paid and we will be forced to discontinue the All-Orp until you are reinstated.

Can anybody supply the current address of Rev. Rodney Dannehl?

BEGINNERS COLUMN

Some of you will have young chicks by the time this is printed. Select a good mash, keep fresh water available and maintain heat as prescribed by your brooder or if you are brooding only a few be certain the light bulb supplies enough heat. If they move about normally in their compartment all is well.

If fertility is a problem brush feathers below the vent lightly with Black Leaf 40. Do not let it contact the skin. If you have not clipped the fluff around the vent, clip it closely so that no sharp barbs remain.

A wet mash (about 1 tablespoon per bird) fed once a day containing your regular mash to which has been added a few drops (per bird) of cod liver oil and wheat germ oil, on alternate days. Supply greens if available: lettuce or cabbage trimmings, 4th cutting alfalfa or sprouted oats. Do not keep the birds too fat but in good solid flesh. Feed corn sparingly, if at all, a handful or two of oats, 1 of wheat, mix per bird in the evening.

Turn Eggs daily before setting and set none older than 7 days. Follow your incubator instructions.

Joe Pehringer suffered a severe heart attack recently. Send him a card.

Organizations wishing to sponsor a state meet should contact the secretary or their District Representative if your state has one.

We will print a list of State Shows in the June issue.

After 1989 Districts will be the same grouping of states recognized by APA. We have to have more filings for offices.

We have 85 members that paid for 1987, but 42 have not paid for 1988. Please! we cannot afford to print and mail (at new rates) the All-Orp unless we have dues paid. It is such a small fee for a club that works all year to promote Orpingtons.

We have missed some show reports. We plan a better system for 1988. Details later.

How To Kill An Association

Don't participate beyond paying your dues — let "them" handle things. Then complain that members have no voice in management.

Decline all offices and committee appointments — you're too busy. Then offer vociferous advice on how they should do things.

If appointed to a committee, don't work — it's a courtesy appointment. Then complain because the organization has stagnated.

If you do attend management meetings, don't initiate new ideas. Then you play the "Devil's Advocate" to those submitted by others.

Don't rush to pay your dues — they're too high anyway. Then complain about poor financial management.

Don't encourage others to become members — that's selling. Then complain that membership is not growing.

Don't read the mail from headquarters — it's not important. Then complain that you're never kept informed.

Don't volunteer your talents — that's ego fulfillment. Then complain that you're never asked; never appreciated.

And, if by chance, the organization grows in spite of your contributions, grasp every opportunity to tell the youngsters how tough it was; how hard you worked in the old days to bring the organization to its present level of success. ■

We inadvertently gave credit to the wrong people in the January All-Orp. The item should have read, "Dr. Malda gave a donation of $25.00 and Chris Haese made a $75.00 donation."

EXCUSES, EXCUSES . . .

I suppose some of our members will think an excuse is in order for the lateness of the All-Orp. I have many . . . like getting some chicks hatched, trying to get a little garden started, cleaning up the yards, mowing the grass, etc., etc. Besides I have to work for a living, take care of family affairs, support the community, etc., etc. It is a full time job and I put in 12 to 14 hours most days. This would not have been extreme twenty years ago, but at 72 it's not as easy as it once was. The redeeming feature about it though, is that it is still as much fun! So hang in there, youngins, I'll make it sooner or later!

THE ORPINGTON BREED

(from Popular Breeds of Domestic Poultry)

As was stated in the account of the Plymouth Rock, that breed is substantially an American model of the Dorking type, the alterations being made to suit our markets and conditions. When the Plymouth Rocks and Wyandottes had become popular in America, and were beginning to attract a good bit of attention in England, Mr. William Cook, of Orpington, Kent, conceived the idea of making an English breed of the dual-purpose type, and carrying out this idea, produced the first single comb Black fowl which he introduced to the public with the name Orpington in 1886.

The Orpington breed rapidly gained a position in England corresponding to that of the Plymouth Rock and Wyandotte in America. It had the white skin and, according to variety, the flesh colored or black leg which the English market prefers to the yellow skin and leg. With in ten years Orpingtons were well established in England. In 1900 a few were exhibited at New York by Wallace P. Willett, of East Orange, New Jersey. In the next two years the entries of Orpingtons at New York increased and in 1903 Mr. Cook brought over an exhibit which, with the birds shown by his American customers, made the Orpington class one of the features of the show.

In 1904 Mr. Wm. Barry Owen, of Vineyard Haven, Massachusetts, who had been for many years a resident of England, having acquired a fancy for the Orpingtons there, and having retired from business and returned to Vineyard Haven, began breeding and exhibiting all varieties of Orpingtons. A little later Mr. Ernest Kellerstrass, of Kansas City, Missouri, went into the White Orpingtons extensively. These two men advertised the Orpingtons on a larger scale than any breed had ever before been advertised, and created a boom for it, especially for the single comb white and buff varieties. The Orpington boom continued until the general depression in the poultry business began in 1912. Since then the breed has quite steadily lost favor in America, and though good classes of fine birds are usually seen at leading shows, the small breeders and the practical poultry farmers who had Orpingtons have quite generally discarded them and taken up American breeds of the same general type.

The history of the Orpington in America is equally instructive for what it teaches of the value of advertising and of the limitations on advertising. It was possible to interest poultry producers in the Orpingtons, and to persuade them that the American public, as it learned the great meat value of the breed, was casting off its prejudice against white-skinned poultry, though evidence of that was slight; but it was not possible materially to influence the public taste in color of poultry. Producers of market poultry soon realized this, and returned to the production of "yellow-legged chickens." There is at this time a great deal of farm poultry in some sections of the United States that is either Orpington or predominantly Orpington in blood; but most of this has at least a yellowish skin, and much of it by crossing and selection has been made very yellow skinned.

The Buff Orpington

The Single Comb Buff Orpington was said by the originator to have been produced by mating a Buff Cochinchina cock to reddish brown pullets obtained from a cross of Golden-Spangled Hamburg on Single Comb Dorking; the Rose Comb Buff Orpington from a similar combination using a Rose Comb Dorking. On the contrary, many English authorities of the time averred that the Buff Orpington was produced from an old local breed known as the Lincolnshire Buff, with some admixture of Buff Cochinchina; and certainly that was the easiest way to produce the type, and the way in which the variety could be most readily produced in quantity when the demand for it was created. Both versions may be true. It is entirely credible that Cook produced his first birds of the type as he stated; and on this ground he might claim that as the true origin of the variety.

The Buff Orpingtons first brought to America showed little of the resemblance to the Cochinchina which is now so striking. Except for the difference in color of the legs and beak, they closely resembled those Buff Plymouth Rocks of the period which did not strongly show Buff Cochinchina ancestry, and occasionally some of them were shown as Buff Rocks. As a rule, the Orpingtons were sounder in color than the Rocks, and for a time, many stocks of the latter showed plain indications of a Buff Orpington cross to improve color.

In early days of interest in Orpingtons imported Buffs were in demand, but within a few years the variety had been so improved here in general finish that the American strains became more popular.

In many parts of the Middle and Western States Single Comb Buff Orpingtons were for a time in high favor as farm fowls, for the stock generally had better table quality than was usually to be obtained in American dual-purpose fowls. As fanciers bred Orpingtons more to the Cochinchina type, farmers who had taken them up lost interest in them. The Single Comb Buff Orpington at present occupies much the same place in American poultry culture that the Buff Cochinchina did a generation ago. It suits those who like a large, buff fowl.

The Rose Comb Buff Orpington never attracted any attention in this country. The specimens first brought here were distinctly inferior to the single combed birds; and the development of the Buff Orpington as a large exhibition fowl automatically shut off interest in fowls with rose combs, for no one wanted a rose comb fowl of that type.

The White Orpington

As in the case of the Buff Orpington, the facts as to the real origin of this variety are somewhat in dispute and doubt. It appears to be beyond question that W. Cook, after bringing out a Black Orpington in 1886, brought out a white Orpington in 1889. This first Cook White Orpington is said to have been produced by crossing White Leghorn cocks (presumably rose combed) with Black Hamburg hens, the pullets from this cross becoming white, and being mated with White Dorking males. The stock thus produced is described by T. W. Sturges as rose combed, small, and much of the Hamburg type. A single-combed variety was said to have been produced by using single-combed Dorking males and the pullets from the Leghorn-Hamburg cross. This stock was sold as utility poultry but, according to Sturges, was never exhibited.

According to the same authority, white fowls of real Orpington type did not appear until "some few years after" 1894, and none such were shown until 1900, when two exhibitors, W. Richardson and Godfrey Shaw, showed white fowls of this character at the London Dairy Show under the name "Albion". The same stock was subsequently shown as White Orpington. Mr. Shaw some years later claimed that his Albions were the original stock of the exhibition White Orpington, and stated that it was produced from Light Sussex, by breeding out the black. Mr. Richardson stated that his Albions were "pure sports" from Buff Orpingtons; and, though the point is not clear, it is to be inferred from his statement that the stock of this origin was not developed as White Orpington. Sturges, however, seems to take the position that the Albions of Shaw and Richardson jointly furnished the foundation for the modern White Orpington, as distinguished from Cook's earlier White Orpington of Hamburg type.

To anyone familiar with the making of breeds in modern times, this explanation is inadequate. As a matter of fact, as shown by illustrations published in 1897 and 1898, the Cook White Orpingtons were quite varied in type, and some closely approximated the type of the other Orpington varieties of that time. It is necessary, also, to take into account the possible and probable influence of the White Plymouth Rock and the White Wyandotte in the making of an English variety in the same general class. When such points as this are given due consideration the White Orpington appears to have been made in England, as similar varieties were in this country, by the general amalgamation of white races and individuals having the characters desired.

The first exhibit of White Orpingtons in America was at Madison Square Garden, in 1903. Only single combs were shown at that time. Very few rose combs have ever been seen in this country. The advertising which has been mentioned, especially that of Mr. Kellerstrass, created a tremendous demand for Single Comb White Orpingtons in America. It was said that to meet it practically all the white-skinned white fowls in England that would pass as White Orpingtons were shipped here, all the best stock of the variety that the English breeders would part with.

While such a boom continued type was not much considered, nor were most White Orpington breeders at all critical of color. Purity of white that would satisfy a breeder as exacting as the breeders of the popular American white varieties of fowls was not found in Orpingtons until about 1911-1912. Since that time rapid progress in breeding has been made, both in color and in type, and the modern American standard White Orpington is one of the most beautiful fowls seen in our exhibitions. Competition in this variety is mostly at the leading shows, where the classes are very fine. At many of the minor shows, the White Orpington is becoming a rarity.

The Black Orpington Variety

The originator's account of the origin of Orpingtons states that the Single Comb Black Orpington was produced from a mixture of Black Minorca, Black Langshan, and the black culls from Barred Plymouth Rocks, which in America furnished material for the standard Black Java. His account does not say how the Rose Comb Black Orpington was made, but the most convenient suitable material would be the Black Wyandotte and the Black Hamburg. The early model illustrations of Black Orpingtons indicated rather close-feathered birds of medium size and medium length of leg; and the birds first seen in this country were of that type. But when the Black Orpingtons came in larger numbers, and presumably of the best exhibition quality, they were larger and looser feathered, and short in the leg, and this "cochinny" appearance increased until many of the birds looked like creepers, having not much more daylight under them than Japanese Bantams. The Single Comb Black Orpingtons were by far the most numerous in the first large classes shown in America, but with this type no interest would have been created in them, even if black were a popular color here. Very few rose comb blacks have been shown in America, and the variety has never been admitted to the "American Standard of Perfection."

Blue and Cuckoo Orpingtons

These two varieties of Orpingtons were made simultaneously in England, by A. C. Gilbert, a son-in-law of Wm. Cook, associated with him. They were produced from crosses of Black and White Orpingtons, and were first shown about 1908. Blue, and barred, or cuckoo, fowls, as well as black fowls and white fowls, may come from the cross of black and white. The blues are afterward bred together, sometimes with a cross back to the black to intensify the color and produce the lacing desired. Like the Blue Andalusian and the Blue Orpington continues to throw a proportion of blacks and whites. The "Cuckoo" specimens bred together will throw some specimens black, white and blue for a generation or two, but soon give none but not typical in color.

Blue Orpingtons were brought to this country in considerable numbers about 1913, by W. H. Depper, of Lincoln, Massachusetts, who proposed to breed them on a large scale. His death soon after put an end to the project and his stock widely scattered. There is no marked interest in the variety, but a few fanciers are breeding it, and small classes of nice birds are frequently seen at the larger shows. The variety is not recognized in the American Standard. The Cuckoo Orpington is hardly known here, except by description.

The Jubilee Orpington, so called by Wm. Cook because he brought it out in 1897, the year of the "Diamond Jubilee" of Queen Victoria, has the color pattern of the Speckled Sussex, and is regarded as properly of that variety. The so-called Spangled Orpington is marked like the Mottled Houdan and the Ancona. Neither of these varieties gets much attention in England. They are practically unknown in this country except as they have been seen on a few occasions in the exhibits of English Fanciers at New York and Boston shows. Both varieties have single and rose-combed sub-varieties, but with interest mainly in the single combs.

WHITE ORPINGTONS

By WM. N. OTTO
(Breeder since 1907)

COLOR

White is the absence of color.
The white should be "dead white," "pearl white" or "snow white."
The most common off colors are red, buff and black.

A brassy bird is liable to show red or buff in the off color.

A white bird is liable to show black in the off color.

The whiteness of the color is evidenced by the whiteness of the quills.

Creaminess tends to disappear with time.

Brassiness tends to increase with time.

Brassiness is a more serious defect than creaminess.

A reddish or bay eye gives the bird the characteristic "kindly" expression of a White Orpington.

A pale or lemon eye gives the bird a "wild" or "stary" appearance.

The quills of the wing feathers should be white throughout the entire length.

A very white bird may be pardoned a little depth of eye color, as a deep bay eye and brassiness are usually found together.

Brassiness shows up more in the males than it does in the females, where it may be confined to the hackle.

Very white birds may show "ticking", which should keep them from the show room, if not from the breeding pen.

Legs should be pink and white and not red and white.

Red in the legs goes with brassiness in the plumage.

PLUMAGE

The plumage is important in maintaining the ideal type of the breed.

The feathers should be broad and smooth-fitting.

The feathering should be full but not profuse.

Wing feathers should be short and wide—not long and tapering.

PRODUCTION

The White Orpingtons inherit their size and meat qualities from the Dorkings and their nervous energy from the Leghorns and Hamburgs.

Production and exhibition qualities are combined in modern White Orpingtons.

Extremely large, low down, and loose-feathered birds have not been good layers, with a few exceptions.

The color of the egg shell varies from light to dark brown.

The yolk of the egg is light in color and mild in flavor.

GENERAL COMMENT

The name Orpington has been frequently misspelled as Orphington.

A little Orpington is no Orpington at all.

THE BACKYARD FLOCK It Can Be an Attractive Front Yard Flock

(This article taken from a public service release from Ralston Purina might be useful to persons we could get started in the poultry fancy. It doesn't mention Orpingtons, but we all know there are good layers among the breed. The booklet offered is useful also.)

With the price of eggs tipping $1 per dozen in most areas, and meat prices also on the rise, many suburban and rural residents have become backyard poultry raisers, says James Plunkett, family flock manager for Ralston Purina Company.

"A small flock of 25 chickens can provide a family with a continuous supply of fresh eggs throughout the year," he declares. "In addition, raising chickens can teach children responsibility as they make a real contribution to the family."

Backyard poultry raising requires little initial investment, either in facilities or equipment, Plunkett points out. "A flock of 25 chicks only needs a 5 x 5 foot area, sheltered from the cold and draft," he says. "And for extra heat needed during a chick's first five weeks, backyard poultry raisers can use light bulbs or heat lamps." Laying hens, he adds, need about 2 x 3 square feet apiece, depending on the breed, and can be housed in existing space, such as an old tool shed or a garage. It's not necessary to build expensive hen houses, he insists.

After deciding to raise a small flock, the backyard farmer should determine if he wants the birds for eggs, meat or both, Plunkett says. "Make chickens, or cockerels, of course are not needed in an egg-laying operation," he notes.

If the small-scale poultry raiser prefers white-shelled eggs, he should purchase leghorn chicks, Plunkett advises. "This breed lays at a high rate," he says. For those who prefer brown-shelled eggs, or want to produce eggs and meat, Plunkett advises purchasing Rhode Island Reds, Plymouth Rocks, or New Hampshire.

When the backyard farmer orders his day-old chicks, he should make sure they are from pulldrum-typoid-free parents, and are vaccinated against Marek's disease at the hatchery, Plunkett advises. "A good source for chicks may be local Ralston Purina dealers, many of whom have special offers during 'Chick Days' promotions each spring," he says. "They order chicks according to local demand, and ask people to contact them as early as possible to ensure they get enough of the desired breeds."

To prepare for a "family flock," producers should thoroughly clean and disinfect the chickens' housing, Plunkett says. "This can be done using a garden hose and liquid detergent. The small flock owner should then spread 4 to 5 inches of litter on the chicken house floor. This can be straw, peanut or rice hulls, or pine shavings, Plunkett suggests.

A day before receiving the chicks, the house should be heated to 90 to 95 degrees F., using heat lamps suspended 20 inches off the floor, Plunkett says. "In areas sheltered completely from draft, the heat source can be a light bulb," he adds. The temperature should be dropped gradually, five degrees a week, until it reaches a minimum of 65, he adds.

Lighting is just as important as heating, Plunkett notes. "Chicks should receive at least 18 hours of light a day during their first week," he says. For layers, Plunkett advises a minimum of 14 hours of light daily if they're housed in a windowless or blacked-out facility.

To achieve optimal egg production, backyard farmers should be aware of their chickens' changing nutritional needs, Plunkett says. "For instance, chickens used for egg production should be switched from a starting to a growing ration at eight weeks of age, then to a laying ration at about 20 weeks or as egg production begins," he says. "The broiler-type chick, on the other hand, needs a higher protein ration to promote growth from hatching to market age. We suggest feeding a ration like Purina's Broiler Chow or Chick Starters at this time, which meet the chick's protein and energy requirements and is convenient to use."

Those new to backyard poultry raising who purchase the type of chicks they want to raise, and house them in a sanitary, warm and well-ventilated facility with plenty of access to ample quality and quantity of feed and clean water will enjoy a productive "family flock," Plunkett concludes.

For those interested in starting their own "family flock," additional information is available from their local Purina dealers, or by writing to: Ralston Purina Company, Checkboard Square - 1 AP, St. Louis, Mo., 63164. Attention: Chicks.

OVER THE CHICKEN YARD FENCE

Most everyone I've talked to this spring has had the same problem with getting fertile eggs to set. In this issue Mr. Brazzleton takes on the subject and if we will follow his advice, fertility should improve. Since there is green grass and weeds now, I've noticed there are more fertile eggs coming from my pens. There is plenty of wild oats and wild tetterton just outside the pens. I pull it and throw it over the fence to "am" and the birds really work on it.

Most every club I've ever belonged to has suffered from about the same ills. A large membership doesn't necessarily mean a well supported club. There are elections and appointments to fill the various offices, with varying degrees of participation. Then for various reasons the general membership is never heard from until the next election. Some may not like the choices of officers; others don't agree with their actions. Still others may expect the club to do something for them, when actually the purpose of the club is to give persons with a common interest the opportunity to do something for the benefit of all like minded.

We shouldn't take membership in the United Orpington Club for granted, or to use membership just as eligibility for club prizes at the shows. Human nature being what it is, this attitude is a prevailing one.

The member who is a dedicated breeder, who spends a lot of time with his birds, participates in the shows, and offers the fruits of his labors to others is the backbone of the preservation and improvement of these beautiful Orpingtons. If he raises and shares his birds and eggs and chicks, he has done a service, which is the main purpose of life in any endeavor. He may not be an accomplished writer, but if you visit his pens he shares his knowledge person to person. So many good breeders have passed on leaving little of their vast knowledge for others that follow.

A few dedicated breeder-members may manage to keep a club alive, but it takes participation from the bulk of the membership to really make the club accomplish goals. So let's get with the program, voice your opinions, share experiences, make known things you'd like to see accomplished, set goals, dream dreams. We all know dreams can come true!

One of the more exciting developments of the national resurgence in Wales has been the expansion in companies using Welsh as their work language. These companies, some new, some long established, all progressive and full of spirit, are doing things the Welsh have always done. Their products and services reflect a little of the renewed self-respect, independence and enthusiasm in Wales today. So that you may share some of our pleasure in dealing with these companies we are including each represented in our catalog as Cwmni Cymraeg, a Company uncompromisingly Welsh.

BUMPER STICKERS

If you are Welsh, put a red Dragon on your car. It will tell the other Welsh in your area. 3"x5" Red Dragon on green/white field.

Spring is here once again, bringing with it the promise of greenery and flowers which beautify our countryside. It is unfortunate that this roadside beauty is marred by an accumulation of litter.

Fortunately for us, we have groups of concerned citizens, such as yours, who are willing to donate their time and energies to gather up last winter's accumulation of litter to KEEP PENNSYLVANIA BEAUTIFUL.

As in the past, your Highway Department has the necessary supplies (most of which have been donated) to outfit your group for a safe, effective clean-up. This year we have stickers, coloring books and comic books as well as shoulder patches and certificates for our participants.

Saturday, April 23rd has been designated as KPB Day. An alternate date may be chosen by your group. Just let us know when you will need your bags and vests, and when and where to pick up the filled bags.

If you have any questions, please call Glenn Love at 278-1171.

Sincerely yours,

HARFORD TOWNSHIP HISTORICAL SOCIETY
HARFORD, PA. 18823

very interesting, but what does it have to do with Harford Township?

May 2, 1988

Dear Members and Friends:

It is time again for a meeting of the Harford Township Historical Society. The May meeting will take place in the lecture hall of the Harford Church at 7:30 on May 12. All interested persons are welcome.

The main event of the evening will be a continuation of the talk by Carl G. Miller about the Civil War--the War Between the States. This will include a slide presentation of battlefields and re-enactments of battles. Mr. Miller's program in March was so well received and he has so much more material that the directors deemed it wise to have him come again.

We are beginning what promises to be a very busy season. There is much to do at the Soldiers' Orphans School. Max Jones, our president, asks that as many volunteers as possible work on one or more of a number of projects. There is enough variety that everyone can find a job to fit his or her interest.

(1) The roof needs repair, and (2) then it will need to be painted.
(3) The siding also needs painting, though much of the front has been done. We'll divide the paint job into quarters: (a) front, (b) back, (c) north end, and (d) south end.

(4) The front porch needs repair. (5) Can you help refinish the woodwork in one of the rooms? (6) Some siding is damaged and some is missing; this must be repaired before painting. (7) Brush and weeds need to be removed from the foundations of the buildings which were once part of the school. This will give both members and visitors a better idea of how large and important the two institutions were in the past.

You can see that many kinds of skilled and unskilled labor are needed. Please help. Notice that children can do some of the work--with adult supervision. Max suggests that we aim at meeting on the first and third Saturdays of each month for work bees. Group leaders for special jobs may meet any time they can get together.

Through the generosity of Tom Aton, a lot of items of historical nature have been added to the society's collection of material. These were in the Aton house--formerly the Senator E. E. Jones home. Tom has sold the property, but he saved these items for us.

After school is out, we are going to be allowed to look over some materials in the Harford school to see if we want any of them. We'd certainly not like to see graduation pictures lost. If you want to help, please let Max know.

We hope to see a large crowd on May 12.

Prudence Clark

PASTOR TO PEOPLE

Dear Bereans:

Today I received the announcement of the New Milford High School Annual Alumni Association meeting in June. Along with the announcement was a note from a class member inviting those from the class of 38 to a picnic celebrating 50 years since graduation. Imagine that! 50 years! There will be lots of laughter and remembering that day.

One of our class members won't make it. Rev. Thomas and I helped along with others lead in a memorial service for Bill Williams last Saturday. All of this reminds me that life here is a temporary thing. In fact, two other members of our class were killed in World War II. They died in their early twenties.

All of this helps me to ask myself: "What have I done for Jesus with my life, with these 50 years since graduation?" The question really is, what have I invested in Eternal Life compared with what I have invested in this temporary life; an eternal life that will last forever compared with temporary life that lasts about 100 years maximum? Perhaps you have wondered something like this too?

Carpenter! It's almost always on my mind

Here's the story of a woman who is making a good investment. Mrs. Leah E. Dunkelburger's story was in Decision Magazine. She has been a short term missionary in Mexico, Hong Kong, Korea, Brazil, among other places. Presently at the age of 83, she is waiting to go to Haiti again.

In 1921, she asked the Lord to make her a missionary to China, and regards her recent experiences as a fulfillment of that prayer after 60 years.

She says: "I have not been trained in any special area. My talents and abilities are nothing special. But the Lord asked: 'What do you have in your hand?' And when I looked, I found I had clippers in Mexico, a pen in Hong Kong, a needle in Haiti, my Bible and voice in Korea, scissors and crayons in Brazil, and a spoon and pancake turner in Singapore. Small things, but the Lord was willing to use what I had to offer."

SUNDAY WITH THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"Why are your eyes closed, Daddy?"

Dear Friends:

As chairman of the Search Committee, I am most pleased to announce that an executive minister for the American Baptist Churches of Pennsylvania and Delaware has been chosen by action of the Region Board on Saturday, April 9. The Committee very carefully processed fifty-four candidates and is pleased that the person they selected has accepted the call to serve our Region as its chief executive officer.

Dr. Delino (Del) M. Eslinger succeeds Dr. R. Eugene Crow who served ABCOPAD for seventeen years before retiring December 31, 1987. Dr. Eslinger comes to our Region after serving The American Baptist Churches of Michigan for the past twelve years.

Please join the Committee in looking forward with anticipation to Dr. Eslinger beginning his work among us on June 1.

Sincerely,

Benjamin E. Nevin

SUNDAY WITH THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"But, Mommy, I need the cans for a Sunday School project."

05-02-1988

On Friday night, just as I was about to leave Elkdale for the concert by the Northeastern Pennsylvania Philharmonic, Mom phoned to say that Edith Gardner had just telephoned to report that Mildred Crossman had died and that her funeral would be on Saturday morning at 10:30 A.M. from the Clinton Center Baptist Church. I drove to the concert: beautiful performance of the Symphony No. 4 in F Minor by Tchaikovsky. After the concert, DWP and I drove, in two separate vehicles, to 80 Cemetery Street, and invited Edith Gardner to ride to the funeral with us. She accepted. I was pleased to see that she was in excellent health and spirits. At 9:15 A.M. on Saturday morning, I arrived at the Homestead and met DWP and we drove in two separate cars to 80 Cemetery Street, where I picked up EAG and off we went to Clinton Township. While at the Homestead, Dad firmed up dinner plans that he had made for the family for Sunday: a smorgasbord at Woodlock Pines near Hawley. I was instructed to phone Peg and did so and she accepted. Departure at 12:15 P.M. on Sunday from the parking lot of the Berean Baptist Church.

We arrived at Clinton Center Church in good order and went in and paid our respects to the various members of the Crossman family who were gathered in the church. Fay appeared to be quite overcome with grief. He was in a wheelchair. We took our places in the pews. Mildred Wright LaBarre came in and she was alone and I suggested to DWP that he hail her and ask her if she would like to sit with us. She happily accepted. The church filled up with people. Many of them I did not recognize. There were a few very familiar faces, however: Doris Howell, Elizabeth Jones, Charles Curtis, among others. David Watkins, cooing with self-righteousness, was at the piano on the stage. He plays the piano well but is just too sticky for my taste: hair slicked down with an excessive amount of hair cream (DWP pointed out that he dislikes DW because he wears hair cream) and veritably dripping with a holier than thou aura. Rev. Richner made some very appropriate and consoling remarks. The congregation stood and sang "I Walk in the Garden Alone" and the utter simplicity of the moment and the purity of the sentiment resulted in the shedding of many tears during the singing of the hymn, described by Rev. Richner as "one of Mildred Crossman's favorite hymns." The funeral service lasted about 35 minutes and then we proceeded in a motorcade of about 20 cars to the Green Grove Cemetery, Pleasant Mount, which is the cemetery wherein Alicia Squire and her husband Porter Kennedy are interred. A beautiful old country cemetery. DWP, SRP, EAG and Mildred LaBarre in my car. EAG did not get out of the car at the Cemetery. After a few moments and a few words by Richner at the open grave, the burial ceremony ended. There did not appear to be any weeping at the grave. That was carried out in the church beforehand, and the mechanical process of putting the body into the ground was accomplished efficiently and unemotionally. As I sat in the Church and as I stood at the open grave, the thought came to me: I want to be buried in a plain wooden coffin and I want the cover to be nailed on during the funeral ceremony. I also decided that I will build my own coffin. Perhaps I can get John Buberniak to help me build my coffin. During my lifetime, I can use the thing for storage of papers and books. A simple pine coffin. Excellent. As DWP and I left the Green Grove Cemetery, I spotted Jim Wells, who dug the grave for Mildred Crossman's earthly remains. Jim Wells is from Forest City and it is he and his family who look after Maplewood Cemetery, Carbondale. Jim Wells is the nephew of Mrs. Kathryn Wells Wells, the former Secretary/Treasurer of the Elkdale Cemetery Association and one of the two women who approved my appointment as Secretary/Treasurer of the ECA. Jim Wells: "I have the deed to the Wells plot in Elkdale Cemetery, and I think you should have it. I'll make sure you get it." We four (SRP, DWP, Mildred LaBarre and EAG) went to Aldenville Baptist Church, where the after-the-funeral luncheon was served. Delicious, especially the scalloped potatoes that Elizabeth Jones made. I located a woman who told me that it was Elizabeth Jones who made them and I then went and congratulated Elizabeth Jones on her excellent scalloped potatoes. She blushed shyly and seemed very embarrassed but she did appreciate the compliment, I'm sure. We lunched. Excellent food. I drove the group back to the Clinton Church by way of the White Oak road; the White Oak Pond is very beautiful. I don't think that I have ever been by the Pond. Dropped off DWP and Mildred LaBarre. As we drove up the hill from the Church, Edith Gardner said to me: "Who was that woman in the back seat?" Very amusing. Mildred LaBarre has faithfully attended the Griswold Reunions for many years and also the Clinton Center Pioneer Days and EAG has been in her presence many many times and yet she did not know Mildred LaBarre. EAG's circle of acquaintances closed many years ago. If she doesn't know someone from 1950 or before, she regards it as impossible for her to know them. She regards them as newcomers who have an obligation to get to know her, as a member of the "old guard." Very amusing and also very understandable. I dropped off EAG at 80 Cemetery Street and then went to the BBC, where I typed up and produced the BBC Bulletin for May 1st. Then to Elkdale, where I fussed with the birds and in my garden and then dressed and went to Scranton to hear the Musicians from Marlboro. The Hayden and the Hindemith were wonderful. The Mozart was dreadful. I am very very tired of hearing Mozart's music: it's all very same-y and largely unimpassioned and not to my taste. DWP was supposed to meet me there but he did not show up. I sat in row two and enjoyed myself very much. Had a pleasant five minute conversation with Esther Singer during the entre-acte. Sunday morning: cleaned out the both tippler lofts and the hen house in which the young birds are housed and then dressed and drove to Carbondale where I arrived at noon, just in time to pick up the BBC money. Cousin Peg arrived at about 12:10 P.M.--perfectly on schedule. Mom and Dad and Lois and Elwood Truitt were late in arriving. It seems that Lois sang a solo in church in Scranton and they were delayed in departing. WSP was very bent out of shape by their lateness, and so was DWP. The motorcade departed at about 12:45 P.M.: Mom and Dad in their car along with Lois and Elwood Truitt; Peg and SRP in Peg's car; DWP in his jeep. Dad was very impatient and drove at a fast rate of speed and we made it to Woodlock Pines in about 45 minutes. The dining room was large and nicely appointed and the food was lovely: mountains of shrimp and crabs and artichokes and ham and roast beef and vegetable lasagna and asparagus and chicken and linguine and maccaroni and cheese and lox and nicely presented. The place appears to be a standard "resort in the mountains" and there were many city kids who were there as waiters and busboys etc. It took almost until the end of dinner for Dad to cool off from the lateness of the Truitts. The occasion was sponsored by and organized and paid for by Dad: "I figured that since Don would be out of town next weekend, Mother's Day, that we should have Mother's Day dinner early and here we are." Very touching. We ate and ate and ate from the multitude of dishes and had a grand time. When dinner was over, Mom and Dad and the Truitts went off by themselves in the family car; DWP drove to Wilkes Barre to glaze some ceramics or perhaps to fire them in a kiln; Peg and I returned to Carbondale, with stops at two or three greenhouses and flower stands along the way. At one place, not far from Hawley, Peg and I found some perfectly beautiful perennials at very reasonable prices. We purchased quite a few plants and had a grand time. I purchased some "Lychnis Armenia," some Veronica, some Sweet William and some Shasta Daisies. Peg gave me some of her red Lobelia. I also purchased a variegated geranium. Very enjoyable. Peg and I are kindred spirits when it comes to many things. As we drove back to Carbondale, she said that she was going to have a new will drawn up and would like me to serve as Executor of her will. She also said that she was going to leave me "Apokeepsink" ("the cabin," as Peg calls it). I said that I would be very happy to serve as the executor of her Last Will and Testament and that I was pleased/touched/honored/thrilled that she plans on willing me Apokeepersink. Very probably she and I will both live about the same length of time, so I will probably never become the owner of Apokeepersink, but, in the event of her untimely death, I will become the owner of Apokeepersink. Now there's a thought! Returned to Carbondale and Peg dropped me off in the BBC parking lot, where I had left my Renault before the trip to Wayne County. We divided up the perennials. I returned to Elkdale and immediately set about planting my new treasures. Just as I was finishing up, I had the pleasure of looking up and seeing JVB drive into my yard. He had been looking for me for a couple of days but kept missing me, said he. He watched me as I finished up the gardening project and then as I did my evening's chores. He told me of recent work he ~~has~~ done in Carbondale City Hall and I asked if he would show me what he ~~has~~ done. Naturally he was pleased to do so, and so we packed up at Elkdale and went into Carbondale and to City Hall. He showed me a couple of desks that he ~~has~~ scraped and re-finished recently and then we moved furniture about in 302 and tried various arrangements. He then suggested that we paint a table that he has been restoring. I agreed to do so. We had a grand time. At about 11 P.M., we went to the Baptist Church where I organized the writing and typing up of two JVB documents: a letter to the unemployment bureau for him, in which his recent efforts to find a job are described; and the press release for Wednesday's D&H Chapter meeting. It was after 1:00 A.M. when I crawled into bed at Elkdale. When Mrs. Allen phoned this morning and asked me to substitute at Lakeland, I was in a very deep sleep: less than 5 hours of sleep can be very difficult, although the day here at Lakeland has been very productive: mostly organizing in my briefcase and catching up on my journal, as it were.

For Immediate Release:

O&W RAILROAD SLIDE SHOW

On Wednesday, May 4, 1988, at 7:00 P.M., John Bifano will make a slide and video presentation on the former Scranton Division of the New York, Ontario and Western Railway, in Council Chambers, in Carbondale City Hall.

Bifano is the President and Editor of the NYO&W Chapter of the National Railway Historical Society, Middletown, NY, and is one of the leading authorities on the Scranton Division. Rare views of Carbondale and a video made from an original 8 mm. film taken from the cab of an engine as it traveled the entire length of the Scranton Division (from Scranton to Cadosia, NY) will be shown in the course of the presentation.

This O&W presentation is sponsored by the Delaware and Hudson Chapter of the National Railway Historical Society, Carbondale, and following the video show, the President of the D&H Chapter, John V. Buberniak, will lead a discussion on the rivalry between the NYO&W and the D&H during the golden days of railroading in Carbondale and northeastern Pennsylvania.

In addition, some of the artifacts and records in the holdings of the D&H Chapter of the NRHS will be on view in the Chapter's exhibition room in Carbondale City Hall both before and after the show.

For further information, contact the D&H Chapter at 282-0385. All members of the Chapter are encouraged to attend. The presentation is open to the public and no admission will be charged.

5/5/88-

SRP and JVD wrote their release on Sunday night, 5/1/88, and JVD took it to the paper, for all editions, on Monday. all of them published it and because they did, there were about 125 people at the presentation last night! a great personal triumph for JVD and the D&H Chapter. Had I not "made the push" to get this release written, I'm not sure that the crowd would have been there.

RE: "Advance Notice" memorandum, dated 04-28-1988, from Office of Employment Security, 1 Westside Drive, Carbondale, PA 18407

EFFORTS ON THE PART OF JOHN V. BUBERNIAK (SSN: 204-58-5430) TO FIND EMPLOYMENT IN THE PERIOD APRIL 13, 1988 -- APRIL 29, 1988

1. In person visit (April 13, 1988) to the office of the General Manager of the Lackawanna Valley Railroad, 310 Genet Street, Scranton, PA. Spoke with Elaine Butler about possible employment with the railroad as trainman/brakeman, or any other positions open in railroading.

2. In person visit (April 18, 1988) to the Railroad Retirement Board, Park Plaza Building, Scranton, PA, to obtain current job listings of railroad employment. Two possible job openings were listed in my field of work: (1) Trainman/Apprentice Engineer with Conrail in Allentown, PA, and in northern New Jersey. Spoke with Nancy Kublik in personnel with Conrail same day and my name was listed with Conrail for possible employment. I was told that I would be contacted when job openings become available; and (2) Conductor with the Dakota, Minnesota and Eastern Railroad, Huron, South Dakota. Telephoned Cliff Robinson at DM&ERR, and stated my credentials and was told that I would be contacted when all candidates for the opening in question were reviewed.

3. In person visit (April 20, 1988) to James Ratchford, Chief Mechanical Officer, Guilford Transportation, Delaware and Hudson Railway, Binghamton, NY about possible position as Locomotive Repairman in the D&H Diesel shops in East Binghamton, NY. I will be contacted when a job opening becomes a reality.

In addition to the above listed efforts on my part to secure employment, I am actively pursuing job referrals and possibilities in my field of work, railroading, with the Railroad Retirement Board, Scranton, PA.

5/5/88 - This JVD document, which we produced on Sunday night, did not have a successful effect. The unemployment bureau would not even read it. Such pigs they are.

CITY NEWS

Our sorrow also to the Rev. G. Fay Crossman and family on the loss of their beloved wife and mother, Mildred. The Crossman's were dear friends of the late News publisher, Joseph Kameen and his family for many, many years. On God's good earth, the Lord placed a handful of especially wonderful people and among them were Rev. and Mrs. Crossman. They were together for 66 years in good times and bad times, but God's love made it always good. These two fine people had the blessing to be together, even if it was as patients in a hospital room at St. Joseph's Hospital, at the time of Mildred's death. In this age of plenty when we measure our lives by our worldly goods, it is a blessing to see a couple which measured their lives by their love. We extend our love to the Crossman family and know the Lord will keep her in the plan of His hand.

MILDRED CROSSMAN P.5

Mildred Crossman, 88, of Pleasant Mount RD 1, died Wednesday, April 27, in St. Joseph's Hospital, Carbondale, after an illness. She was the wife of the Rev. George Fay Crossman.

Born in Dalton, daughter of the late Ezra and Ida Strang Blewett, she was a member of the Clinton Center Baptist Church.

Also surviving are a daughter, Eleanor Lockyer, Poston, Ariz.; four sons, Milo, Pleasant Mount; George, Johnson City, N.Y.; Harold, Sutherlin, Ore.; and Theodore, Howell, Mich.; two sisters, Dorothy Watkins and Esther Dowse, both of Scranton; 16 grandchildren; 19 great-grandchildren; several nieces and nephews. A son, Robert, and a brother, Bevan Blewett, preceded her in death.

The funeral was Saturday at the Clinton Center Baptist Church, the Rev. Arthur Richmer, pastor, officiating. Interment, Green Grove Cemetery, Mount Pleasant Twp.

5/5/88 - stopped at the Hornstead on my way home and dropped off DAP's mail from P.O. Box 161; Mom and Dad were just returning from a ride around the "Golf Course" and they had picked a large box full of a couple hundred daffodils/Jonquils/narcissus. Very beautiful. We arranged them in a Crock/Vase in the middle of the kitchen table. The bouquet looks like a giant sized version of the photograph on the preceding page. I stayed for about 45 minutes and we talked about spring birds and flowers.

WE'LL PAY YOU 65¢ PER NAME/ADDRESS TYPED ACCORDING TO OUR INSTRUCTIONS!

Dear Friend:

NOW! As an independent home typist working with us, YOU COULD EARN "BIG MONEY" and respect in your own typing service - performing simple, pleasant work substantially consisting of compiling mailing lists from the convenience of your own home!

WE'LL PAY YOU 65¢ FOR EACH AND EVERY NAME/ADDRESS YOU RECEIVE AND TYPE BY FOLLOWING OUR INSTRUCTIONS! As you perform your work, we'll rush out your checks as promptly as possible. We also reimburse your shipping charges in mailing your typing work to us, which would be added to your checks.

There are so many fine advantages in working from the convenience of home no time clocks to punch, no fighting traffic to and from work, and no coming home ill or tired. Working with us should require no more than a few hours a day, Monday through Friday to do what is necessary!

As for experience, the only requirement is that you at least know how to type. Even if your typing is slow, you will still be able to qualify just as long as it is accurate. The most important factors for a successful home typist are initiative, reliability and average common sense. Your age or where you may live is not important.

The amount of typing work that you do will depend on your own ability and ambition. We put no limit on that. You are free to work your own hours as you see fit.

Type and submit 100 names/addresses --- Your check will be $ 65.00

Type and submit 500 names/addresses --- Your check will be $325.00

Type and submit 1000 names/addresses -- Your check will be $650.00

DOES IT MAKE ANY DIFFERENCE WHERE YOU LIVE? Absolutely not! It does not make any difference whether you live in a large city like Los Angeles, a rural area, or a farm anywhere in the country because you would be doing business entirely by mail.

KEEP IN MIND, THE ONLY SKILL THAT IS REQUIRED IS THAT YOU HAVE KNOWLEDGE OF HOW TO OPERATE A TYPEWRITER. We will gladly teach you everything else in simple language how you can start and continue day after day, week after week, year after year! You will be shown the simple procedures for having a continuous supply of names and addresses to type for us.

As you can see, the biggest part of your work will be receiving names and addresses to type and submitting them to us! Yes, we want you to work with us! We also want you to be happy and remain active for many years in this terrific program. No one is ever under any obligation to continue if he/she does not enjoy the work or find it profitable. You will never be required to do any certain amount. You can type as many names and addresses as you are able.

WHY DO WE NEED YOUR IMMEDIATE HELP? Answer: There are millions of people in the United States and Canada that we would like to send our offers to, but we could never be expected to reach all of them even if we worked around the clock. However, by you and many others helping us from home, by compiling mailing lists, we would be able to contact many thousands of potential prospects for our mail order business opportunity books and plans at a shorter amount of time. Yes, how you would go about performing your work will be explained to you in complete detail when you receive our easy to understand program.

IN ORDER TO GET YOU STARTED IMMEDIATELY, we must require that you send a good faith deposit of only $30.00 for instructional material. This deposit assures us that you are serious about wanting this kind of work and will follow our instructions. Your deposit will be returned after you have submitted as little as 200 typed names and addresses. This is in addition to your regular payments at the rate of 65¢ per piece. In as much as we would like to send you our program without requiring the small deposit, we must protect ourselves from those few who are not serious and have no intentions other than to satisfy their own curiosity. Naturally, no business can afford to send costly material to everyone who writes in asking for it.

START NOW BY MAILING THE FOLLOWING ENTRY FORM IMMEDIATELY, and start taking those first important steps on the road to working from the comforts of your own home! There is no other money to ever pay us. All requests for our program must include the full amount of remittance. You may send cash, check or a money order.

*CANADIANS MUST REMIT A CHECK OR MONEY ORDER PAYABLE IN U.S. CURRENCY, OR MUST REMIT THE AMOUNT IN CANADIAN CURRENCY EQUIVALENT TO U.S. DOLLARS*

Yours for the best of SUCCESS,

The Management

YES, please enter me into your program as a "Home Typist" who agrees to compile mailing lists for you as per your instructions. Enclosed is my remittance of $30.00.

I understand that I will be self-employed, but under your guidance and instructions. I also understand that you are not selling me a business opportunity, but rather requiring a good faith deposit to show my sincerity. It is further understood that my deposit will be returned after I have typed and submitted a minimum of 200 names and addresses according to your instructions.

My perennials garden is in excellent shape. I have a wide variety of plants and bulbs and seeds in the ground—they are all set to grow like crazy" as soon as we get some decent growing weather. Yesterday afternoon on my way into Carbondale from LHS, I stopped at Mermelstein's and purchased two pots of <sup>"achillea compositae"</sup> Yarrow (<sup>"filipendulina"</sup> one yellow and one red) for $1.98 each; also purchased an <sup>"millefolium"</sup> everblooming hybrid tea rose ("Mister Lincoln") at the same, of all places, for $4.99. all of these plants are very robust and were planted last evening. I can't seem to stop buying flowers.

5/5/88 - Tree Swallow

Yesterday afternoon when I was feeding the titblers and chickens, I heard the unmistakable sound of tree swallows above me. I have seen and heard them for about 10 days now. Suddenly I saw two or three of them swoop down and fly by the blue bird house on the post at the edge of the garden. Wonderful! They appeared to be checking out the house. This morning as I went about my morning bird chores, I heard the tree swallow again and saw a male perched a-top the apple tree at the corner of the property.

To my great pleasure, I saw a 984 male tree swallow perched on top of the house as I drove up the hill on my way to Lakeland High School. I am very fond of tree swallows — as flyers, of course — and hope that these birds take up residence at my garden's edge. I also heard a house wren holding forth at full volume as I went about my morning Chores. Hail to summer.

Bluebirds are also in the area —
it would be grand if they would take up residence in the blue bird house on the tree in the back meadow. Spring is not silent (RE- Rachel Carson) and may it never become so.

5/5/86 - LHS, 7th period

Phil Mazza: "Mr. Powell, are you related to April Powell?"

SRP: "Yes, she's my niece."

PM: "She's going out with my brother Chris."

SRP: "Good for her. I didn't know."

---

Evening - the tree swallows have, it appears taken up residence in the house at the edge of the garden; .....
the male was sitting on the box
as I did my evening bird chore.
This is wonderful news!

Tipplers — Yesterday (5/8/88) I banded 88/999 + 88/1000, and in a few days it will be time to band 88/997 + 88/998 and that will be that for the 1988 breeding season: 14 young birds. That's plenty. I will focus on them very closely and find out which ones are the best flyers.

1. FTA-85-340 + 3877 : 976-977-997-998
2. FTA-85-3853 + 318 : 978-999-1000
3. FTA-86-1207 + 1217 : 979-982-983
4. FTA-86-1213 + 1219 : 980-981-984-985

976, 977, 978, 979, 980, 981 — they appear to be settled, although it's still too early to tell. Yesterday <sup>4</sup> of them flew for about three hours — 978 + 981 did not seem interested in going up.

Dear Band Member:

"Outstanding performance!" "Very warm welcome!" These were some of the comments made to me follow our recent spring concert and anniversary dinner. I certainly concur with those comments and each and every member of the band is to be commended on a job well done. I also want once again to thank you all for your outpouring of support and enthusiasm given to me during the past year. You made what seemed like an impossible task a very easy undertaking and because of you The Crystal Band has enjoyed a splendid year.

However, our work for the year is not quite done. We have made arrangements to present a total of seven (7) concerts for the summer series enabling us to again share our love of music with the community. The dates, times, and locations are as follows:

Wednesday, May 11 - 7:30 p.m.	Allied Services, Morgan Highway, Scranton - Please wear full uniform for this concert.
Sunday, June 5 - 2:00 p.m.	Grey Towers, Milford, PA Dinner following at Apple Valley Restaurant Details of the dinner will be available soon. Please wear full uniform for this concert.
Tuesday, June 14 - 7:30 p.m.	Benefit concert for Todd Bird Hyde Park Presbyterian Church, Hyde Park and Washburn Streets, Scranton Please wear summer uniform for this and all remaining concerts unless otherwise notified.
Monday, June 20 - 7:30 p.m.	Lutherwood, Scranton. Rain or shine.
Monday, June 27 - 7:30 p.m.	Carbondale Memorial Park. Rain or shine.
Sunday, July 10 - 2:30 p.m.	Lackawanna County Long Term Care Center. Rain or shine.
Monday, July 18 - 7:30 p.m.	Honesdale Memorial Park. Rain or shine.

*Same day
as
concert*

The date of our last rehearsal for the year will be Monday, May 23. We hope that everyone can be present at this rehearsal so that final preparations can be made for the summer concerts.

Please complete the attached form telling us which concerts you will be able to attend and return to either Earl or Karin no later than Monday, May 23. While it is our hope that everyone can be at every concert, we realize that this is not always possible. If for some reason you find it impossible to attend a concert that you previously stated you would attend, please contact either Earl (842-9315) or Karin (347-6154) in advance so that adjustments can be made.

Rehearsals will begin again in late September or early October. Please be sure that we will notify you in September of the details for the upcoming year.

May I take this opportunity to wish each of you a wonderful and happy summer. Have fun in the sun and please return safely to us in the fall.

Sincerely,

Karin

Footprints on the sands of time...

And what are the "footprints" that SKP will leave behind him? They shall be footprints on microfilm and "... perhaps another, / sailing o'er life's solemn main, / a forlorn and shipwrecked brother, / seeing, shall take heart again..."

And why do we do what we do?
We do it for ourselves and for those who come after us. We do it to give ourselves strength and to give strength to those who come after us. Footprints on microfilm.... les bouteilles

5/9/88 - LHS - Mrs. Turismini

Spent the first four periods this morning sorting through the originals of my 1987 Journal as returned to me by Micrographics International, and discovered, to my great dismay, that the section from April 1 to June 11 is not here. Perhaps it is mixed in with the originals of "Sheffield Publications, Inc.", which is at Ekdale. If it is not there, I shall read the next act to Micrographics later in the day. As it is, the entire document will have to be re-filmed because of the sloppy titles on the microfiche cards. Very maddening.

There are so many incompetent people about these days who call themselves professionals. One has to constantly keep after them to make sure that one's work is correctly done. It is very important that my personal papers be correctly microfilmed and I will keep at Micrographic International until the job is correctly done. If they have lost April 1 to June 11, inclusive, I will go after them with saber drawn.

Society observing 'Preservation Week'

CARBONDALE — "Preservation: The People's Choice" is the theme for the 16th annual National Historic Preservation Week May 8-14, co-sponsored by Carbondale Historical Society and Museum and the National Trust for Historic Preservation. The observance has also been proclaimed locally by Carbondale Mayor John E. Moran.

President Ronald Reagan has urged all Americans to echo the theme. "The American people make it abundantly clear as they seek to preserve the many buildings and sites that are the physical record and reminder of so much of our past."

Thousands of preservation groups across the nation will campaign for the basic platform: that preservation builds community spirit while providing cultural and economic benefits.

"Preservationists" will take their message to 1988 candidates for the nation's half-million elected offices. They will invite candidates to address their organizations, sponsor debates at historic sites and press for stands on preservation issues.

"Preservation is a success in terms of economics, politics and aesthetics," said S. Robert Powell, president, Carbondale

Historical Society and Museum. "It's not identified with liberals or conservatives. We expect any candidate who seeks to improve his or her community to discuss the role of preservation."

The Carbondale group has been active locally in historic preservation for the past several years. It has held lectures about architecture and historic preservation as well as replacing a portion of the roof on Carbondale City Hall. This year the organization is working with the present city administration to preserve other portions of the building.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Historical Society at 282-0385 or by writing to P.O. Box 151, Carbondale, PA. 18407.

The joint effort by the Carbondale Historical Society and the City of Carbondale to restore Carbondale City Hall and Courthouse continues with the restoration of the stairwell and hall on the third floor of the building. This project is under the direction of John V. Buberniak, First Vice President of the Historical Society, and Paul Browne, Managing Director of the City of Carbondale. Shown here are John Klimkiewicz, left, and John V. Buberniak, right, in the process of erecting scaffolding to repair the ceiling above the stairwell. The work will involve plastering and painting the third floor landing and hall, as well as the restoration of the oak wainscoting and woodwork in the upper areas of the building. On April 22, Glass Products, Inc., through Tom Zacone, donated glass to this current restoration effort in City Hall. This restoration is part of the City and the Historical Society's participation in National Historic Preservation Week. (NEWS photo by Matt Reavy)

Good effort shown

To the editor:

The PIC (Pride in Carbondale) Committee would like to thank all the residents of Carbondale for their participation in Beautification Day. Despite rainy weather and cold temperatures, everyone pitched in and made the day a red-letter one for Carbondale. In particular I would like to offer a special thanks to the following groups who showed up en masse for the occasion:

Brownie troops 157 and 261 under the guidance of Sandi Waering and Lisa Hunter, Joseph Pascoe, Robert Price, Robert Powell, and the Carbondale Historical Society, Susan Faye Mancuso and Councilman Michael Rinaldi with the Carbondale Miss "C" girls softball league, the Whitebridge Playground Association with former Carbondale Councilman Peter Kacer, and Tim Phelan.

Also, Lieutenant Francis X. Dotle along with his boy scout troop, the Carbondale Shade Tree and Civic Pride Committee, with Harry Smith and Mike Gallagher, Mary Beth Zazzera and her group from the Carbondale General Hospital, Grand Knight Joseph Toolan and the Knights of Columbus, the MHMR with Rose Zielinski, the Carbondale YMCA and director Steve Durkin, Cindy Waibel and her cub scouts.

Also, Bill and Lois Miller and the First Presbyterian Church, the Hart Place Neighborhood Association with Paul Browne, Grace and Peggy Surdoval and Joanie Gallagher and Donna Newman.

Also, the JAFLO Tree Service of Allentown, which also donated their time to the clean-up.

I would like to give a special thanks to Mayor John E. Moran and city manager Paul Browne, along with director of public works Frank "Juicy" Mancuso and public works employees Shanky Galko and Butch Howell who co-ordinated the trash pick-ups.

We, of the committee, look forward to working with everyone in the near future to improve our city. Again, my heartiest thanks and congratulations for a job well done.

Preservation Week set

Mayor John Moran has issued a proclamation marking May 8-14 as Historic Preservation Week in Carbondale.

Whereas, Preservation enjoys bipartisan support among Americans;

Whereas, The greatness of America is founded upon appreciation of our heritage and upon knowledge of the historic events and places that have shaped our national identity;

Whereas, Historic landmarks contribute to the economic, social and cultural well-being of our cities, towns and rural areas;

Whereas, National Historic Preservation Week 1988 provides a splendid opportunity for Americans of all ages to get involved with the political process to help preserve our heritage for future generations.

"The People's Choice" is the theme for Preservation Week 1988, co-sponsored by the National Trust for Historic Preservation and the Carbondale Historical Society and Museum, Inc. Now, therefore, I, John Moran, Mayor of the City of Carbondale, do hereby proclaim May 8-14 as Historic Preservation Week in Carbondale.

Historic Preservation Week marked May 8-14

No matter who wins the Presidential election, historic preservation will surely emerge as "the people's choice." "Preservation: The People's Choice" is the theme for the 16th annual National Historic Preservation Week, May 8-14, cosponsored by the Carbondale Historical Society and Museum and the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

In a special message from the White House, President Ronald Reagan urged all Americans to "echo the theme that preservation is truly 'the people's choice.' The American people make that abundantly clear as they seek to preserve the many buildings and sites that are the physical record and reminder of so much of our past."

Thousands of preservation groups across the nation will campaign for the basic platform: That preservation builds community spirit while providing cultural and economic benefits. It protects neighborhoods, creates jobs, revitalizes Main Streets, provides new housing, and fosters appreciation of history. Increasingly preservation advocates have jumped into the thick of politics. They have organized neighborhoods, served on one of 1,200 historic district commissions or even run for office.

In addition, preservationists will take their message to candidates for the nation's half-million elected offices. They will invite candidates to address their organizations, sponsor debates at historic sites, and press for stands on preservation issues. Their efforts will make preservation an important issue in the 1988 elections and the post-election period when official appointments are made.

"Preservation is a success in terms of economics, politics and aesthetics. It's not identified with liberals or conservatives. We expect any candidate who seeks to improve their community to discuss the role of preservation," said S. Robert Powell, president, Carbondale Historical Society and Museum.

The Carbondale Historical Society and Museum has been working very actively in the past several years in the realm of historic preservation, holding lectures about architecture and historic preservation to raise the information level of the public as well as actual "bricks and mortar" preservation such as replacing a portion of the roof on Carbondale City Hall.

This year the organization is working with the present administration of the City of Carbondale to preserve other portions of City Hall. Therefore it is right that the Carbondale Historical Society and Museum joins with the National Trust for Historic Preservation in celebrating National Historic Preservation Week 1988, May 8 through the 14.

If you wish more information about historic preservation, please contact the Carbondale Historical Society and Museum at 282-0385 or write to, Post Office Box 151, Carbondale, PA 18407.

5/11/88 - The major news of the day is this: the April-June 11, 1987 section of my 1987 Journal has been found.
It is at Micrographics. It was found today under some papers in the room in which the microfiche machine is located. I have just now spoken with "Pam" at Micrographics and she reported this good news. I have been agonizing over this missing section of my 1987 Journal since 5/9/88, and now I can go about the rest of my life. In the near future I will drive down to Hazelton and deliver the complete 1987 Journal to them for remicrofilming. Once again I am persuaded of the necessity of preparing one's own time capsules

5/1/88 - p. 2

for posterity. Take for example the difficulty in getting my recent papers microfilmed — who else, but SRP, would devote such time and energy to the microfilming of SRP's papers. No answer: no one. The necessary preparations must all be made during one's life-time and by one's self — especially when it comes to something as complex, multifaceted / encyclopedic as SRP's papers. At the time of my death, I will have (with a little luck) a very carefully prepared and organized safe deposit box full of primarily microfilmed documents about SRP and his work: microfilmed footprints on the sands of time.

"Letter to the

Three Cheers for PennDOT

To the Editor:

Glenn Love and Paul J. Mihelc merit an enthusiastic round of applause from the citizens of Susquehanna and Wyoming Counties. These two men served this year as Susquehanna County and Wyoming County Coordinator and Maintenance Manager, respectively, of the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation's annual Keep Pennsylvania Beautiful Day.

On KPB Day, April 23rd, civic-minded groups of volunteers and private individuals literally walked the streets, roads and highways of the commonwealth and gathered up the garbage that thoughtless and selfish individuals have thrown along Pennsylvania's streets, roads and highways.

The KPB volunteers were all outfitted for the clean up by PennDOT with safety vests and the necessary garbage bags to insure that the clean up was a safe and effective undertaking. In addition, the volunteers, in appreciation of their donated time and energies, were given stickers, coloring books, shoulder patches and certificates by the state Department of Transportation.

As a resident of Elkdale, Clifford Township, I participated in KPB Day by picking up all litter along the road from the village of Elkdale to the top of Wells' Hill near the village of Dundaff. In so doing, I picked up 25 large bags of garbage and stacked the filled bags along the road in several locations. At the end of the clean up, I phoned Glenn Love at PennDOT and arranged for the pick up of the filled garbage bags. The bags were picked up on Tuesday, the 26th, by PennDOT.

As a result of KPB Day, many of the streets, roads and highways of the commonwealth are now litter free. Let's hope that they remain that way for the entire summer. We live in a very beautiful part of Pennsylvania. Let's hope that thoughtless and selfish individuals will not mar the beauty of Susquehanna and Wyoming Counties, in particular, and the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, as a whole, with unsightly, unhealthy and polluting litter.

When I phoned Glenn Love at PennDOT (278-1171) to arrange the pick up of the garbage picked up in Clifford Township,

I was pleased to learn that PennDOT will, at any time, outfit and support all civic-minded groups and individuals who are interested in keeping Pennsylvania beautiful by picking up litter along the commonwealth's streets, roads and highways.

The Keep Pennsylvania Beautiful Day program that is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation is an excellent idea, and everyone responsible for the planning and successful implementation of the program clearly deserves the thanks and appreciation of all residents of the commonwealth.

Three cheers for PennDOT.
yours truly,

S. Robert Powell

Bob,

Good to hear from you again!
Yes! We'll have you over one day this summer and we'll go and pay John Mead a visit.

Your birds must be tough to go through all of that rain, sleet, etc. Ten hours a great time under those extremes!

R.S. isn't an FTA member anymore. I surely don't miss him. Poor fellow — competition, winning competition doesn't agree with him. Can't imagine why?

#340 is a damn good bird and if his young are as good then by all means do work around him — rather center on him. Have other

just in case - something about putting all the eggs in one basket.

I was under the impression that you were breeding more of the DAVIES type that I gave you. Don't you have any from the black hen?

I had - H-A-D - a good bit of blue much the same as #340, 3 blues and a blue check from the Davies stock. Well, I lost one of the blues and now the blue chk is acting up, not putting well, spitting. Should he do that on contest day and if he influences

the other 2 then there is no room is my left for him. Know what I mean?
Should that happen then I have 3 from Al Jukes, the same 3 that got me disqualified last season. Maybe I can get them in shape for Long Day.
They've got to be released and so my work is cut out for me. I really want to get into the competition! At any rate, I'll still have the young birds to have some fun with.

Sister, think of the other H.S. fyers and leave some money for them this year? — You won most of it in '87!

Take care,

Best,

Stan C.

P.S. - John died 11.50 and I disg'd myself because one of the bit was really screwing up while the other two were near perfect. Tell you about it when you come to visit.

5/12/88 - The name of the game seems to be:
never let up in your efforts to integrate in the face of the constant dis-integrating forces/factors, which does not by any means mean that "time heals all wounds" pure and simple. You have to work at it with everything within you and then perhaps time enters the picture.

Whether or not miracles take place is not the question. The point is this:
in order to have particular plants grow in particular soil at a particular time, for example, you have to work at carefully preparing the soil before the seeds are planted. And if you carefully do your homework / make all the necessary preparations, miracles occasionally take place.

5/12/88 - Feast day of Saint Pancras; Yesterday was Saint Mamertus and tomorrow is Saint Servatius. The three ice saints, and so after 5/13/88 there will be no more frost. — or so the story goes, en tout cas.

Today is my 115th day of substituting this year. A new record. Tomorrow I will be here again <sup>#116</sup> for Mrs. Kucharski & then all next week <sup>#117-121</sup> at Blue Ridge for Mr. Ehrenberg who, it appears will be out most of the time until the end of the year & so I may get in about 15 more days this year. Tant mieux.

5/13/88 - During the day yesterday at Lakeland and last night at Eldale, I read - & think for the first time* - Longfellow's Evangeline - which is an American "Romeo & Juliette." Wonderful description of rural acadian world of early 19th Century, and it pained me when the acadian <sup>farmers</sup> were expelled from their rural Eden and their world was destroyed by the imperialists.
The wandering of Evangeline and Gabriel is through the American landscape that Chateaubriand describes in Atala & Rene; Prevost's Manon Lescaut also comes immediately to mind. "Two ships passing in the night" (in this case two boats/rafts) is the painful reality of the plot's structure: Evangeline & Co. traveling South on the river and Gabriel traveling North on the river. Longfellow's

5/13/88-2

Language is wonderfully evocative and poetic, e.g., "When she [Evangeline] passed, it seemed like the ceasing of exquisite music."

[Evangeline Bellefontaine
Gabriel Cayenne]

Evangeline - begun in November, 1845, and finished in February, 1847. Longfellow: 1807-1882

An Exclusive Invitation for

MR. S. ROBERT POWELL

Dear Mr. Powell:

I would like to extend a special invitation for you to be one of a limited number of our Preferred Customers in Pennsylvania who will have the opportunity to enjoy a unique gardening treat this fall.

We have secured a quantity of exceptional Iris rhizomes. Because the supply of these choice varieties is extremely limited, we are unable to offer them to the general public. However, we've assembled the available rhizomes in a special Royal Garden Iris Collection which we are offering exclusively to our Preferred Customers at an extremely advantageous price.

This Collection includes two rhizomes each of five varieties ideal for planting this fall in Lackawanna County, Pennsylvania.

While such Iris often sell for as much as $5.00 each in the Carbondale area, we're making a limited time offer of all ten Royal Garden Iris for just $19.99.

Since you're a Preferred Customer, we'd also like to send two extra Iris absolutely free to plant in The Powell Garden. They are the rare and beautiful Zebra Iris -- one of the most unique varieties we've ever seen. Chances are you'll be one of the very first in the entire Carbondale area to enjoy this special gardening treat. This variety is still extremely rare and costly.

I recently saw them priced at $9.75 each, but you'll receive two prime quality Zebra Iris rhizomes absolutely FREE with each Royal Garden Iris Collection you order.

You don't have to send a single penny to reserve your Royal Garden Iris Collection for shipment at proper planting time this fall. You'll have full opportunity to inspect and approve your shipment before you pay a cent.

Order without risk. Your Iris will be fully covered by our Golden Guarantee of Complete Satisfaction. If, for any reason, you're not fully pleased with any Iris upon receipt, after planting or once it grows and blooms, all you have to do is write Spring Hill anytime before July 1, 1989. We'll refund every cent you paid for it or send you a free replacement, whichever you prefer.

I've prepared a special booklet describing these exceptional Iris. As you inspect the unretouched photos of all of the beauties in this Royal Garden Iris Collection, I'm sure you'll understand more fully what a truly exceptional value we're offering.

I sincerely hope you'll want to take advantage of this exclusive invitation. I would like to emphasize, however, that our supply of these Royal Garden Iris Collections is limited and all reservations must be honored on a first come, first served basis.

Sincerely yours,

Jonathan Merriweather

Dear Colleague:

Enclosed is a print of the poster for the current exhibition ("Maps and Views of Carbondale and Vicinity") in the gallery of the Carbondale (PA) Historical Society and Museum, Inc. This exhibition, which was originally scheduled to be taken down on June 2, 1988, will remain on view until September 2, 1988. We would be pleased to have you and your group view this show. If the regularly scheduled hours that the gallery is open (listed on the poster) are not convenient for you, we can arrange to have the gallery open at a time that is convenient for you and your group.

If you or members of your group would like additional copies of this poster, we have extras available at $5.00 per copy, plus $1.00 for postage.

We shall be happy to place the name of your organization on our mailing list, if you would like. We would be pleased to be placed on your mailing list, and you may consider this letter a request that you do so.

Thank you.

Sincerely yours,

S. Robert Powell

1.

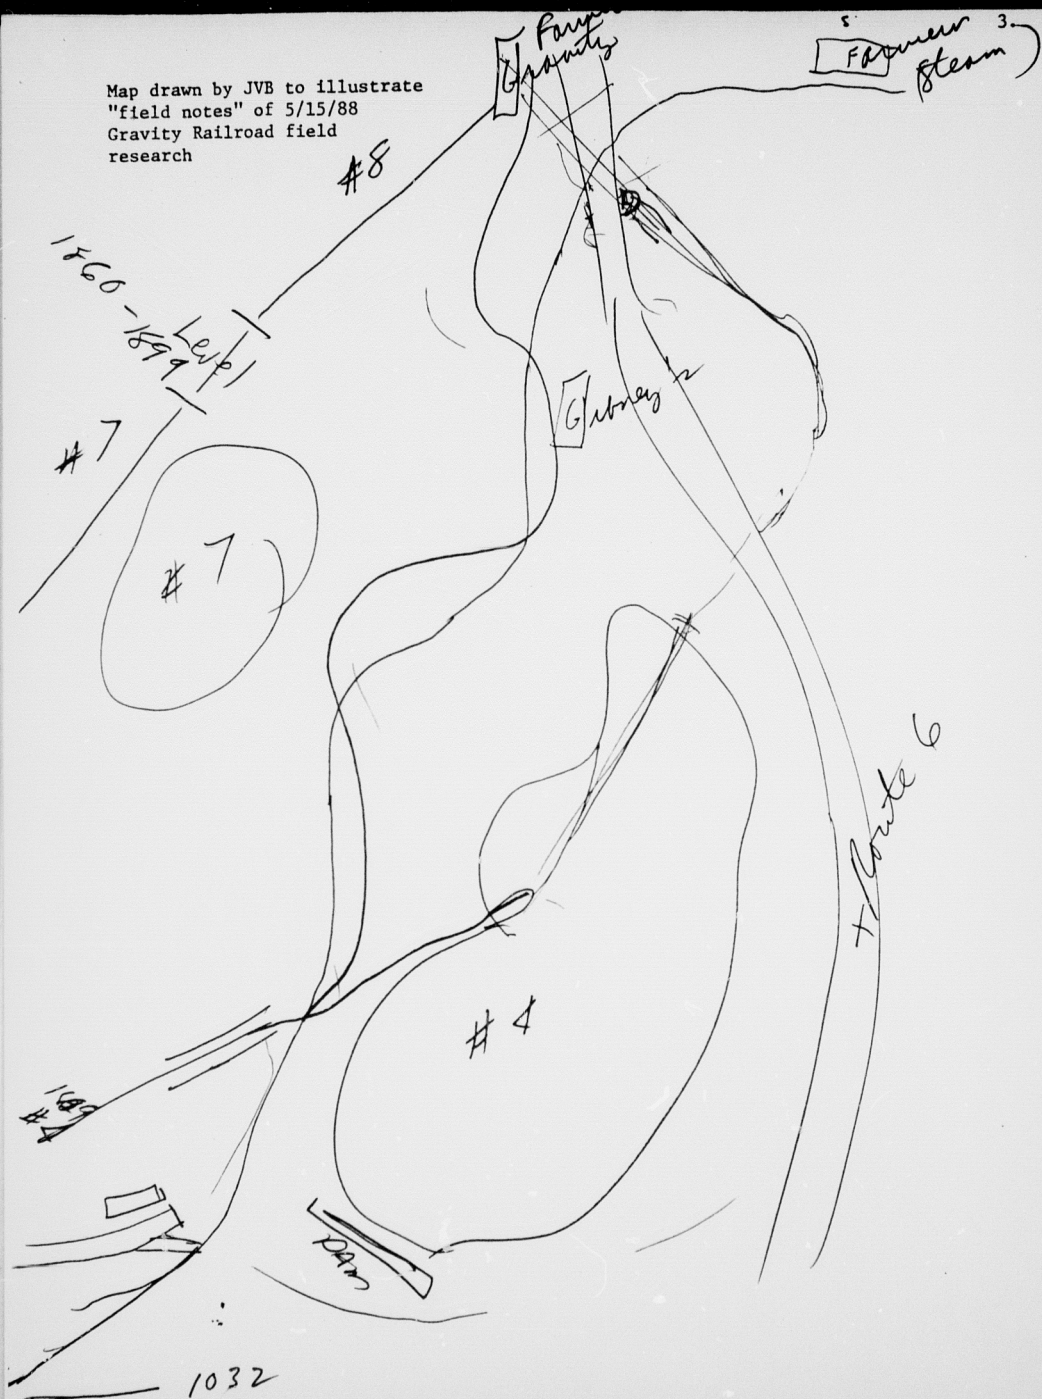

GRAVITY RAILROAD FIELD RESEARCH, May 15, 1988
John V. Buberniak and S. Robert Powell

1. Walked up the original (1829) Plane 4 to the top of the plane; investigated engine house area and foundations; found two more signed "Rufford Stourbridge" fire brick fragments; JVB located two similar bricks on 05-14-1988
2. Walked the level between the head of Plane 4 and the base of Plane 5 (part of the level is now under water in Number 4 Pond); just before the level enters the pond, it is surmounted by a major fill for the "light" track (later transformed into the steam line). How did the cars cross the Pond on the Level? Was there a trestle? When was the Pond constructed? JVB's father says that when Number 4 Pond was drained some years ago that you could see the roadbed in the base of the Pond. Did a plane begin at the far edge of the Pond?
3. The fill required for the steam line along the NE edge of Number 4 Pond was very probably obtained from digging out the area to the left of the top of Plane Number 4--and hence the vast pit/valley/excavation along the steam line roadbed at the edge of Number 4 Pond.
4. Walked the light track/steam line from the base of the level between 4 and 5 to just east of Number 7 Pond, where evidence of re-alignment of the light track (due to sharp curves) is to be seen. In at least 4 different locations, the grade has been modified to accommodate standard gauge steam locomotive traffic. The old light track crosses the steam line (which runs NE--SW) and heads toward Number 7 Pond, where it passes over a banked curvature almost directly below Number 7 Pond spillway (the roadbed curves in the direction of Number 4 Pond). It is on this banked curve that JVB believes that the photo of "passenger cars lined up on tracks in the snow" and the photo of "passenger cars lined up on tracks" were taken.
5. Walked on the light track/steam line from the curved banked track (described immediately above) all the way back to the point where it crosses the 1829 level between the head of Number 4 and the base of Number 5.
6. The steam line was double tracked only in certain areas, to accomodate two way traffic; passing sidings were used; one such passing siding is beside Number 4 Pond.
7. Got into car and drove to Plane 5 on the revised system (off of Number 7 Pond Road in White's Crossing); walked to where the light track crosses Number 5 Plane; there is a well known photograph of the crossing of the light and loaded tracks at the head of Number 5 Plane; walked up 5 all the way to the engine house area and then down the short level between the top of 5 and the base of 6; in the area of the engine house at 5, we dug through a pile of old bricks and found more of the "Rufford Stourbridge" brick fragments and also bricks marked "Hall and Bone" and "Eureka" and bricks made in Perth Amboy. JVB pointed out a stone-lined culvert in the area, with 6" of water flowing through it; was this a possible water supply source for engine #5?; the culvert is in excellent condition and is open; it is about 2 1/2 feet by 4 feet square and about 12 feet deep.
8. Excursion loop at the head of #5: to allow passenger cars to be transferred from the loaded track to the light track and then through Shepherd's Crook and back into Carbondale instead of proceeding all the way to Farview; loop appears in the 1914 copy of the NYO&W system chart map of Carbondale; drill and blasting marks on rocks in the excursion loop.

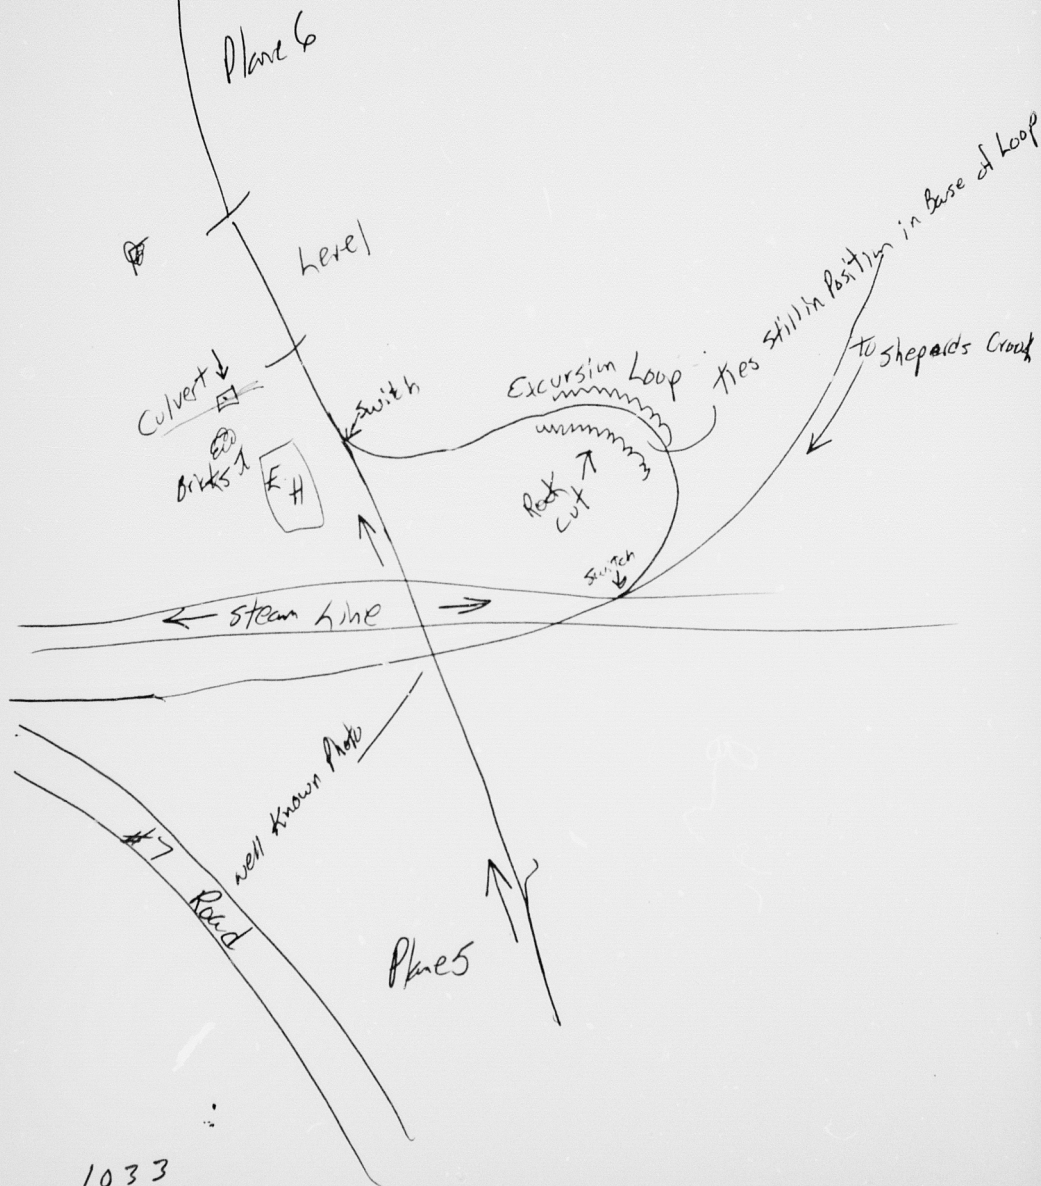

8. Went to Artesian Well and took photo of tunnel under level between 2 and 3; this level crossed the Racket Brook gorge; JVB located a tie plate and a 14" piece of wire rope and one metal bridge/trestle support plus an old signed pick head in the red ash embankment above the Artesian Well; also found in this area is an axel fragment.
9. Plane 4 (revised) crossed Route 6; Plane 5 (revised) was entirely on the left of Route 6 as one travels up the hill; Planes 5, 6 and 7 (revised) parallel Number 7 Road; it is possible that the Drycon (pronounced "Dearson") house, given its location, was Plane #7 engineer's house; it would be interesting to see the Drycon house deed.
10. The Norella Brothers now own much of the mountain; it would be interesting to see their deeds; the boundary lines probably use D&HCCO reference points.
11. Open and sparse vegetation at the head of the original #4 Plane, no major trees; this suggests that the area may have been fields or pastures at one time; there are fence posts and barbed wire in evidence in the area at present.
12. The levels and planes on the railroad system are frequently lined by stone walls which makes the location of roadbeds sometimes very easy to do; D&H property markers from the steam line surveying are to be seen in the area of Number 4 and Number 7 Ponds, one is seen with the inscription "D&H CO" (damaged).
14. The level area in White's Crossing near Railroad Street suggests that there may have been a small marshalling yard there in the steam era; were there small marshalling yards on the mountain? The DL&W had them.
15. Part of the difficulty, in some instances, in determining exactly where the planes and levels are located is the result of the almost continual revision/modification of the roadbeds during the operating days of the system.
16. Where did the D&H Gravity Railroad use tie plates? At the junction of the rails? Photos and other physical remains (in the excursion loop at the head of Plane 5 for example) suggest that rails were placed directly on the ties and spiked and not inserted in tie plates. JVB has at least 10 different kinds of Gravity Railroad tie plates in his collection; JVB even has one that one side of the plate fits Gravity Railroad rail and the other side is reduced for mine rail; JVB also has steam-era tie plates; JVB has one Gravity Railroad tie plate (found on the level between planes 1 and 2) where four rails come together for a switch.
17. Gravity Railroad beds are easily identified by the presence of coal and slag from the engine houses in the roadbeds; slag was produced by the stationary engines; coal chunks in various sizes can be readily found strewn along the roadbeds, as are Gravity Railroad and steam line spikes.
18. Old Number 7 Road is called such because it was probably the access road to the engineer's house (the Drycon house ?) at the top of Plane Number 7.
19. Where was the Rix property? The paved access road to former Camp David was the level from the head of Number 8 Plane to the Farview Station. This road passes through Rix's Gap.
20. The steam line crossed Route 6 twice: once at White's Crossing and once east of Gibney's (the roadbed is to be seen below the level of Route 6, on both sides of the highway).

NATIONAL RAILWAY HISTORICAL SOCIETY

P.O. BOX 151 CARBONDALE, PENNSYLVANIA 18407

Dear Chapter Member:

Through the generosity of the Carbondale Historical Society and Museum, Inc., a limited number of the posters from the Society's current exhibition, "Maps and Views of Carbondale and Vicinity," have been made available to the D&H Chapter of the NRHS.

I am pleased to present you with a copy of this beautiful poster. As you can see from the caption on the poster, the photograph by Johnson was taken in 1859 or 1860 from Plane 28 on the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company's Gravity Railroad. And so what you have before you is a rare photograph of the original D&H company town. It's interesting to imagine what daily life must have been like in such a peaceful looking village. Inasmuch as the photographer was standing on Plane 28 when he took the photograph, no signs of the railroad are visible. When the "light" track was ultimately built by the D&H, it would descend the hillside at the rear of the photograph, above the last row of houses, from upper left to upper right.

If you are interested in purchasing an unfolded copy of this photograph, they are available, at $5.00 per copy plus $1.00 for mailing. Just let me know if you want one and I will arrange to have one mailed to you.

I look forward to seeing you at the next D&H Chapter meeting, which will be held on June 8, 1988, at 7:30 P.M. in Room 301, Carbondale City Hall.

Yours truly,

John V. Buberniak

ELKDALE CEMETERY ASSOCIATION TO MEET

The annual meeting of the Elkdale Cemetery Association will take place on Saturday, June 4, 1988, at 1:00 P.M., at the former Elkdale Baptist Church building in Elkdale, Clifford Township.

The Elkdale Cemetery was established shortly after the first settlers arrived in Elkdale in 1802, and the earthly remains of many of the early settlers of Clifford Township are interred in the Cemetery. The oldest tombstone in the Cemetery is that which marks the grave of Persis Stevens, who died on September 20, 1817.

During the second and third decades of the nineteenth century, the following burials took place: Samuel Arnold, 3/27/1826; Daniel D. Spencer, 11/3/1830; Mary A. Phelps, 3/22/1833; Charlotte Harding Foster Meredith, 1835; Jason Rogers, 7/1/1838; Mary Ann Faulkner, 8/6/1838; James Bruce, 8/27/1838; Reubin Arnold, 10/1/1838; James Wells, Sr., 1839. Beginning in 1840, interments in the Elkdale Cemetery took place frequently.

On June 10, 1933, the Elkdale Cemetery Association was formed at a meeting at the Elkdale Baptist Church, Elkdale, that was chaired by James A. McAlla. At that meeting, the following officers and directors were elected: L. J. Wells, President; Mrs. James A. McAlla, Secretary-Treasurer; Will Rolls, Treasurer; G. A. Peck, Glen Wells, James A. McAlla, J. B. Stevens, and Wallace McAlla, Directors.

invited to attend.]*

The meeting of the Elkdale Cemetery Association on June 4, 1988, at 1:00 P.M. will be chaired by the present Secretary-Treasurer of the Elkdale Cemetery Association, S. Robert Powell. For additional details on the Elkdale Cemetery or details on the Annual Meeting, contact S. Robert Powell at 679-2979.

5/17/88-

Drove to Stanton yesterday after Blue Ridge and bought two 50 pound bags of "Economy Breeder" Purina pigeon feed at City Feed on Keyser Avenue; then to Miller's Agway in Clark Summit, where I purchased some Lamb's Ear, Evening Primrose and Rudbeckia ("domestic" Black-eyed Susan). Returned to Elkhart and planted perennials for about 45 minutes, including the ones I purchased on Sunday at the greenhouse near Hawley. Very satisfying. Nearly all of the available space in my garden is now planted, although I can certainly find room for many more plants. Then I fed and watered the birds and went into Carbondale to the Historical Society Monday work session. JVB and SKP moved all of JVB's Gravity Railroad artifacts into City Hall - 3rd floor. Lots of weight - enormous weight of all that iron. JVB's ridiculous father insisted that JVB remove all <sup>JVB's</sup> his collection from 46 Canaan Street. What a philistine JVB's father is. JVB, SKP, Hank & John K. then attached labels and processed for mailing the approximately 400 (8 1/2 x 11") envelopes containing the map poster and cover letter. The 400 recipients are the participants in the conference that John K. attended at Saratoga Springs last year.

5/17/88 - as I was examining my flower garden at about 6 P.M., OWP drove into the yard and presented me with a "palace pot" that he made in Ceramic class at Wilkes College this semester. It's a beautiful 18" tall "peony" vase - it strikes me as Egyptian in appearance - floral aspect / lotus blossom. It reminds me of an Egyptian Column's Capital. The base is shaped like a quiche pan with a detachable base, in which the vase was made. OWP reported that he has several of his palace pots on display at the Homestead at present. I put the vase on the lyre table.

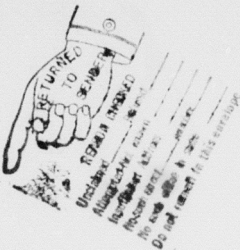

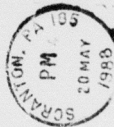

The OWP visit was pleasant. His feisty / attack mode seems to have subsided somewhat. Still no discussion on the map show catalogue.

Dear Robert

I am favorably disposed to sell you a mailing list for out-of-area subscribers for use by the Historical Society, but I don't want to sell either the local or out-of-area list to the library.

I might change my mind if I knew the library's purpose. I am assuming it is to solicit funds. Probably there are better sources of names for their purpose. (City directory, for example.)

Tell me when you need the out-of-area labels.

Sincerely yours,

The disappearing stonewalls

A guest column
by Marilyn Price Lockwood

Where are they going? Why are they being sold? Is there no compassion left for them, these old friends of ours, who have seen so much history in the making?

The British have their hedgerows and we Susquehanna County people have our stonewalls - silent sentinels standing guard over our pastures and fields. But alas came progress--- big money for "OLD STONE WALLS".

Let's make a buck--What good are these piled up old rocks anyway?

Have you ever tried to build a stonewall? I have -- and mine looked crooked, sagged in the middle and fell down.

So I bought a book and it said "1 over 2 and 2 over 1". It's as simple as that. So I went to work. I kept telling myself 1 over 2 and ---. Well, the theory sounds good--sounds simple enough. But it's an art--you have to get it right or it won't hold tight; and you'd better get the heating pad out because your back will be killing you.

Some of our forefathers spent so much time and labor building them--how dare we tear them down just for the "green stuff" And besides they are beautiful--artists paint them. They are legal boundary lines-- deeds refer to them all the time; they are as long lasting as the pyramids in Egypt, if left undisturbed.

And what about all the new stonewalls that we are building in front of our houses and along our driveways?

Well, look at them they're just not the same. Try climbing over one, or walking along the top of one, and the thing will probably fall over, unless someone has cheated and put mortar in to stick it together.

Selling stonewalls is like selling your blood; you'll get money for it, but you will never get it back. Well, you say "no problem" my body can make more blood--true. But it would take a mighty work force to re-make all the stonewalls that have been sold out of our county-- and now they're tearing down the old laid-up bridge abutments--what next?

Travel around the country. Susquehanna county is one of the loveliest places to be found in any land-- LET'S PRESERVE SOME OF IT!!!

1- letter from Alberta Micheli
1- fly report (FTA) received from } 5/19/88
Ed Young

I am very pleased to be on Alberta Micheli's mailing list, as it were. The letter that I received is a form letter with a personal note on the bottom, plus a "Dear SRP-" at the top. I am coming to the belief that the entire state of Pennsylvania knows me as "SRP." Very amusing. I am also interested and pleased to know that Alberta Micheli and Kathryn Wells spoke on the phone about SRP; also that Kathryn Wells knows of my work in Maplewood Cemetery (probably through her nephew, Jim Wells). What I must do is take some photos of the Cemetery in Elkdale as it appears / will appear on Memorial Day, and send prints to Kathryn Wells and Alberta Miheli so that they will know that all is well, very well, in Elkdale. Naturally I will mail copies of all press clippings to both ladies. De plus, I will draw up an Elkdale Cemetery mailing list.

[Rec'd, 5/19/88]

Dear SRP-

Just a note to let you know my father and I moved into a lovely 4-room apartment, just a few doors from where I lived before.

Our address is:

124 North Abington Road
Clarks Green, PA 18411
Phone 717-586-4994

This has been a big change for both of us -- but especially for him. He was in the hospital for a month during the winter for removal of his gallbladder. He sold his home that he built 44 yrs. ago, sold his car since we moved, and I'm sure he's not very happy. But, the apartment is downstairs, so he can get outside and sit on the deck, etc. We have taken our cat with us and she is adjusting well and keeping him company.

So, if you're in the area, come see us -- or give us a call.

Incase you should have need to contact me, you will know how to do so.

I spoke on the phone with Kathryn Wells Sat. and she told me she had sent you a copy of the Cemetery deed w/ Jimmy (her nephew), and she spoke of the work you had done in connection w/ the Cemetery between C'dale & Simpson.

Do take care of things in Eldale!

GRADUATE SCHOOL

Dear Dr. Powell:

Once again we invite you to contribute to the Graduate School Alumni Fellowship Fund for deserving students who have special research or creative-project needs. We think a number of alumni found last year's plea for salamander traps intriguing. Maybe this year the student who needs to visit the one laboratory--in Canada--where he can learn a technique vital to his research will appeal to you. Or perhaps the anthropologist who requires tape to record interviews will stir memories.

Limited funds may be of some advantage to the Graduate School staff. When the money is gone, we have an easier job. We do not have to defend our judgments, and we can avoid uncomfortable issues. It is easy, for example, to eliminate the request from a student who needs to pay a foreign official for access to research subjects. "No money for minions, no bribes for bureaucrats" sounds lofty. But although one country's bribe may be another's customary gratuity, we do not have to address the issues. In truth, of course, we would agonize a lot less if we could support many more of our students. Indeed, we would be happy to have to assess our "No money for minions" policy. And if you will help us reach that point, we will write to tell you how we resolve it.

Many alumni responded to our last letter, and we were delighted--especially when they also contributed. But we were pleased to hear from all of our former students. Those who wrote us that their discretionary income is currently supporting undergraduate education--a daughter's or son's--bear witness that there is indeed life, and even money, after graduate school. Again we urge you to share some of the latter with our present students. When one of our science students is just managing to feed her- or himself each month, feeding several laboratory animals is out of the question--unless we help. When a historian or a classicist must borrow money to cover the rent, buying microfilm may seem as impossible as flying to Rome to view the original documents--unless we help. The Graduate School carefully scrutinizes and ranks each request for Alumni Fellowships. We have to say no to many deserving students. Please help us to say yes.

Sincerely yours,

ENCOMIUM Jay J. Sara

Each community is blessed with individuals who provide positive influences by work and deed.

Carbondale has been blessed by one such Individual - tonight's honoree, Jay J. Sara.

Mr. Sara's lifelong service to his community and country has been exemplary; thus, tonight's affair.

Born in Carbondale on March 15, 1918, Mr. Sara was educated in the Carbondale school system and has spent most of his life here.

After serving military duty in Australia and New Guinea with the 32nd Red Arrow Division, a National Guard Unit based in Wisconsin and Michigan, Mr. Sara returned to his native city and started a lifelong commitment to local veteran affairs.

Mr. Sara has been an instrumental part of many local veteran activities and accomplishments.

During the last 25 years, Mr. Sara has served as Chairman of the Memorial Day Committee and through his position, has overseen a number of Memorial Park projects.

Through the cooperation of various veterans groups, Mr. Sara has overseen the erection of a number of military monuments.

In 1950, The Carbondale Memorial Committee erected the monument honoring the veterans of The Spanish American War, World War I and World War II.

In '63, Mr. Sara and local organizations erected a monument honoring the late Lt. Joseph Samoski, local Congressional Medal of Honor recipient.

Ten years later, a monument honoring the Korean and Vietnam veterans was erected.

More recent veteran activities in the park include a "Veterans Honored" area which include three flag poles and a veterans nameplate area.

Upon the death of a local veteran, flags are flown at half mast and the honoree's name is placed on the nameplate.

Mr. Sara also was instrumental in organizing an honor guard and firing squad who provide military honors to deceased members.

In addition to these projects, Mr. Sara also spearheaded the complete restoration and renovation of the 100 year old Civil War Monument in cooperation with Carbondale Historical Society and was chairman for the placement of mortars in the park.

The Jay Sara dinner: 5/21/88

a great triumph for Jay Sara — dozens of plaques and proclamations and presents from "everyone," "le tout Carbondale," as it were. Thank goodness Jay lived until the dinner: he is presently suffering from a half dozen horrible diseases / maladies and apparently does not have long to live. after the dinner, the presentations took place and Jay did not respond until they were all given. at that point he said:

"When I was being discharged from the service, the officer in charge told me not to go back to our hometown and expect everyone to make a big deal over us because we had served in the war and he told us not to expect our communities to take care of us because we had served in the war.

Rather, he told us to go back to our hometown and <sup>to</sup> get involved with them in every way that we could and make them better places to live in. Well that's what I did, that's what I've done with my life. And I'm glad to know that there are other people in Carbondale who feel as I do about their hometown. As I look around this room tonight, I see at least two people who are also

3.
giving them all to try and make Carbondale a better place. I see Esther Singer and I see Bob Powell, and I'd like to have both of them stand up now so that you can give them a big round of applause ... " Esther & I stood up and received a very nice ovation. What a lovely thing for Jay Sara to do - to hand out bouquets, or it were,
at a testimonial dinner for himself.
His remarks took me completely by surprise and I must say that I was a bit weak in the knees for a few moments. The event was, in a word, a great personal triumph for SRP.

I was also very pleased to see that <sup>4.</sup> the Historical Society is mentioned in the Encumbrance at the beginning of the program booklet for the evening:
"... Mr. Sara also spearheaded the complete restoration and renovation of the 100 Year old Civil War Monument in cooperation with the Carbondale Historical Society ..."

As soon as the program was over,
I quietly and quirkily slipped out and floated home on the business of the SRP and CHSM triumph.
The several hundred other guests headed toward the open bar and prepared to dance and socialize.

5/22/88

Mrs. Mary Stephanitis (who lives in the trailer in Elkdale) stopped at Elkdale at 11 A.M. and asked for my help in putting the American flags on the veterans' graves in the Elkdale Cemetery. I willingly helped. We put out about 10 flags.

Mrs. Stephanitis is also in charge of putting out the flags in the Dundaff Cemetery and in the Union Dale Cemetery. She is a nice person.

PS: Also, please make an additional deposit into your Savings Account for future premium withdrawals, as we may not repeat this reminder.

Randy Barnhardt is the student at Blue Ridge who put gum in my thermos in mid April, 1988.

<sup>in mid-May</sup>
I overhears one student tell another the above fact —

Randy, as it turns out, is a nice guy, and I'm sure that he feels "repentant" for having done so.

5/20/88 - Torrential rain last night - the culmination of three days of rain - now heavy / now moderate. The Tinker Creek was roaring away this morning.
No lawn / hay field around the Church grew about three inches taller in the past couple days. Not a problem.
I will beat it into submission sometime next week or possibly over this weekend. No rain, of course, have benefitted enormously my garden. If only I had my cistern in operation during these rains - I could easily have filled at least 6 forty-gallon drums with rain water. I, V and I, and possibly others, will mow all of Maplewood Cemetery next week. I will take no substitute teaching calls - unless it rains - and devote the week to grass cutting.

5/20/88 - Chaos structured and solved, resolved - Resolution. Slowly but surely the clouds lift and the disparate elements are fused into meaningful - new and positive - new. Which does not by any means mean that tout est bien but it does mean that the light appears now / is appearing at the end of the tunnel. Donned announced at the CHS&M meeting last night that his disgusting wife and he have finally signed papers which will terminate their marriage - possibly to be effective in three weeks. Wow!
that is a joyous moment. DePleur, DAP delivered to me the final copy of the Catalogue for the map show now on view in the CHS&M's gallery in Carbonado City Hall and Courthouse. Hopefully "the Catalogue" will be a physical reality before the DAP marriage is cancelled / dissolved.

Dill & Christine's visit: 5/28-29/88

On Saturday morning at about 11 A.M., as I was at work in the garden, Dill & Christine drove into the yard. Perfect timing, as I was all set to receive them. We did a tour of the gardens and bird houses and poultry yards and then came in for breakfast. I thought that they would arrive in mid- to late-morning, and as they arrived some French bread that I made was just about finished baking. The aroma of bread baking filled the building and created a wonderful welcome — their arrival happened exactly as I had hoped. We had breakfast/lunch: SRP canned tomato juice, breakfast sausage, "fresh country eggs" fried (I allowed Christine to pick the eggs that were layed just <sup>2.</sup> moments before their arrival), raw fried potatoes and <sup>ceylon</sup> tea. JVB arrived about a half hour after B+C did and that was grand — I was hoping that he would come by. Breakfast was a grand success and we sat at the table for a couple hours, at least. B+C then went up to Fern Hall and checked in; JVB returned to Carbondale and SRP straightened up and prepared for the evening meal — a cookout on the Elksdale lawn at 8 P.M. I set the dining room table with beautiful China and silver and crystal and made all the necessary preparations. about 6 P.M., my guests began to arrive. B+C, JVB, Peg, Hank, SRP.

+ Shannon

John selected the site for the fire and <sup>3.</sup> got it going; I carried out folding chairs for us all to sit on. I then sent my guests to the woods to select a stick on which to cook their own hot dogs. We all then had a hot dog or two (as course #1).
JVB brought some fresh shrimp and they were put on to boil next, along with a wild parsnip or two for flavoring (dug up by JVB across from the Church). When the shrimp were cooked, in a few minutes, we all had some & they were lovely. Next it was sweet corn (which Hank brought) <sup>and it</sup> was cooked and we all had an ear. The Corn was especially good as it was cooked in the shrimp water. When the <sup>4.</sup> corn <sup>course</sup> was over, we then returned to hot dog grilling. Peg brought some wonderful hot potato salad and we had that from the very beginning. I had a couple of large bottles of Cabernet sauvignon and SOB brought some beer &

so we had liquid refreshments.

For dessert I made a pumpkin pie <sup>→ OELR's recipe</sup> and also a rhubarb pie; <sup>→ FORP's recipe</sup> and Hank brought some fudge. It was a grand event and everyone had a good time. Richard Dubermiak and Jim Abelkevich (his cousin) were passing by and stopped for a while.
The evening was clearly under SRP's direction, and I gave it my best. StC, at my urging, held forth on their experiences in China. It was a beautiful summer night and everything came off perfectly. By about midnight all of my guests had taken their leave, and then I cleaned up - which took a couple hours. Naturally I was anxious about the open fire and I poured all the dish water and then some on the fire site.

On Sunday morning, again as I was working in the garden, the SSC pulled in the yard. They wanted to go see the herd of buffalo at West Clifford and away we went. From there they drove me into Carbonade, where I picked up the SSC money and then gave them a tour of City Hall. We then walked down to Mister Donut and purchased some <sup>6.</sup> coffee and went to Memorial Park &

"took tea." The Yepsom passed by on their way from after church breakfast at Bob McDonnell's Restaurant; Howard and Bill had a detailed talk about piano & piano tuning.
Susan Stephen passed by on her way to the "Pride in Carbondale" picnic. D+C dropped me off here at Elkdale in mid-afternoon and they returned to Fern Hall. at 6 P.M.
they picked me up and took me to dinner at Fern Hall, which is a beautiful place but which is run by the very sophomoric Trish & Billy Robinson, who are so unspeakably and unbearably pretentious in every thing that they do that it

7. laughable. They think they are being very aristocratic & upper class in their behaviour & in how they run their "inn" — they understand what they are desperately / frontally trying to do about as well as a bunch of 8th graders who are trying to perform Richard III. It is all quite laughable.

We three had an amusing time at dinner — now and then making jabs at "Trish & Billy" to make sure that they realized that there are some people in this world who know what's what. When we had finished eating (nice China) we took a walk on the grounds — which are lovely.
Very baronial. DHC asked what teenagers do in this part of the country on the weekends. S.R.P.: "Many of them drive around the streets of Carbondale and look at each other." B+C wanted to have a look at "the scene" and so we drove into town and had a look. Very amusing. At about midnight they dropped me off at Elkdale & we said farewell. On Monday morning they got up and began their trip back to NYC. It was a very pleasant visit. They especially enjoyed my chicken farm. I gave them  $1\frac{1}{2}$  dozen of farm-fresh eggs when they left. They were delighted.

Understanding AIDS

A Message From The Surgeon General

This brochure has been sent to you by the Government of the United States. In preparing it, we have consulted with the top health experts in the country.

I feel it is important that you have the best information now available for fighting the AIDS virus, a health problem that the President has called "Public Enemy Number One."

Stopping AIDS is up to you, your family and your loved ones.

Some of the issues involved in this brochure may not be things you are used to discussing openly. I can easily understand that. But now you must discuss them. We all must know about AIDS. Read this brochure and talk about it with those you love. Get involved. Many schools, churches, synagogues, and community groups offer AIDS education activities.

I encourage you to practice responsible behavior based on understanding and strong personal values. This is what you can do to stop AIDS.

What AIDS Means To You

AIDS is one of the most serious health problems that has ever faced the American public. It is important that we all, regardless of who we are, understand this disease.

AIDS stands for acquired immunodeficiency syndrome. It is a disease caused by the Human Immunodeficiency Virus, HIV—the AIDS virus.

The AIDS virus may live in the human body for years before actual symptoms appear. It primarily affects you by making you unable to fight other diseases. These other diseases can kill you.

Many people feel that only certain "high risk groups" of people are infected by the AIDS virus. This is untrue. Who you are has nothing to do with whether you are in danger of being infected with the AIDS virus. What matters is what you do.

People are worried about getting AIDS. Some should be worried and need to take some serious precautions. But many are not in danger of contracting AIDS.

The purpose of this brochure is to tell you how you can, and just as important, how you can't become infected with the AIDS virus.

Your children need to know about AIDS. Discuss it with them as you would any health concern.

How Do You Get AIDS?

---

There are two main ways you can get AIDS. First, you can become infected by having sex—oral, anal or vaginal—with someone who is infected with the AIDS virus.

Second, you can be infected by sharing drug needles and syringes with an infected person.

Babies of women who have been infected with the AIDS virus may be born with the infection because it can be transmitted from the mother to the baby before or during birth.

In addition, some persons with hemophilia and others have been infected by receiving blood (see page 3).

Can You Become Infected?

Yes, if you engage in risky behavior.

The male homosexual population was the first in this country to feel the effects of the disease. But in spite of what you may have heard, the number of heterosexual cases is growing.

People who have died of AIDS in the U.S. have been male and female, rich and poor, white, Black, Hispanic, Asian and American Indian.

How Do You Get AIDS From Sex?

The AIDS virus can be spread by sexual intercourse whether you are male or female, heterosex-

"Obviously women can get AIDS. I'm here to witness to that. AIDS is not a 'we,' 'they' disease, it's an 'us' disease."

— Carolé has AIDS

ual, bisexual or homosexual.

This happens because a person infected with the AIDS virus may have the virus in semen or vaginal fluids. The virus can enter the body through the vagina, penis, rectum or mouth.

Anal intercourse, with or without a condom, is risky. The rectum is easily injured during anal intercourse.

Remember, AIDS is sexually transmitted, and the AIDS virus is not the only infection that is passed through intimate sexual contact.

Other sexually transmitted diseases, such as gonorrhea, syphilis, herpes and chlamydia, can also be contracted through oral, anal and vaginal intercourse. If you are infected with one of these diseases and engage in risky behavior (see page 3), you are at greater risk of getting AIDS.

What About Dating?

Dating and getting to know other people is a normal part of life. Dating doesn't mean the same thing as having sex. Sexual intercourse as a part of dating can be risky. One of the risks is AIDS.

How can you tell if someone you're dating or would like to date has been exposed to the AIDS virus? The bad news is, you can't. But the good news is, as long as sexual activity and sharing drug needles are avoided, it doesn't matter.

You are going to have to be careful about the person you become sexually involved with, making your own decision based on your own best judgment. That can be difficult.

Has this person had any sexually transmitted diseases? How many people have they been to bed with? Have they experimented with drugs? All these are sensitive, but important, questions. But you have a personal responsibility to ask.

Think of it this way. If you know someone well enough to have sex, then you should be able to talk about AIDS. If someone is unwilling to talk, you shouldn't have sex.

Do Married People Get AIDS?

Married people who are uninfected, faithful and don't shoot drugs are not at risk. But if they engage in risky behavior (see page 3), they can become infected with the AIDS virus and infect their partners. If you feel your spouse may be putting you at risk, talk to him or her. It's your life.

"Talk to your teenagers about AIDS. It is primarily a sexually transmitted disease. So if you're going to talk about AIDS, there's no way you can avoid talking about sex."

— Sally Jue
AIDS Counselor

What Is All The Talk About Condoms?

Not so very long ago, condoms (rubbers or prophylactics) were things we didn't talk about very much.

Now, they're discussed on the evening news and on the front page of your newspaper, and displayed out in the open in your local drug-store, grocery, and convenience store.

For those who are sexually active and not limiting their sexual activity to one partner, condoms have been shown to help prevent the spread of sexually transmitted diseases. That is why the use of condoms is recommended to help reduce the spread of AIDS.

Condoms are the best preventive measure against AIDS besides not having sex and practicing safe behavior (see page 3).

But condoms are far from being foolproof. You have to use them properly. And you have to use them every time you have sex, from start to finish. If you use a condom, you should remember these guidelines:

(1) Use condoms made of latex rubber. Latex serves as a barrier to the virus. "Lambskin" or "natural membrane" condoms are not as good because of the pores in the material. Look for the word "latex" on the package.

(2) A condom with a spermicide may provide additional protection. Spermicides have been shown in laboratory tests to kill the virus. Use the spermicide in the tip and outside the condom.

(3) Condom use is safer with a lubricant. Check the list of ingredients on the back of the lubricant package to make sure the lubricant is water-based. Do not use petroleum-based jelly, cold cream, baby oil or cooking shortening. These can weaken the condom and cause it to break.

"Condoms can be most effective when they are used correctly, and there is a right way and a wrong way to use one. Always use a latex condom."

— Drew Sisselman
AIDS Volunteer

You Won't Get AIDS From Insects—Or A Kiss

No matter what you may have heard, the AIDS virus is hard to get and is easily avoided.

You won't just "catch" AIDS like a cold or flu because the virus is a different type. The AIDS virus is transmitted through sexual intercourse, the sharing of drug needles, or to babies of infected mothers before or during birth.

You won't get the AIDS virus through everyday contact with the people around you in school, in the workplace, at parties, child care centers, or stores. You won't get it by swimming in a pool, even if someone in the pool is infected with the AIDS virus. Students attending school with someone infected with the AIDS virus are not in danger from casual contact.

You won't get AIDS from a mosquito bite. The AIDS virus is not transmitted through a mosquito's salivary glands like other diseases such as malaria or yellow fever. You won't get it from bed bugs, lice, flies or other insects, either.

You won't get AIDS from saliva, sweat, tears, urine or a bowel movement.

You won't get AIDS from a kiss.

You won't get AIDS from clothes, a telephone, or from a toilet seat. It can't be passed by using a glass or eating utensils that someone else has used. You won't get the virus by being on a bus, train or crowded elevator with a person who is infected with the virus, or who has AIDS.

The Difference Between Giving And Receiving Blood

1. Giving blood. You are not now, nor have you ever been in danger of getting AIDS from giving blood at a blood bank. The needles that are used for blood donations are brand-new. Once they are used, they are destroyed. There is no way you can come into contact with the AIDS virus by donating blood.

2. Receiving blood. The risk of getting AIDS from a blood transfusion has been greatly reduced. In the interest of making the blood supply as safe as possible, donors are screened for risk factors and donated blood is tested for the AIDS antibody. Call your local blood bank if you have questions.

What Behavior Puts You At Risk?

You are at risk of being infected with the AIDS virus if you have sex with someone who is infected, or if you share drug needles and syringes with someone who is infected.

Since you can't be sure who is infected, your chances of coming into contact with the virus increase with the number of sex partners you have. Any exchange of infected blood, semen or vaginal fluids can spread the virus and place you at great risk.

RISKY BEHAVIOR

- Sharing drug needles and syringes.
- Anal sex, with or without a condom.
- Vaginal or oral sex with someone who shoots drugs or engages in anal sex.
- Sex with someone you don't know well (a pickup or prostitute) or with someone you know has several sex partners.
- Unprotected sex (without a condom) with an infected person.

SAFE BEHAVIOR

- Not having sex.
- Sex with one mutually faithful, uninfected partner.
- Not shooting drugs.

The Problem Of Drugs And AIDS

Today, in some cities, the sharing of drug needles and syringes by those who shoot drugs is the fastest growing way that the virus is being spread.

No one should shoot drugs. It can result in addiction, poor health, family disruption, emotional disturbances and death. Many drug users are addicted and need to enter a drug treatment program as quickly as possible.

In the meantime, these people must avoid AIDS by not sharing any of the equipment used to prepare and inject illegal drugs.

Sharing drug needles, even once, is an extremely easy way to be infected with the AIDS virus. Blood from an infected person can be trapped in the needle or syringe, and then injected directly into the bloodstream of the next person who uses the needle.

Other kinds of drugs, including alcohol, can also cause problems. Under their influence, your judgment becomes impaired. You could be exposed to the AIDS virus while doing things you wouldn't otherwise do.

Teenagers are at an age when trying different things is especially inviting. They must understand how serious the drug problem is and how to avoid it.

Drugs are also one of the main ways in which prostitutes become infected. They may share needles themselves or have sex with people who do. They then can pass the AIDS virus to others.

For information about drug abuse treatment programs, contact your physician, local public health agency or community AIDS or drug assistance group.

AIDS And Babies

An infected woman can give the AIDS virus to her baby before it is born, or during birth. If a woman is infected, her child has about one chance in two of being born with the virus.

If you are considering having a baby, and think you might have been at risk of being infected with the AIDS virus, even if it was years ago, you should receive counseling and be tested before you get pregnant.

You must have a long talk with the person with whom you're planning to have a child. Even if you have known this person for a long time, there's no way to be sure he or she hasn't been infected in the past, possibly without realizing it. That person needs to think hard and decide if an AIDS test might be a good idea. So should you.

"I quit using drugs five years before my baby was born. I didn't know I was infected with AIDS until he was diagnosed. You have to find out."

— Carmen Reyes

Talking With Kids About AIDS

Children hear about AIDS, just as we all do. But they don't understand it, so they become frightened. They are worried they or their friends might get sick and die.

Children need to be told they can't get AIDS from everyday contact in the classroom, cafeteria or bathrooms. They don't have to worry about getting AIDS even if one of their schoolmates is infected.

Basic health education should be started as early as possible, in keeping with parental and community standards. Local schools have the responsibility to see that their students know the facts about AIDS. It is very important that middle school students — those entering their teens — learn to protect themselves from the AIDS virus.

Children must also be taught values and responsibility, as well as skills to help them resist peer pressure that might lead to risky behavior. These skills can be reinforced by religious and community groups. However, final responsibility rests with the parents. As a parent, you should read and discuss this brochure with your children.

What Does Someone With AIDS Look Like?

It is very important that everyone understands that a person can be infected with the AIDS virus without showing any symptoms at all.

It is possible to be infected for years, feel fine, look fine and have no way of knowing you are infected unless you have a test for the AIDS virus.

During this period, however, people infected with the AIDS virus can pass the virus to sexual partners, to people with whom drug needles are shared, and to children before or during birth. That is one of the most disturbing things about AIDS.

Once symptoms do appear, they are similar to the symptoms of some other diseases. As the disease progresses, they become more serious. That is because the AIDS virus keeps your body's natural defenses from operating correctly.

If you are concerned whether you might be infected, consider your own behavior and its effects on others. If you feel you need to be tested for the AIDS virus, talk to a doctor or an AIDS counselor for more information. (See below.)

"You can't tell if someone has been infected by the AIDS virus by looking at him or her. But you aren't in danger of getting the disease unless you engage in risky behavior with someone who is infected."

—Anthony S. Fauci, M.D.
Director, National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases and Coordinator of the National Institutes of Health AIDS Research

Is There A Cure For AIDS?

There is presently no cure for AIDS.

Medicines such as AZT have prolonged the lives of some people with AIDS. There is hope that additional treatments will be found.

There is also no vaccine to prevent uninfected people from getting the infection. Researchers believe it may take years for an effective, safe vaccine to be found.

The most effective way to prevent AIDS is avoiding exposure to the virus, which you can control by your own behavior.

Should You Get An AIDS Test?

You have probably heard about the "AIDS Test." The test doesn't actually tell you if you have AIDS. It shows if you have been infected with the virus. It looks for changes in blood that occur after you have been infected.

The Public Health Service recommends you be confidentially counseled and tested if you have had any sexually transmitted disease or shared needles; if you are a man who has had sex with another man; or if you have had sex with a prostitute, male or female. You should be tested if you have had sex with anyone who has done any of these things.

If you are a woman who has been engaging in risky behavior (see page 3), and you plan to have a baby or are not using birth control, you should be tested.

Your doctor may advise you to be counseled and tested if you are a hemophiliac, or have received a blood transfusion between 1978 and 1985.

If you test positive, and find you have been infected with the AIDS virus, you must take steps to protect your partner.

People who have always practiced safe behavior (see page 3) do not need to be tested.

There's been a great deal in the press about problems with the test. It is very reliable if it is done by a good laboratory and the results are checked by a physician or counselor.

If you have engaged in risky behavior, speak frankly to a doctor who understands the AIDS problem, or to an AIDS counselor.

For more information, call your local public health agency. They're listed in the government section of your phone book. Or, call your local AIDS hotline. If you can't find the number, call 1-800-342-AIDS.

Helping A Person With AIDS

If you are one of the growing number of people who know someone who is infected, you need to have a special understanding of the problem.

No one will require more support and more love than your friend with AIDS. Feel free to offer what you can, without fear of becoming infected.

Don't worry about getting AIDS from everyday contact with a person with AIDS. You need to take precautions such as wearing rubber gloves only when blood is present.

If you don't know anyone with AIDS, but you'd still like to offer a helping hand, become a volunteer. You can be sure your help will be appreciated by a person with AIDS.

This might mean dropping by the supermarket to pick up groceries, sitting with the person a while, or just being there to talk. You may even want to enroll in a support group for caregivers. These are available around the country. If you are interested, contact any local AIDS-related organization.

Above all, keep an upbeat attitude. It will help you and everyone face the disease more comfortably.

"If you want more information about AIDS or what you can do to help, contact your physician, community organizations in your area, or the local public health agency."

—James O. Mason, M.D.
Director, Centers for Disease Control

Do You Know Enough To Talk About AIDS? Try This Quiz

It's important for each of us to share what we know about AIDS with family members and others we love. Knowledge and understanding are the best weapons we have against the disease. Check the boxes. Answers below.

1. If you are not in a "high risk group," you still need to be concerned about AIDS.
☐ True ☐ False
2. The AIDS virus is not spread through ☐ A. insect bites.
☐ B. casual contact.
☐ C. sharing drug needles.
☐ D. sexual intercourse.
3. Condoms are an effective, but not foolproof, way to prevent the spread of the AIDS virus.
☐ True ☐ False

4. You can't tell by looking that someone has the AIDS virus.
☐ True ☐ False
5. If you think you've been exposed to the AIDS virus, you should get an AIDS test.
☐ True ☐ False
6. People who provide help for someone with AIDS are not personally at risk for getting the disease.
☐ True ☐ False

ANSWERS

1. True. It is risky behavior that puts you at risk for AIDS, regardless of any "group" you belong to. See page 2.
2. A & B. The AIDS virus is not spread by insects, kissing, tears, or casual contact. See page 3.
3. True. However, the most effective preventive measure against AIDS is not having sex or shooting drugs. Condoms are discussed in detail on page 4.
4. True. You cannot tell by looking if someone is infected. The virus by itself is completely invisible. Symptoms may first appear years after you have been infected. See page 5.
5. True. You should be counseled about getting an AIDS test if you have been engaging in risky behavior or think you have been exposed to the virus. There is no reason to be tested if you don't engage in this behavior. See page 5.
6. True. You won't get AIDS by helping someone who has the disease. See page 7.

← Oops! — Dear SRP:

It's a pleasure to finally sit down to answer your estimable letter of January 15. I've been meaning to do so since it's arrival, and in fact it has been sitting on the tiny ledge of space to the left of my computer, as a reminder, but time is often hard to come by.

Going down the page, let me respond:

1. Regarding the Ten Ren's tea and your thank-you: You're very welcome. I hope the time of libation has chimed happily. I myself found a delicious gunpowder tea in a Middle East food store -- probably Lebanese -- on Atlantic Avenue the other month. Christine, reading Jane Brody's Nutrition Book, reports that overconsumption of tea leads to constipation, so perhaps your abstention has been wise. (As if you could abstain from tea.)
2. Regarding the WSJ clippings: once again, you're very welcome.
3. Regarding my course in advanced expository writing, your quote about man's condition enchainé: touché. However, it has led to a most wondrous pass, of which more in a moment. At present I will to continue responding to your letter. Let me say, though, that after a while I stopped attending, handed in my stuff at the end, and received an A. However, the instructor was my friend, after all.
4. I was moved to read your account of your first aesthetic experience, or "'aesthetic experience' of a work of art". In response, let me quote from a little-known masterpiece:

"That makes me think back to a first time I had," Sam said, "the first time I experienced something beautiful. I just thought of it now, for the first time in years. When I was six, I went to summer camp for three weeks. I was in Bunk One. The three weeks were exciting and scary in a lot of ways. I didn't sleep well the last night. I woke up just at dawn. The window over my head was all purple, and I had never seen sunlight that color, so I got out from under my covers to investigate, as quietly as possible, not wanting to wake anyone, especially the counselor, in case

I wasn't supposed to be out of bed that early. The bed was too soft when I stood on it and I sank down, so even on tiptoes I couldn't reach the window. But the purple light was so compelling I had to see it. I hooked my toes on the part of the iron frame that curved just over the top of the mattress, flush against the wall, pulled on the window sill with all my might, and all of a sudden I had a view outside. The trees and bushes, and the lawn, the normally dark blue pond, the rec hall which was always recognizable for its tall white walls, everything, was bathed in purple light. It was the first dawn I had ever seen. I even asked myself, Is this the dawn? Am I really at a dawn? Is this what it looks like at dawn? The world looked so different, was it a different world? But no, it was the same world I had left outside the night before, only a different color. How could something be the same and different all at once? It wasn't until years later that I realized what it was all about, that I had seen beauty for the first time, or had been allowed to see it, that's how awesome it always feels, that something can be so familiar and so new at the same time.<sup>1</sup>

But to return to the main feast, your description of simultaneous experiences of different realities -- I had forgotten about your work on autonomous-aesthetic phenomena, which I've never been permitted to see anyway -- is surely explains more that the foregoing does. It's been a long time since we've talked, SRP, and I recall falling asleep in your car on the way back from the fair, a memory which dogs and perturbs me.

5. Regarding your remarks anent my letter to Bernard Holland. Nothing came of it, though it did earn me high marks from the teachers in school who saw it. (I can't remember if I wrote about that in whatever letter accompanied it to you.) I don't write complaint letters as much as I used to. HOWEVER, with my trusty word-processor I have prepared a dual batch of form complaint postcards, one of which is addressed to David Gunn, President of the Transit Authority, and the other to the Straphangers Campaign, a citizen's gadfly group that monitors the subways, which you may know about already, and when I see something on the trains I don't like, I whip out one of each, write the same complaint on each (a postscript on the bottom of each card explains that a copy is going to the Straphanger's Campaign), take two stamps from the same envelope and get

1. Waking Moments, by WBW, p. 214

my complaint registered in the nearest mailbox. The transit police commander for northern Manhattan was kind enough to call me at my office the other day.... there

6. I am most gratified to hear that your winged creatures (I hope I remember to go back and fill the ~~two~~ accent marks this letter thus far contains ) "are all very well". I very much look forward to the possibility of an omelet, or whatever style the house is pushing these days. Homemade sausages, too? Do you knead your own bread?
7. If I can suspend the mirth for a moment, I'm sorry to read about Donald's unhappiness. I am sure he's bearing it as well as anyone, which is only a partial consolation.
8. Finally, thank you for the excellent photographs. I always think of myself as too fat, and I don't care too much for my posture either. But I enjoy the memories immensely.

On to new news.

My Crompton project continues apace. It's better named my Lamburn project, because his real name was John Battersby Crompton Lamburn, and you are presently reading a letter from the world's expert on him. There's a lot more to learn, too. And the most interesting development is that on Thursday (in two days, which, even optimistically, is the earliest you will receive this letter) I am having lunch with the executive editor of Audubon magazine to discuss my article. I am as nervous as a crocus in a spring blizzard. (Does that work? You're the pastoralist of the two of us.) This is in response to my query letter and a subsequent phone call. He wouldn't waste his time with a lunch if he weren't extremely interested. I've been "on hold" at Smithsonian for quite some weeks, too.

Not long after hearing from you, I called Lamburn/Crompton's present (re-)publisher, and the same evening wrote him, coming out of the woodwork, as it were. I asked if he would be interested in a book, and he said he would be, but would like to see my article first. So an article in Audubon would be a major first step to something major, and then I have other plans too, which need not be unfolded just yet. In the best case, I'll get the article, and perhaps an advance on a book that can bankroll a trip to England this summer. Will I live to regret these words? Perhaps. Perhaps I should have waited to write until after Thursday, but I have wanted to answer your letter and the time presented itself.

By the way, Lamburn in addition to writing his natural-science books, also authored about ten novels in the thirties under the name "John Lambourne". I've read five so far; they're excellent, and one is quite wonderful, The Kingdom that Was.

I've given away the store. I hope the follow-up news will be as good.

Regards to Donald and to your folks, and to yourself.

JUNE STORM TRACKS

*And what is so rare
as a day in June?*

Then, if ever, come perfect days.

—James Russell Lowell,

The Vision of Sir Launfal

On June 21, the sun stands directly over the Florida Straits and northern Mexico. The path of storms across North America reflects its increasing heating influence by migrating north. The jet stream, that ribbon of fast westerly wind separating polar air masses from warm tropical air, shifts north away from the source of heat. Entering the continent over central British Columbia, it pursues an undulating course eastward, passing over the southern part of Hudson Bay before heading for the Icelandic-Greenland low pressure center. The jet stream's southern component, so prominent in early spring, disappears as the Hawaiian high pressure area migrates to near 45 degrees north where it protects California, Oregon, and Washington from ocean-born storms.

Disturbances from the Aleutian area and the Gulf of Alaska are steered by the jet stream east across central Canada, and only their trailing cold fronts affect the United States. Weaker storms continue to form over the northern Great Plains in the lee of the Rocky Mountains, then move east-northeast over the Great Lakes and along the St. Lawrence Seaway, but they lack the vigor and energy of spring-time storms.

Weather forecasters now look more to the south for signs of storminess. The tropics are stirring again. Hurricane season officially begins on June 1, though the frequency of these southern disturbances remains low throughout the month of June. The region where tropical storms are born now lies in the Caribbean Sea and the Gulf of Mexico, not in the broad Atlantic where hurricanes are bred later in the summer. But June storms can be deadly. In 1972, Hurricane Agnes stemmed from a minor blow in the Gulf of Mexico into the costliest storm ever. Its devastating rains took a high flood toll in the Middle Atlantic states on June 21 and 22. And Hurricane Audrey smashed ashore on the western Louisiana coast on June 27, 1957, inundating the Cajun country around Cameron and taking 390 lives.

PLANETARY OPPOSITION

Planet activity this month features the opposition of three of the most distant major objects in our solar system—Uranus, Saturn, and Neptune. On June 20, both Uranus and Saturn will be on the opposite side of the earth from the sun. This means that they will rise at sunset and set at sunrise, and will be on our overhead meridian at midnight—ideal conditions for viewing both of these planets. Saturn will be at magnitude 0.0, equal to a very bright star. Nearby Uranus will be at its brightest magnitude of 5.5 but still just perceptible to the unaided eye. A set of good binoculars will greatly improve viewing of the dual planets.

Neptune will follow this performance when it moves into opposition on June 30, appearing directly overhead at midnight at 7.9 magnitude. Another far-off planet, Pluto,

Almanac

at a weak magnitude of 14, was in opposition recently on May 1.

As for the nearer planets, Jupiter rises about an hour before the sun this month and fades rapidly in the dawn's early light. Mars appears about four hours before the sun, and will increase in brightness during the coming weeks. Mercury and Venus will be too close to the sun this month for easy viewing.

LOW MOON

There's a saying for this time of year: sun high, moon low. The moon reaches the most southerly point in its monthly orbit around the earth on June 1 when it will be 28 degrees south of our equator. Meanwhile, the sun reaches north to 23 degrees 26 minutes at the solstice. Since the moon, when full, is on the opposite side of earth from the sun, it appears low in the south as it follows its shifting orbit around us. Fourteen days later our satellite will be in the high part of its orbit in its new-moon phase. Then it will be practically invisible for a few hours because it cannot reflect any sunlight to us in its position almost directly between the earth and sun.

This month's full moon goes by several names. The most popular is Strawberry Moon since this incomparable delicacy comes to the table in June. Others prefer Rose Moon or Flower Moon, though these names are equally fitting in other months. And some proponents call it the Honey Moon. This name may derive from the many marriages that take place in June, of course. But the unromantic note that the low full moon shining through a thicker slice of our polluted atmosphere has a honey-like shade.

The moon will be full on June 29 at 3:37 p.m., and it will rise at close to 9:00 p.m., Eastern Daylight Time, for those residing between 40 and 45 degrees north. ◇

Carbondale, Pa.

JUNE 1988

Dear Members of Berean Baptist Church:

On Sunday, June 26, 1988, we will present to you a candidate for the position of Pastor.

He is Gordon S. Wilson (age 56, married), currently Pastor of a dual church. He is a graduate of the Eastern Baptist Seminary with a Master of Divinity Degree. He was Pastor at the Trinity Baptist Church in Scranton for 14 years, leaving that church after it merged in 1985.

The Pastoral Search Committee attended a Sunday service and afterwards met with his wife Joan.

We found him to be a dynamic person for Jesus Christ and dedicated to his profession.

The Committee is recommending him as a candidate and he has accepted our invitation.

We are planning a covered

PERSONAL NARRATIVE

Given below is the "Personal Narrative" section of Reverend Wilson's "Personnel Profile," as filed with the American Baptist Churches of Pennsylvania and Delaware:

PERSONAL NARRATIVE

As a child and teen I regularly attended Sunday Church School and accepted Jesus Christ as my personal Lord and Savior. In my late teens I felt the call of God to Christian ministry as a pastor.

I believe in a personal God who is beyond time and space who created the world and made us in His own likeness and image. Sin came in through disobedience and all have sinned. Because of His love for us God sent Jesus Christ to die for our sins and be our Savior, helper and friend. The Bible is the inspired word of God and the revelation of God's dealings with people through history. It also is God's word to us today. I accept the traditional doctrines of the Christian faith.

The Church today is a continuation of the ministry of Jesus. Just as He taught, brought salvation and hope to people in His time, so we as the Church, the Body of Christ must minister in His name to the whole world.

The laity are more important in the ministry of the Church than the pastor. They should be encouraged to discover their gifts and take leadership positions in the church and community.

The pastor is to be the enabler and helper rather than dish meal immediately after the Morning Worship Service on June 26, 1988, in order for you to get acquainted with Gordon and Joan Wilson.

I am not sure as to the legality of calling for a vote after the meal, but because Berean will join with the other Protestant churches in Carbondale for Union Summer Services, I would like to be able to have a vote on the 26th.

Please make every effort to attend and be a part of this experience of selecting a Pastor to lead us in the years to come. The Pastoral Search Committee has gone through several profiles of candidates and felt that Reverend Wilson would be the first one to contact.

May God be with us as we consider not only the selection of a Pastor, but also help us to grow in love and Peace one with the other.

The Pastoral Search Committee, (signed) Merle Morgan
Chairman

the answer-person. We should help people set goals for church growth and program needs. There must be a balance between preaching, administration and visitation. The pastor is to serve all the people and help create a non-judgmental attitude of love and acceptance.

In Lorain, OH we went through a relocation and building program. At Green Ridge, Scranton, PA we participated in an envisioning process which led three congregations to unite to form a new Church. The skills I learned in these experiences have been helpful to me in my ministry.

My wife Joan has been very supportive of my ministry and has been active in Church School, choir, and American Baptist Women as well as Church Women United.

I am a member of the Sharon Lions Club and the National Railway Historical Society.

WHY ATTEND CHURCH REGULARLY

After several years in the ministry, I've heard a few of the reasons for not attending church. Like, "the roof will cave in," "someone said something that hurt me," or "I can worship God out in the woods or at home or wherever." Yes, there have been a lot of reasons given for not attending church, but I think the real reason is that "I don't know what the church is all about."

A time for sharing (1973-1988)

In 1988, American Baptists celebrate 15 years of participating in the One Great Hour of Sharing offering. Since 1973, the American Baptist World Relief Committee has made grants which have helped people in 47 states of the United States and in 75 other nations of the world. During this period, American Baptists have contributed more than $18.4 million providing response for emergency needs and support for longrange development.

The list below reflects some of the ways your One Great Hour of Sharing gifts have supported new beginnings. The examples listed illustrate how your "undesigned" gifts have been used creatively to meet the needs of others. Church World Service's capacity to respond flexibly in the future is largely made possible by gifts given with "no strings attached."

- $5. . . . a hoe for a farmer in Democratic Kampuchea
- $10. . . . two pounds of cabbage seed for a family in Zaire
- $20. . . . polio vaccine for 40 children in Latin America
- $70. . . . a tube well for irrigation in India

OUT AND IN

(Deut. 6:23; 11:24)

Thou hast brought us out of the bondage of sin,
Out of the darkness we wandered in,
From self and pride and defeat set free,
A new creation, O Lord, in Thee.

A plentiful harvest

How plentiful the harvest that has known the blessings of good land, good weather, good seed, and the good work of the farmer.

Church World Service has been helping the world's farmers improve yields and increase food supplies for more than 40 years.

Water resource development, better seed and fertilizer, construction of farm-to-market roads, and formation of local organizations that promote the welfare of farm families are all important. But the key to success is the involvement of people.

Partners in God's new creation

One Great Hour of Sharing

Thou hast brought us out of all these things,
That we might mount on eagle's wings;
Above earth's sordid sights and sound,
To live where victory is found.

Thou hast brought us out to bring us in,
To the land of promise, battles to win;
To walk by faith and not by sight,
Till we're called to walk with Thee in white.

Wherever the sole of thy foot shall tread,
Thou shalt possess, our Lord hath said;
Be of good courage, be not afraid,
Have we wholly followed the Lord and obeyed?

The unsearchable riches of Christ, can it be
They are for you, they are for me?
In Christ all things are yours, 'tis true.
Why is it we really possess — so few?

serious illness or death, especially death).

Now I know you are sharp and are probably thinking, "but church is such a bore" (of course you are too kind to say that). The truth of the matter is we need this fellowship with each other to grow as Christians and sometimes the things that hurt are what really may help us to grow. Don't let someone drive you out of your own church with dull preaching or with stinging comments. We need to hear the old, old story over and over again. There is no excuse for dull preaching when we're telling the greatest story ever told, but on the other hand, church is not primarily spiritual entertainment, and those participating in church are not out to get an "Oscar."

I beg you to give our church a chance this June. You'll be so glad you did! Let's go over 100 every Sunday. We'll be so glad we did!

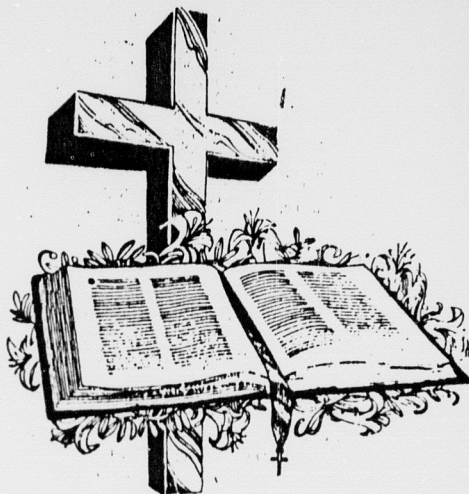

And thank you for your support.

Former resident and her husband appointed as missionaries to Bolivia

On April 5, 1988 the Board of International Ministries of the American Baptist Churches in the USA appointed the Rev. and Mrs. Stephen Crane as career missionaries to Bolivia.

They are the first to be sent by American Baptists into South America and will be working with the Bolivia Baptist Union to reach the Aymara Indians of Southern Bolivia and the Quechua peoples of Northern Bolivia.

Mrs. Crane is the former Francesca (Missy) Wilbur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Keenan, former residents of Susquehanna. Missy's home church is the First Baptist Church, Jackson Ave., Susquehanna.

Steve and Missy's ministry will finish in Coshocton, Ohio on June 26. They will arrive in Cochabamba, Bolivia, at the end of August or early September. Their first assignment will be to learn the languages and culture. They have requested prayers as they make the necessary preparations for their departure.

Farm and Rural Community Crisis

ONE GREAT HOUR OF SHARING

In life, there are some questions that are rather clear cut. Let me list some. Is there a God? Yes----, No----. Is God Good? Yes----, No----. Great? Yes---- No----. Did God send Jesus, His Son, to be our Saviour? Yes----, No----. Did Jesus die for our sin, and did God raise him from the dead? Yes----, No----.

You see, if we answer these questions, yes, as I think most church members do, then Christianity is the greatest experience that a human being can have in this life. The church is the place where we experience the reality of the Christian faith together. If God is who we say he is, and if He did what we say he did, then giving him at least one or two hours a week is just basic common sense. So you see, irregular church attendance means that somehow we have answered no to one of the above questions (Exception, in case of

6/2/88 - substitute day 123

Mr. Kostek / OR

I need a day or two of substituting in order to get my brief case / desk organized and in order to get caught up, somewhat, with my "journal."

5/25/88 - SRP drove to Hazelton and delivered my 1987 "journal" to micrographics international for re-microfilming. With great relief, I inserted the "missing" section of my journal (which was found at micrographics) into the "whole" in my possession.

Pam said that it would be ready on 6/1/88; I phoned on 1129 6/1/88 and Pam reported that the girl who was to do the job was out all week because she was getting married. Pam now reports that the job will be ready on 6/8/88; while in Hazleton on 5/25/88, I picked up the three rolls of microfilm (Sundoff newspapers) that the CHS&M is having duplicated for the Susquehanna County Historical Society. (Microfilm

"originals" put back in the SRP/DWP/HLRP vault in the First National Bank on 6/1/88).

Slowly but surely, the world's work gets done.

6/3/88 —

one of my "Chicks" laid an egg — a new Hampshire pullet & think it was. Amazing — 4½ months old. A second egg was laid three days later. Beautiful birds.

The 1988 birds are just now arriving at maturity, and they are very beautiful, the hen especially. Hen house #1 is now a "hen" house; hen house #2 is now largely (although not exclusively) a "cock" house. The cocks must all be housed separately or they will kill each other. That is true only

Elkdale Cemetery holds remains of early settlers

The annual meeting of the Elkdale Cemetery Association will take place on Saturday, June 4, at 1:00 P.M., at the former Elkdale Baptist Church building in Elkdale, Clifford Township.

The Elkdale Cemetery was established shortly after the first settlers arrived in Elkdale in 1802, and the earthly remains of many of the early settlers of Clifford Township are interred in the Cemetery. The oldest tombstone in the Cemetery is that which marks the grave of Persis Stevens, who died on September 20, 1817.

During the second and third decades of the nineteenth century, the following burials took place: Samuel Arnold, 3/27/1826; Daniel D. Spencer, 11/3/1830; Mary A. Phelps, 3/22/1833; Charlotte Harding Foster Meredith, 1835; Jason Rogers, 7/1/1838; Mary Ann Faulkner, 8/6/1838; James Bruce, 8/27/1838; Reubin Arnold, 10/1/1838; James

Wells, Sr., 1839. Beginning in 1840, interments in the Elkdale Cemetery took place frequently.

On June 10, 1933, the Elkdale Cemetery Association was formed at a meeting at the Elkdale Baptist Church, Elkdale, that was chaired by James A. McAlla. At that meeting, the following officers and directors were elected: L.J. Wells, President; Mrs. James A. McAlla, Secretary-Treasurer; Will Rolls, Treasurer; G.A. Peck, Glen Wells, James A. McAlla, J.B. Stevens, and Wallace McAlla, Directors.

The meeting of the Elkdale Cemetery Association on June 4, 1988, at 1:00 P.M. will be chaired by the present Secretary-Treasurer of the Elkdale Cemetery Association, S. Robert Powell. All interested persons are invited to attend. For additional details on the Elkdale Cemetery or details on the Annual Meeting, contact S. Robert Powell at 679-2979.

Cousin Robert -

Thank you for calling the Warhola's last Saturday - The iron was NOT on after all!

This recipe is, of course, for Hank Loftus.
You seem to be my intermediary in all sorts of ways these days.

Come visit - either in Germyn or at Appakeepsink.

Cousin Peg

P.S. Aunt Louise would have been 78 today!

Dear Dr. Powell:

School districts are faced with the need to call on substitute teachers at a moments notice. Your help as a substitute teacher during the 1987-88 school year is appreciated. On behalf of the Blue Ridge Board and Administration, I want to thank you for your help during the past year. Our substitute staff has provided a needed service to Blue Ridge students by continuing the educational program during the absence of the regular teacher.

We look forward to contacting you during the 1988-89 school year, and you can accept this letter as a reasonable assurance that we will be calling you to substitute as the need arises.

Yours truly,

Joseph Leonardo

Dear Mr. Powell:

As the 1987-88 school year draws to a close, I would like to thank you for serving as a substitute in the Mountain View School District.

We will look forward to having you continue on the Mountain View School District's substitute list for the next school year and you can accept this letter as a reasonable assurance that we will, in fact, be calling you to substitute again next year.

Sincerely,

6/9 - dropped off, enfin, the DWP catalogue at PDQ printing; DWP had the nerve to call for about 10 changes (on Wednesday night) in the pasted down final copy! I made them and said nothing. also on 6/9/88, I drove to Hazleton and picked up the microfiche edition, enfin, of my 1987 journal.

6/10 - DWP, Edith Gardner, Gertrude Smyder & SRP visit Alice & Norman Lund in Seelyville - to make initial plan for the 1988 Clinton Center Pioneer Day (8/21). Alice served in home-made apple pie - which was a grand success.

Canning / Preserving

6/10 - made 7 pints of black raspberry / peach jam (about 3 quarts of berries + 2 quarts of sliced peaches + about a quart of sugar).

6/11 - harvested about 70 sprays of sage (now drying in "the Cube" - wonderful aroma), and harvested 2 cups of tarragon leaves (which I added to a quart of white vinegar & which will age for a month or so to become tarragon vinegar).

6/11/88 - at about noon, I heard Alvin Seaman on his tractor coming down the hill. I went out and signaled to him that I had something to say to him. He pulled right over, and I put one hand on the <sup>left</sup> rear tire of the tractor and said: "If I can help you in any way with your hayin, I'll be glad to." Alvin, of course, had no way of knowing that such an offer would come from me. Without skipping a beat he said: "We'd appreciate it." We made the arrangements —
I would help un-load the wagon at the barn with Sandy and
"the boys" (Joshua & Clyde). The bailing would begin this afternoon.
Alvin asked how the pigeons &

the chickens were doing. "Just fine," said I. "I've got 7 tipplers up now." We scanned the sky and I finally located the kit — at a good height (but not pin points). AS: "They must be a quarter mile up, maybe higher." SRP: "It looks like good hay this year." AS: "Beautiful. If the weather holds and we get this hay in the barn, it'll be the best hay I've ever had in all the years I've been farming." The meeting lasted about 4 or 5 minutes.

I am very glad I walked out and volunteered my services. I am very fond of the Seaman family, and am interested in being a good neighbor. Alvin and Sandy are very dedicated and hard working people and it is a pleasure to lend a hand as they make hay.

3-5 PM - Bunching in the sheaves.
I heard the first load of bales coming down the hill (Alvin's baler throw the bales directly into a wagon & Sandy driver the wagon to the barn - where Joshua & Clyde stack in the barn & Sandy un-load the trailer onto the elevator) and went out and climbed aboard - on the tractor, and away we went. In no time we were at the barn and Joshua & Clyde were glad to see me again—my last visit to the Seaman farm was on 11/27/87 (about 6½ months ago). Sandy unloaded onto the elevator & Joshua & Clyde & I were in the barn. I pretended I didn't know how to go about stacking the hay and asked the boys "to make sure I didn't make any mistakes and followed their orders." They both grew several inches before my eyes as they explained how we would proceed. A very Charming Scene and I loved it.

I rode back to the field in the empty wagon, and that was a pleasure. I was able to get a good look at the houses and properties between the Seaman farm and the top of the hill.

Naturally, I waved to passing motorists - one invariably does from hay wagon. at the field I helped hitch up the loaded wagon and Alvin then drove the tractor & wagon out onto the highway - a tricky process and one that Sandy did not want to do. Once the tractor & wagon were out on the highway Sandy took over & Alvin went back to the baling machine and tractor. This time I rode on top of the loaded hay wagon — which gave me an aerial perspective on "my" building and grounds. Very interesting. We unloaded.

Joshua is a very thin little boy and Clyde is a very fat little boy. Clyde is more outgoing. I like them both, but I prefer Joshua to his brother. Two loads (100 bales/load) was all that was to be done this afternoon — that was all that could be done today but vast quantities will be ready to bale tomorrow.

Sandy offered to drive me back her when we had finished but I <sup>7.</sup> declined the offer and walked.

I said I would be around to help tomorrow and Sandy thanked me warmly for my help today.
I was about 20 steps out of the Seaman's driveway when I heard
Alvin coming along on the tractor.
He pulled over and said - "Thanks for your help." SRP: "It's a pleasure.
I'll jump aboard the first load of hay that I see go by tomorrow."
I returned to Elkdale on foot.

I have wanted to - re-establish contact with the Seaman family for months now, and am very glad that I did so today. I would love to be the proverbial "fly on the wall" at <sup>S.</sup>

the Seaman' farm this evening and hear what is said about
S. Robert Powell there tonight.

Just for the record, my other visits to the Seaman' farm, <sup>or with Alvin</sup> were on the following dates:

— 9/9, 9/23, 9/28, 10/6, 11/7, 11/27

amazing — today was only my 7th contact with them. I have the feeling I have known them a long time.

Nan Waters/Carbondale Area

Searching for 'roots'

"If you've ever become involved in tracing your family history - and many of us have, since 'Roots,' - you know what an expensive and time-consuming project it can be.

One morning last week the mail brought a request from Cathy Schultz of Benicia, California, who was in Carbondale recently looking into her ancestry. She had planned to visit our office, but didn't.

I wish she had. Genealogy fascinates us, particularly when the family she is tracing was named Waters.

She is especially interested in Evan Jay Waters, whom she believes was born in Carbondale. (Obviously her great grandfather). He was born Oct. 1, 1843, and died in Roundmountain, Blanco County, Texas, Jan. 17, 1919 of heart trouble. He was a blacksmith and mechanic by trade.

At the age of 18, on Sept. 21, 1861 he enlisted in the 77th Pennsylvania Infantry and served, obviously, in the Union Army during the War between the States. He rose to the rank of sergeant in Company G.

Discharged Jan. 6, 1866, he migrated to Blanco County and married Pamela Catharine Bartlett, fifteen years his junior. They had six children, all born at Roundmountain: Rachel Ann, Lilly May, David, Edna, Willie and Evan.

All Cathy Schultz knew was that her great grandfather was born somewhere in Pennsylvania. She thought in Carbondale. We checked the Scranton office of Vital Statistics, which has no birth records before 1906. Lackawanna County has none before 1895.

She wondered what became of Evan Waters' parents, David and Mary Ann Jones Waters, who were born in Wales. Since my family came from England, I'm sure there was no connection. She thought perhaps they might have followed their son to Texas.

Although she has amassed a plethora of information about her family - and this happens to you, because you feel you KNOW these people personally once you get into the search - she must be expending a lot of time and money looking for even more.

Earlier this week we sat here at our word processor, writing about Cathy and her search, for today's column, hoping there might be someone out there who could help her, even though we're going back 145 years to Evan's birth.

Hanging on the wall, right in front of us, is the picture of downtown Carbondale as it was in 1859 or 1860, reproduced on a poster and being sold by the Carbondale Historical Society.

Good grief, we thought. Maybe Evan Waters even lived in one of those houses in the photo. And then the light dawned.

Once again, we called Robert Powell of the historical society. He never fails us. Within 24 hours he had found some records on Mary Ann Jones Waters.

She is buried in Maplewood Cemetery in Carbondale, although her name is listed as Waters. (Waters are usually Scottish, not Welsh). However, her nationality is listed as Welsh.

According to Powell's cemetery records, she gave birth to a son, probably stillborn, Nov. 3, 1848. She died the following day, Nov. 4, at the age of 36, in "child bed," as the record states. Her body was interred in Maplewood Cemetery two days later, Nov. 6.

The bottom line here is that Carbondale Historical Society will go to great lengths to help anyone tracing family records. Its rooms on the third floor of City Hall are open from noon to 3 p.m. every Wednesday. Its address is Box 151, Carbondale, PA. 18407.

As far as our own involvement in the Schultz search...this is just one more courteous service this family newspaper provides for people. Even from as far away as California.

Thank you, Nan.
